Arbutus

The 1940 Arbutus, published by the students of Indiana University at Bloomington, Indiana, has attempted in these pages to portray life on Indiana's campus. Another volume is added to the colorful history of Indiana University in its year of greatest growth. Here is recorded not merely a record of the year's events, but a composite picture of people and places that make up the ever-growing, dynamic institution that is Indiana University.

Early days at In 1820

Indiana foresaw in its first constitution in 1816 its need for a state school of higher learning; and thus Indiana University had its beginning. It was not until four years later that this clause in the constitution became a reality; in that year an act of the General Assembly authorized the establishment of a State Seminary.

A building to house the Seminary was constructed southwest of the present square by 1824, and in May of that year school was opened. Foundation Day is recognized even now as the first Wednesday in May.

Ten boys answered the roll on the opening day and the first professor, Rev. Baynard Hall, teaching Greek and Latin, conducted the classes.

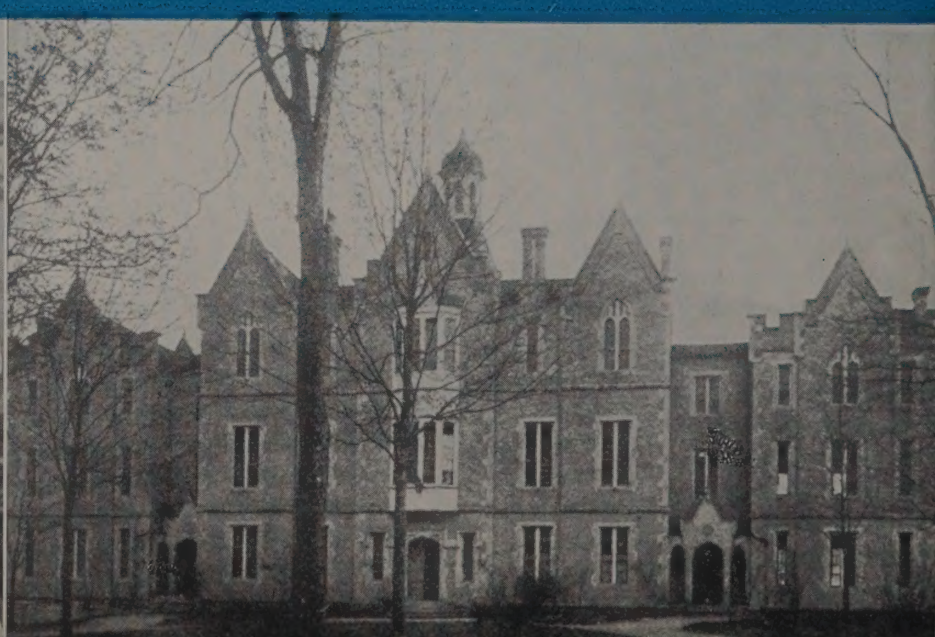

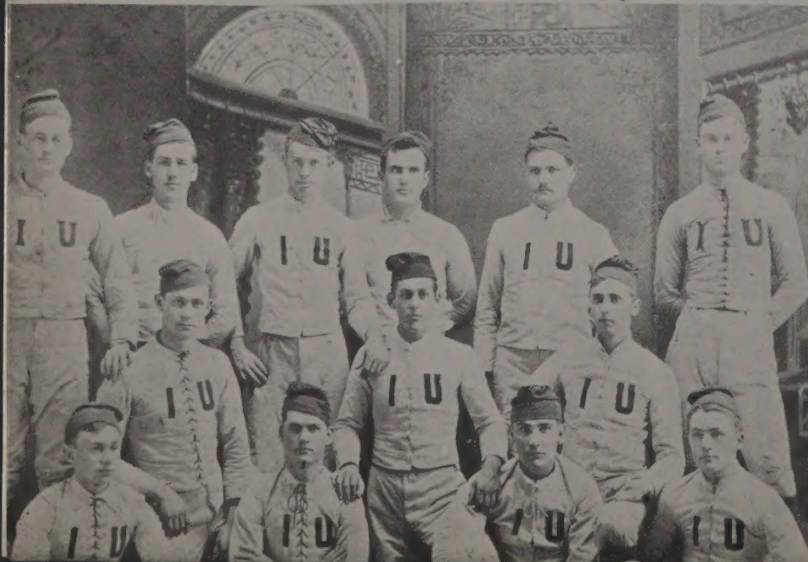

The name was changed to Indiana College in 1828 by the General Assembly, who also granted permission to award additional degrees. The first college building was completed eight years later, but was destroyed by fire in 1854. Indiana College became Indiana University on Feb. 15, 1838. Four years after the founding of the School of Law in 1842, the Assembly acted to recognize the University as the "University of the State".

Miss Sarah Parke Morrison was the first woman to be graduated from Indiana University, entering in 1867 when the school was made co-educational, and receiving her degree two years later.

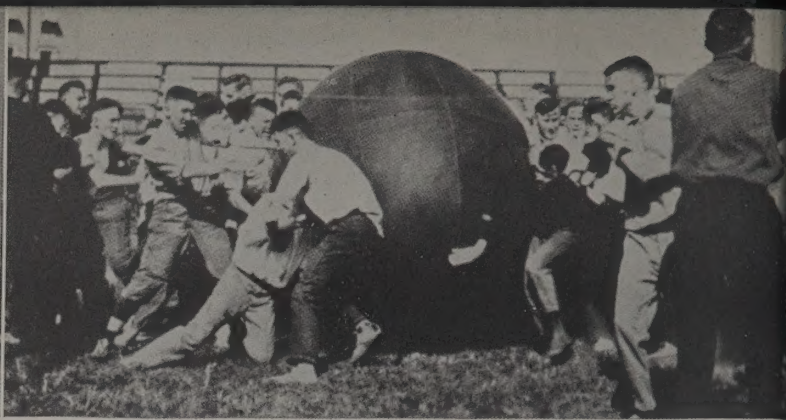

Because of the lack of space for expansion the University was ordered moved in 1883. The new location, known as "Dunn's Woods", is the site of the present campus, and during the next twelve years Wylie, Owen, Maxwell, and Kirkwood Halls were completed. The Hoosiers played their first football game in 1888 against Butler University with Evans Woolen as coach. Baseball had been a popular sport among the students almost since the founding of the University.

Construction continued to keep pace with the growth of the University, and by 1905 the Men's Gymnasium, later renamed Assembly Hall, the old Powerhouse, now the home of the Indiana Daily Student, Kirkwood Observatory, Science Hall, the new Powerhouse, the Student Building and a wing on Maxwell Hall had been added to the University. During this decade summer school and the Medical School in Indianapolis, had been instigated. The Indiana athletic teams became affiliated and started their career in the Western conference, later named the Big Ten.

By 1910 the School of Education had been authorized, Biology Hall constructed and the University Water Works completed. The following year Robert E. Long Hospital in Indianapolis was constructed in connection with the Medical School. In the same year the first basketball team was organized.

The new Men's Gymnasium was ready for use in 1917, and a new building for the School of Medicine in Indianapolis was finished. During the next two years the School of Commerce and Finance, later called the School of Business, and the School of Music were authorized.

In 1925 Memorial Hall, Memorial Stadium, the Business Administration Building, and South Hall had been completed, and the University continued to grow at a greater rate than construction could be completed. By 1930, the Fieldhouse and a wing to the Library had been added.

During the next two years the Chemistry Building and the Memorial Union Building were dedicated. Construction again boomed as the Administration Building, the Music Building, and Forest Hall were completed in 1936. And by 1938 the School of Medicine Building in Bloomington, the Stores and Service Building, and a wing to the Union Building were finished. Assembly Hall, after yearly threats

It was apparent that the campus was expanding eastward, for during 1939 the new Business Building and the Auditorium were begun. The University School also was completed. Construction was begun on the Physical Science Building, North Hall, and West Hall, dormitories for men, and Sycamore and Beech Halls, women's dormitories. An addition to the Union Building was made that year and a building for the Calumet Extension Division was finished.

Eleven presidents have served the University since its organization as a college in 1828: Andrew Wylie, 1829-'51; Alfred Ryors, 1852-'53; William Mitchell Daily, 1853-'59; John H. Lathrop, 1859-'60; Cyrus Nutt, 1860-'75; Lemuel Moss, 1875-'84; David Starr Jordan, 1885-'91; John M. Coulter, 1891-'93; Joseph Swain, 1893-'02; William Lowe Bryan, 1902-'37; and Herman B. Wells, acting president from July 1, 1937 to March 22, 1938 and president from March 22, 1938.

Indiana University, one hundred and twenty years young, continues to expand, to grow, to build, and to become a greater Indiana.

A Tribute

to Herman B Wells, President of Indiana University, whose goal it is to make the university an ever-greater institution, one which will serve every community throughout the state.

Under his careful guidance Indiana University has grown rapidly. The faculty has been strengthened following a nationwide search to bring new scholars to the campus, the physical equipment has been enlarged, and the President this year made an extensive alumni-contact tour throughout the entire United States, uniting alumni in the progressive spirit of Indiana University.

A friend of the students, always eager to have them in his office, President Wells is establishing the University as the educational center of the Middle West.

Administration

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Indiana University Board of Trustees, the administrative body of the University, is composed of eight citizens of the State of Indiana.

Five of these are appointed by the State Board of Education, while the other three are elected by the alumni of the University. The term of office is three years, with the tenure arranged so that one is elected every year.

This year the Board has been unusually busy at its monthly meetings as the University is in the midst of its biggest building program. Also the board has started a program of expanding the University staff, and has now carried it through its second year of development.

Through the cooperation of the Board and President Wells, the University has made great strides in its expansion program.

THESE MEN CHART AND STEER THE COURSE

The loyalty, service, and unceasing devotion to Indiana University is typified by Comptroller Ward G. Biddle, '16. Since he became the financial head of the University in 1936, Mr. Biddle has watched with pride the expansion of the University. He has carefully supervised the extensive construction program which is rapidly nearing completion. His efforts have aided in furthering the progress of Indiana University.

A friend of students, a counselor to faculty members, and held in the highest esteem by alumni—Mr. Biddle is happiest serving this University in which he thoroughly believes.

WARD G. BIDDLE
Comptroller of the University

In 1923 Mr. Biddle returned to his alma mater as Manager of the University Bookstore, in which capacity he served until 1932. He was Director of the Union until 1936 when he became Comptroller. His entire service to Indiana University has been characterized by his keen business acumen, his long hours of work, and his particular attention to details which has rewarded him by his host of admirers and friends. In 1939 he was cited for the "outstanding service" award given annually by Sigma Delta Chi to the person who has given the most meritorious service to the University.

DEANS OF MEN

Clarence E. Edmondson has been the friendly counselor of the men students at Indiana University since the office of the Dean of Men was formally established in 1919. By individual conferences with students and with their parents he has established a helpful and cooperative relationship between the faculty, students, and parents.

Dean Edmondson, who is a professor of hygiene, was graduated from Indiana University with an A.B. degree in 1906. He received his A.M. degree in 1912, and two years later, in 1914, was awarded his Ph.D. degree from the University.

He acts as chairman for many selection committees for awarding student scholarships and campus positions.

DEAN C. E. EDMONDSON

DEAN C. J. SEMBOWER

Charles J. Sembower is the friend and advisor of every student on the campus and at the same time one of the most highly respected professors on the faculty. A popular speaker at student meetings, he has tact and understanding which serve to establish an ideal relationship between faculty and student. He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, and in 1934 was made an honorary member of Phi Delta Gamma, honorary journalistic, debating, and forensic fraternity.

Dean Sembower was graduated from Indiana in 1892 with an A.B. degree and received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1909. A noted author, he now holds the position of professor of English at the University.

DEANS OF WOMEN

Since her graduation from Indiana University, Mrs. Lottie Kirby, Associate Dean of Women, has served her Alma Mater in many ways. She has acted as chief clerk to the Registrar and secretary to President Emeritus Bryan.

In her present position, Mrs. Kirby has given her utmost in understanding and aid to the coeds on the I. U. campus. She has acted as intermediary between the sororities and the Dean's office, easing the headaches of the Pan-Hellenic council and individual social organizations.

Mrs. Kirby is known for her sympathetic nature and has proven herself to be a faithful advisor in many a personal problem.

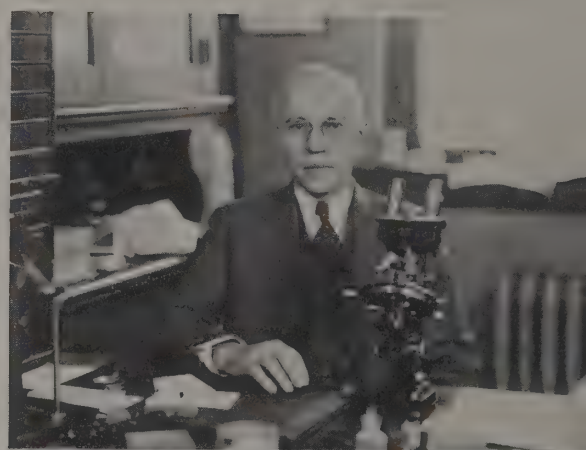

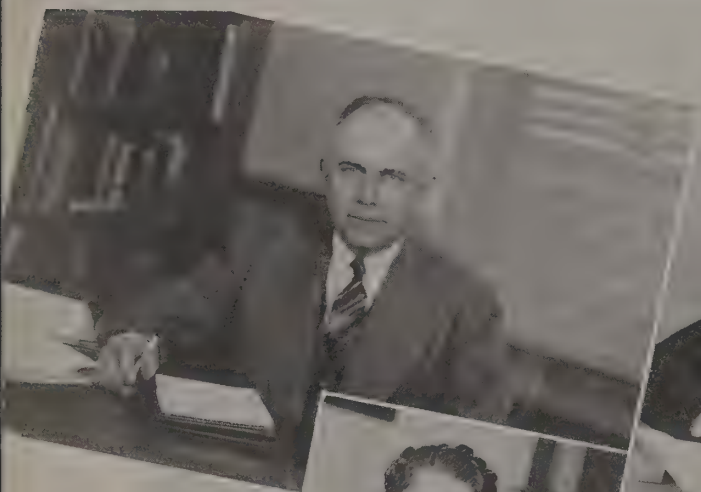

MRS. LOTTIE KIRBY

MRS. KATE H. MUELLER

Mrs. Kate Hevner Mueller, in her two years as Dean of Women at Indiana University, has endeared herself to the hearts of all of the 2,000 young women students to whom she offers friendly and wise counseling.

Mrs. Mueller attended Wilson College and Columbia University and was formerly an instructor and assistant professor in psychology. Her experience along this line has enabled her to understand and cope with the myriad of problems which come to her office daily.

THETA ALPHA PHI

Paul Boxell	President
Vera Mae Massey	Vice-President
Robert E. Johnson	Secretary
Mary Susan Stull	Treasurer

The promotion of, appreciation for, and participation in university dramatics is the purpose of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary organization. Toward the fulfillment of its purpose, this group sponsors many campus projects and activities.

Theta Alpha Phi organized the University Theatre in 1932 and the Experimental Theatre in 1937. Both organizations provide a golden opportunity for students to display ability in acting, play writing, technical assistance, costuming, make-up and other phases of theatre work. An added encouragement for earnest young dramatists is Theta Alpha Phi's annual selection of the outstanding actor and actress during the past season of University Theatre productions. Their names are engraved on a plaque in the library. Vera Mae Massey and Dan Sherwood received the awards in 1939.

The Paul Hochgeiger Award, given for distinguished service to the theatre, was established in 1939 in memory of Mr. Hochgeiger, an outstanding former member of Theta Alpha Phi. The recognition was given to Ray Carter, head electrician. The Niezer Scholarship Award to outstanding Freshman actors went to Joe Hayes and Richard Reed.

Indiana Alpha chapter of Theta Alpha Phi was founded on St. Valentine's Day, 1922. To be eligible for membership, one must accumulate fifty points, which are obtained for any kind of stage work. New members are selected by a vote of the entire membership of the organization.

Other major activities sponsored by Theta Alpha Phi are the annual Cabaret Show and the State Drama Conference. The organization also founded and sponsors Taps, a junior dramatic group, membership into which is gained through demonstration of ability or recognition in theatre work.

Professor Lee Norvelle, head of the Speech Department, is sponsor of Theta Alpha Phi and has been national president for the past three years.

One of the outstanding functions of Theta Sigma Phi, national journalistic sorority, is the annual Matrix Table. Each year, the organization brings to the campus for the affair, some prominent woman who has distinguished herself in the field of journalism. Mary Ellen Chase was this year's very distinguished speaker.

An equally prominent project, to satisfy the feminine journalists' lust for gossip, is the Razz Banquet, which illustrates their professional individuality by being "for women only". Many a coed shakes in her boots as the Razz Banquet approaches each year, for several uncomplimentary awards are given. The serious intent of the affair is shown in the presentation of a Senior ring to their choice of the most outstanding Senior woman in the University.

To unite women engaged in the profession of journalism and to recognize women who have distinguished themselves in this field are the main purposes of Theta Sigma Phi. To be eligible for membership in the Indiana chapter, a woman must maintain a high scholastic average, she must work faithfully and diligently on the Indiana Daily Student, and she is required to show definite intent of remaining in the field of journalism. Pledging takes place in the fall at the Theta Sigma Phi—Sigma Delta Chi party and in the spring. Mrs. John E. Stempel is adviser to the group.

Nationally Theta Sigma Phi was founded at the University of Washington on April 8, 1909. The Delta chapter on the Indiana campus was installed in 1913. That the sorority has been a success is proved by the annual reunion of all Theta Sigs at Commencement.

Additional projects of the organization include putting out one edition of the Indiana Daily Student, with Theta Sigs as executives assisted by other women journalists, the awarding of a scholarship to a woman student outstanding in journalism, and the sending of a delegate to the Annual National Convention.

This year marks the beginning of bi-monthly dinners for all journalism students and faculty members. At each meeting a prominent journalist gives a talk on the application of journalism to his particular vocation.

Sigma Delta Chi this year sponsored the fortieth Blanket Hop, the oldest continuous traditional dance on the campus. The proceeds of the dance are used to buy "I" blankets for graduating lettermen. This is but one of the organization's many activities. It also maintains a luxurious den in the Union Building in the memory of Don Mellett, former Indiana SDX member, who was killed in 1926 while using his newspaper to expose racketeers at Canton, Ohio.

"For men only" is the mark of the fraternity's annual Gridiron Banquet which razzes the administration, faculty, organizations, and campus "rods"; serious awards also are given, including a brown derby to the most popular faculty member, a leather medal to the faculty member who has done the most for the University, and an award to the outstanding Senior man.

The purpose of this national journalistic fraternity is the promotion of knowledge and interest among undergraduates and professional men in the field of journalism and the furthering of the highest ideals of journalism. Eligibility for membership is based on journalistic ability and the intention of pursuing newspaper work as a profession.

Sigma Delta Chi was nationally established at DePauw University in 1909. Its growth was rapid and the I. U. chapter was founded by Frank Mason in 1914. Professor John E. Stempel, head of the Department of Journalism, is a past national president and adviser to the local chapter.

Other projects include the awarding of a $200 scholarship annually to two outstanding Sophomore journalists, the presenting of a book to the Daily Student reporter who writes the best story each month, and the sponsoring of a High School Newspaper Contest each spring.

EUCLIDEAN CIRCLE

Leslie Cutler President
 Doris McCammon Vice-President
 Doris Allison Secretary

Students of advanced mathematics are accepted as members in the Euclidean Circle, whose activities include both social and educational features. Under the leadership of Professor Kenneth P. Williams, round table discussions, student papers, and various games and problems which require mathematical calculations are presented at the regular monthly meetings. The social program consists of two annual gatherings, a Christmas party at the home of Dr. Agnes E. Wells and a spring picnic, which aid in promoting friendship between students and faculty.

JUNIOR MATH CLUB

Robert Mellen President
 Keith Cox Vice-President
 Eleanor Winslow Secretary

The Junior Math Club, with Dr. Agnes E. Wells as faculty sponsor, was organized for students who are interested in mathematics but who have not yet had enough work in the subject to qualify for membership in the Euclidean Circle. The group stresses mathematical discussion, puzzles, and games at its meetings. This year the club also examined various computing machines and learned how they worked. The organization carries over the social traditions of the advanced group by sponsoring a spring picnic and a Christmas party, to which faculty members and their wives are invited.

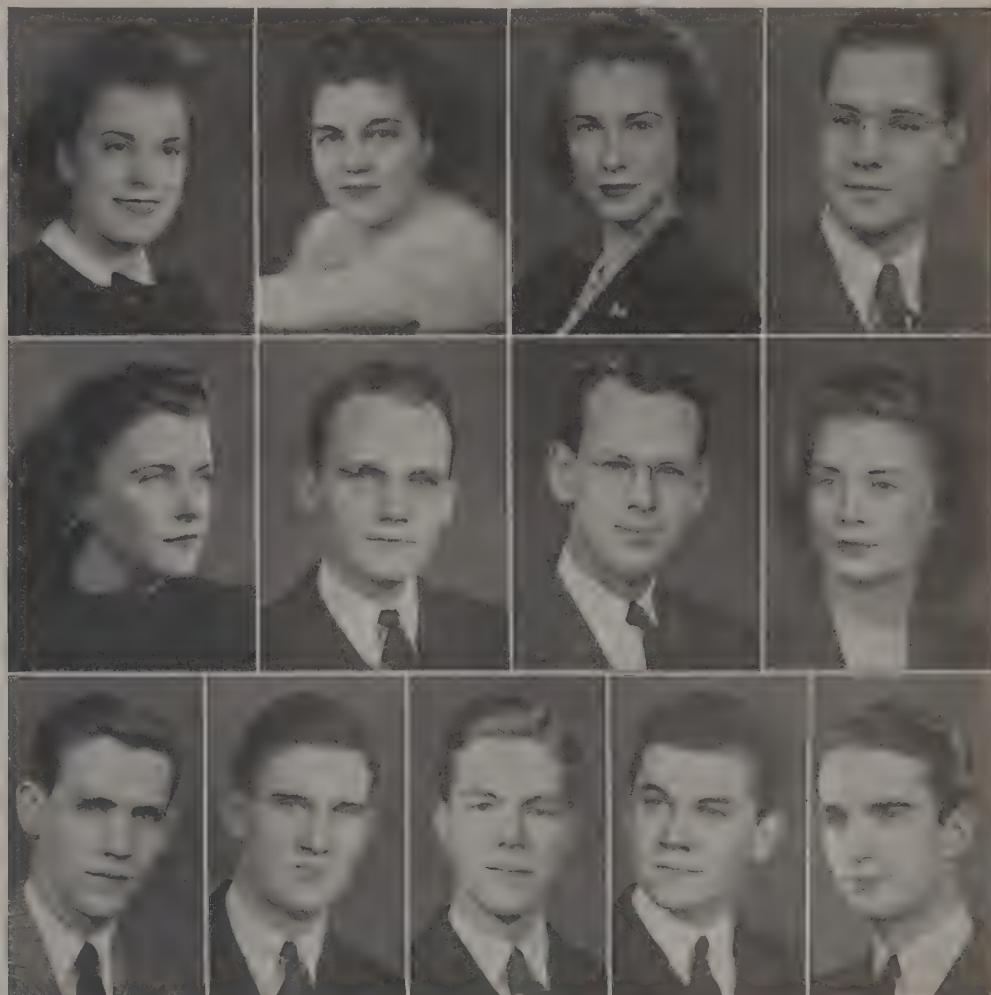

An honorary organization for university debaters, Tau Kappa Alpha this year participated in several activities which excited not only local but also sectional interest. In October the group organized and sponsored a mock Congressional Session at which were present debaters from such middle western schools as Purdue, Wabash, Western State of Kalamazoo, Butler, and Manchester.

Tau Kappa Alpha also sponsored the intra-mural debate tournament, in which nearly a hundred expounders were entered. Two independent girls were victorious, Anne Thomas and Betty Foss.

The fraternity set forth plans in its program this year to inaugurate a Speakers' Bureau on the campus to provide and make available to outside organizations student speakers who might thereby have an opportunity for practice in public speaking.

Tau Kappa Alpha has as its sponsor Mr. Robert Huber, of the Department of Speech.

The Sigma chapter of Omicron Nu, professional honorary organization, was established on the Indiana University campus in 1922 for students of home economics.

Membership in Omicron Nu is based on scholarship and promise of future achievement. Only a small percentage of the Junior and Senior classes are eligible for selection.

A $10 award is given annually to the outstanding Junior of the year. A recognition tea for students of the Home Economics Department who have maintained an average of B+ or better is sponsored by Omicron Nu.

Ten years ago, in 1930, the local chapter of Iota Sigma Pi was installed for women interested in chemistry. This national honorary organization requires for membership a B average with at least twenty hours of chemistry work.

Meetings are held once a month in the form of a luncheon program. The organization attempts to further the interest of women in chemistry, by presenting programs dealing with practical application, and giving opportunity for contact with prominent men and women in the field.

Iota Sigma Pi sponsors a tea for Freshmen women who are interested in chemistry courses, and holds a banquet honoring the faculty of the Department of Chemistry.

Miss Una Robinson of the Department of Home Economics is faculty adviser for the group. Honorary members are Miss Lila Curtis of the Department of Physics, and Miss Agnes E. Wells of the Department of Mathematics.

Members are Betty Joy Dickerson, Betty Harris, Henrietta Kan, Margaret Kellar, Maxine Rowe, Eunice Runner, Isabella Russ, Betty Sigler, Alverta Sohl, and Thelma Ward.

Students who have received above a B average in one year of French are invited to join Le Cercle Francais. In order to promote the understanding of spoken French, the meetings are conducted entirely in that language. In addition to skits, plays, and lectures presented by faculty members and students, the presentation of French classical and popular music is included in the club's program.

Each year one outside speaker is asked to present a talk on some phase of French life of interest to the members of Le Cercle Francais. Major Vivier, formerly of the French army but now in the diplomatic service, was this year's featured speaker.

Social activities are also sponsored by the club, giving French students an opportunity to become better acquainted with each other as well as with the faculty members of the French department.

At its regular meetings to which the most actively interested students are invited, Der Deutsche Verein presents German plays, music, and illustrated lectures. In its twenty-nine years of existence the club has done much toward attaining its goal of fostering an interest in German apart from the usual classroom work.

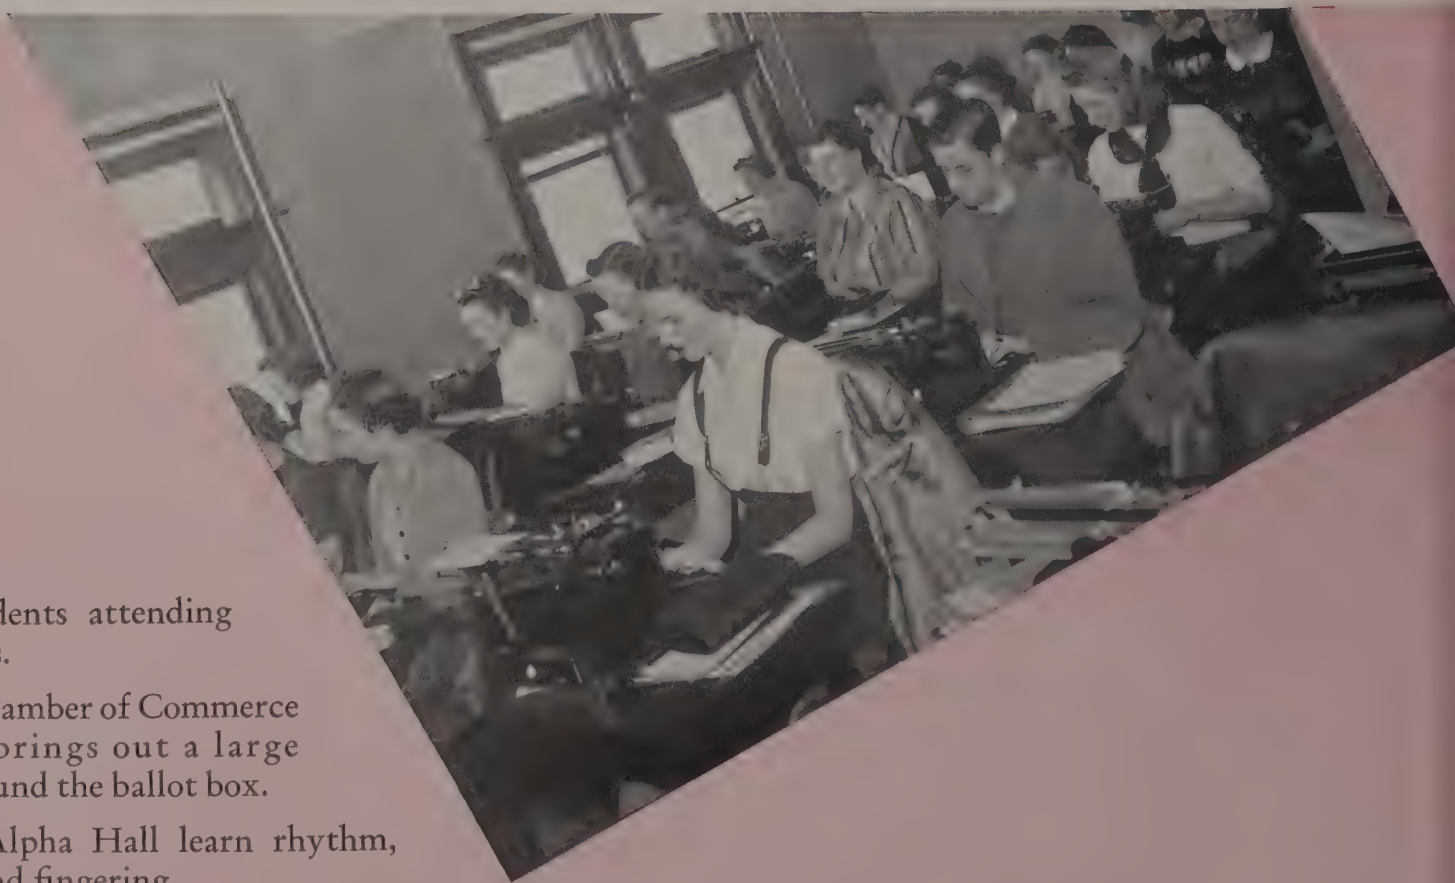

Social activities to further closer relationship and acquaintance between the faculty of the German department and students of German are also a part of the club's program.

The purpose of Beta Gamma Sigma is to recognize scholarship among the students in the School of Business. This fraternity was founded nationally in 1913 by the University of Southern California, the University of Illinois, and the University of Wisconsin. The Alpha chapter was officially installed at Indiana University in 1923. There are now chapters in practically every school which holds membership in the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business.

Membership is restricted to the upper ten per cent of the class. Not more than two per cent of the Juniors nor more than ten per cent of the Seniors are eligible to become members. The organization stresses good business ability and moral character as well as scholarship. As a rule, the organization has not engaged in outside activities, but this year they are attempting to raise funds to furnish the William A. Rawles room in the School of Business.

The name of the most outstanding Sophomore business student each year is placed on the Beta Gamma Sigma scholarship plaque. The award is determined by an examination and the grade standing of the student at the end of the Sophomore year. This year the award was given to Miss Rachel R. Norman. She is the first girl ever to receive the honor. John Jay placed second in the competition for the award.

Another award is the William A. Rawles key which is given to the business student who has the highest average at the end of his first two and a half years in the Indiana University School of Business. Both of these honors are evidenced by having the person's name inscribed on a name plate and mounted on a board which hangs in the dean's office. The student who receives the plaque award receives also a gold key, and the student in second place receives a silver key.

The Collegiate Chamber of Commerce acts as a connecting body between the faculty of the School of Business and the students. Organized on this campus in 1937, it is a charter member of the National Intercollegiate Chamber of Commerce, founded in 1938.

The Board of Directors of the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, which represents the students in the School of Business, is made up of a boy and a girl elected from each class, and one representative each from Delta Sigma Pi, Alpha Kappa Xi, Chi Gamma, Omicron Delta, Beta Gamma Sigma, and the Accounting Club—all of which are organizations for business students. These, with the three members held over from the previous year, constitute the membership of the Board; all business school students are members of the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce.

Delta Sigma Pi, one of the largest fraternities in the professional field, was founded at New York University in 1907 with the objective of attaining pre-eminence in the field of commerce and business administration. The Alpha Pi Chapter was established in 1925.

Among Delta Sig's many activities are the maintaining of a large and effective alumni organization, the administration of a personnel placing service on a national basis, the publication of a quarterly magazine, and the presentation of a scholarship key each year to the graduating student who has the highest four year scholastic average in the School of Business.

The activities of the local chapter include semi-monthly professional meetings, cooperation with the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, and the sponsoring of industrial tours. Noon lunches, open to all students, are sponsored monthly with faculty members, professional, and personnel men speaking on subjects of current interest.

Alpha Kappa Psi, an international business fraternity, is an active organization on the I. U. campus. Each year it sponsors an industrial tour to Chicago, where the members visit a few of the various industries and business firms of interest there. In addition to this tour the fraternity carries on research problems, and each month a professional dinner meeting is held.

The purpose of this organization is the furthering of the interest of business among college men, the promotion of scientific research in the field of business, the education of the public in an appreciation of modern business methods, and the promotion of higher ideals among business men. Alpha Kappa Psi was founded in 1904 at New York University. Today there are sixty-one chapters in the leading business schools in the United States and Canada. Beta Gamma, the Indiana chapter, was founded in 1927; its Deputy Councilor is Stanley Pressler, and Divisional Councilor, Joe Batchelor. Each year Beta Gamma chapter awards the highest ranking Senior in the Business School a scholarship medallion and engraves his name on a plaque.

Omicron Delta, the honorary for Junior and Senior women in the School of Business, has as its aim the promotion of friendly understanding and professional interest among business women. In the pursuance of this purpose, the members of the organization arrange a varied program which includes both social and instructional activities.

This year at the regular monthly meetings speakers, either from this campus or from a business concern, discussed the opportunities for women in the professional field. In addition, the group gave a tea in honor of the School of Business faculty and a party for the members of Chi Gamma.

Omicron Delta is a relatively new organization, founded only two years ago; but with the help of Miss Lula Westenhaver and Mrs. Esther D. Bray of the School of Business and Miss Sarah Kirby, assistant to the Dean of the School of Business, it has already been recognized as an active and progressive honorary. The organization is represented in the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce by Eloise Barnett.

Following its constitution, it has furthered the interests of accounting students by "bringing speakers to Bloomington who are employed in the different branches of accounting work, by endeavoring to interest accounting employers in the accounting students at Indiana University, and by promoting better student-professor relationships and friendships".

Prominent speakers for the Club have included such men as William Werntz, Chief Accountant of the Securities and Exchange Commission; Roy B. Kester, Head of the Department of Accounting, Columbia; O. A. Kirkman, Vice-President and General Manager, High Point, Thomasville and Denton Railroad; Edward B. Wilcox, partner of Edward Gore & Co., Certified Public Accountants; and J. O. Chi Gamma was founded on the Indiana campus in 1930 with the aims of promoting higher standards for girls in the business world. The organization lapsed for several years but was reorganized last year and now meets the first Tuesday in every month.

This year the meetings are planned to survey all fields of business and discuss the duties and requirements of the various office positions. The general theme is the preparation of members to fill successfully posts in the actual business world.

This organization is open to any Freshman or Sophomore girl in the School of Business who is interested in the program of the group. The objectives include the promotion of higher education for women in business, the development of solidarity which comes from working together, and the stimulation of the development of professional attitudes and high standards of business efficiency, business ethics, and culture.

CONFERENCES

Delegates to the Mortgage Conference register in the Union Building.

Law Journal Conference members meet in the Union Board room.

Dean Weimer of the School of Business welcomes three of the members of the Bankers' Convention.

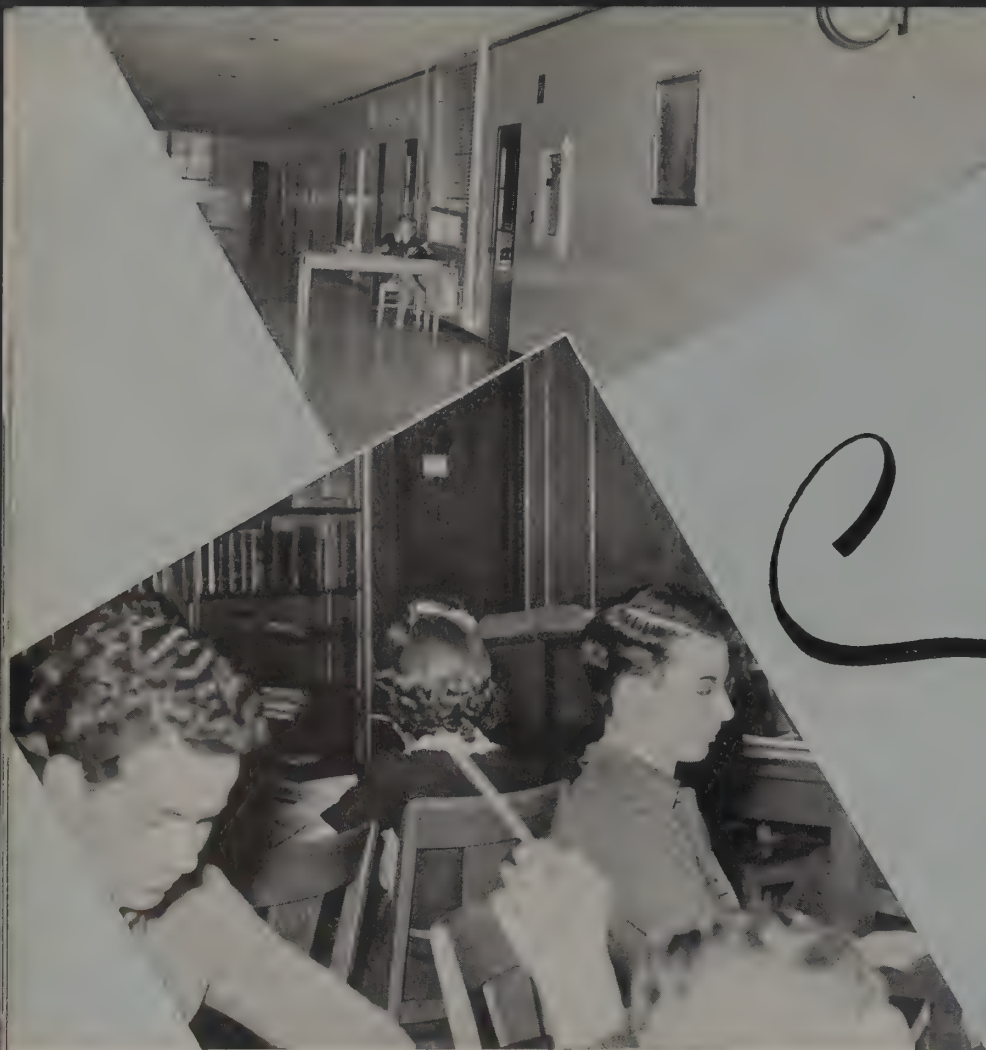

The N. Y. A. Conference holds a banquet meeting in Room E of the Union Building.

This year Indiana University has been host to many important conferences on the campus, representing a wider variety of fields of interest than ever before.

Eight hundred high school students and teachers attended the Tri-County Music Festival held April 4, for the largest conference of the year. The Indiana Bankers' Conference, with 300 bankers in attendance, met February 12, 13, and 14. The Law Institute, April 5 and 6, brought 200 lawyers to its meetings.

Such conferences are designed to acquaint men in various occupations with new ideas for their particular field of interest.

Conferences and contests provide competition among groups interested in music, mathematics, debating and other subjects.

PI LAMBDA THETA

Mrs. Carolyn Weems Bookwalter	President

Composed of townswomen and graduates as well as student members, Pi Lambda Theta functions as an honorary organization whose purpose is "to encourage a spirit of fellowship among women in the profession of teaching".

In addition to the study of the theme "Worthy Use of Leisure Time" several additional activities were included in this year's extensive program. A joint dinner with the members of Phi Delta Kappa and the Education Club was given in December; three teas were held throughout the year in honor of outstanding students in education; a Freshman girl was given financial aid; the annual award of a fifty dollar scholarship was granted to a graduate student for superior research work; and a news letter was sent to each one of the 660 members who have been initiated into the chapter in the last twenty years.

During the past year the local chapter of Pi Lambda Theta has tried to follow the purposes outlined by the national organization. A detailed report was given at the first fall meeting of the Biennial Council held in Palo Alto, California. Several Indiana University graduate students in education are now seeking the $250 scholarship offered for excellence in research work.

Members of Phi Delta Kappa are selected from the Senior class and graduate students after rigid examination of their scholarship and personal qualifications. The ideals of the organization are scholarship, service, and leadership.

Phi Delta Kappa is an active as well as an honorary fraternity. Programs relating to recent developments in educational research are given throughout the year. The fraternity sponsors the annual Bookmen's Picnic and the All-Men's Round-Up, which are outstanding events of the summer session.

Since the organization now has over one thousand members, and it includes in its membership the outstanding educators of the state, it has a powerful influence in determining state school policies. A State Council has recently been formed which includes in addition to Alpha chapter, the field chapters at Terre Haute, Ft. Wayne, Muncie, Hammond, Lafayette, South Bend, Indianapolis, and Evansville.

Aspiring teachers formed the Education Club on the Indiana campus in the spring of 1935. Actually, the club was established as an off-spring of Pi Lambda Theta and Phi Delta Kappa, honorary education organizations.

The club meets once a month, and through these meetings promotes its purpose, that of furnishing underclassmen in the School of Education more opportunities for getting together and becoming acquainted. Dr. Henry L. Smith, Dean of the School of Education, guest speaker at one of the meetings, talked on the World Education Conference held in South America last summer. Another speaker was Mr. Harold Moore, Supervisor of the Bureau of Teacher Recommendations. The traditional banquet with Pi Lambda Theta and Phi Delta Kappa was held in December. At a picnic this spring the new officers were introduced.

To be eligible for membership in the Education Club, the student in education must have a C average and a sincere interest in the problems of teaching. Pledges must be voted in by the members of the cabinet.

Interest in Sigma Alpha Iota, a national professional music fraternity, was started on this campus last year by girls who are members of the Pro-Music Club. These girls petitioned the national office for a chapter at Indiana University which was granted on October 31, 1938. Iota Epsilon chapter officially was installed on the campus on December 17, 1939.

The purpose of Sigma Alpha Iota is to promote and dignify the musical profession for women; to further the development of music in America; and to give moral and material aid to its members.

Persons eligible for membership in Sigma Alpha Iota include professional musicians and students in a school of music who are working toward a degree in music. Each chapter sets its own scholastic standards for membership. At Indiana University the music student must have a B average, faculty recommendation, and have shown excellence in scholarship and musical ability.

Pro-Music members are chiefly interested in establishing friendly relations between the faculty and the students of the Music School and in making Indiana University music-conscious, both on campus and throughout the state. Their activities start each fall with a tea, when new students, faculty members, and returning music students become acquainted. They assist at concerts and recitals both by performing and acting as ushers.

Each year Pro-Music sponsors a light opera, the only such production given on the campus. Gilbert and Sullivan operas have been popular choices for the past few years, and their Gondoliers was given as the 1940 production.

Members of this organization must have a B average, must be of Sophomore standing, and must have some fair degree of musical ability.

The University of Michigan was the site of the original founding of Phi Delta Phi in 1869. The different chapters are called Inns after the old English Inns of Court. Foster Inn on this campus was established in 1900.

Phi Delta Phi was founded for the advancement of high scholarship and culture; the opposition to corrupt practices; and rigid adherence to a code of professional ethics and culture in the profession of lawyers.

Members are selected from the group with at least a C+ average. This year there are thirty-two active members and fourteen pledges. During the meetings controversial points that are not studied in class are discussed for a closer contact with actual practice.

Among the prominent alumni of Foster Inn of Phi Delta Phi are Paul V. McNutt, Honorary Member Judge George L. Tremain of the Indiana Supreme Court and Judge Curtis G. Shake, also of the Indiana Supreme Court, and Dean Bernard C. Gavit of the Indiana Law School.

SENIOR CLASS

The Senior year is the year to which all medics look forward with such eager expectancy and enter with so little practical knowledge that its course of clinics and lectures is surprisingly enlightening. Each Senior has at some time caught himself wondering when he really would feel capable of entering a world of people with both real and imaginary illnesses and how he would distinguish one from the other, thus plan his course of treatment. His last year imparts to him the necessary degree of confidence, yet clearly points out to him his limitations, and shows him the necessity of continued study.

Morning clinics at the University and City Hospitals are more carefully organized than ever before, and show correspondingly greater attendance. The afternoon lectures in Surgery, Therapeutics and the specialties are more instructive than ever; very few Seniors "cut classes" without feeling that they have missed something. This, the last year of the medical student's formal training, is one which gives him more practical experience in the medical profession.

JUNIOR CLASS

After his first year of exacting work at Indianapolis, the medical student enters the Junior year with different and more difficult courses on his schedule. The Junior student must take an advanced anatomy course, which necessitates a clear understanding of previously assembled anatomical material. A course in surgery is also a part of the Junior's curriculum.

This year, for the first time, a new course in psychiatry was offered to members of the Junior class. Dr. Boyd, the newest member of the faculty, had charge of this class.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

After completing his first year in medical school at Indiana University, the prospective doctor enters the Indianapolis school as a Sophomore. This year, with its courses in biochemistry, bacteriology, pathology, and pharmacology, is as important as it is difficult.

The second semester provides courses in medicine, physical diagnosis, and clinical neurology. One of the most interesting and unforgettable classes is pharmacology dog laboratory.

FRESHMAN CLASS

With the three years of pre-medical work out of the way, the Freshman med student settles down to some real book learning, to say nothing of the many laboratory courses that go with the books. No more does he find himself having week night dates, and going to shows before an exam, but instead he amuses himself at home with a microscope and a box of slides. No longer do exams frighten him, as now they are a weekly occurrence. At last the student has settled down for four years of a strenuous work in order to obtain a position as interne, and perhaps later as a resident physician, where he may then work all the more.

On the Bloomington campus, however, he is given the very best opportunity to prepare himself for his profession. The building where he works, and the equipment with which he works are the very best that are obtainable for training him. After a year of study in the new medical building, he goes to the Indianapolis Medical Center, where he obtains the other three-fourths of his formal training for the medical profession.

INDIANAPOLIS MEDICAL CENTER

DR. WILLIS D. GATCH

The Indiana University Medical Center exists as an example of the ideal functional medical unit. The Medical School, The Nurses' Training School, The Dietitians' Training School, and the four hospitals are now so closely integrated that an almost unbelievable degree of efficiency has been attained. Already widely known as a teaching center, this campus continues to grow in importance in national medical circles.

Now made up of eight imposing buildings—the Medical School, Long Hospital, the Clinical Building, Coleman Hospital, Riley Hospital, Rotary Convalescent Home, Ball Residence for Nurses, and the recently occupied State Board of Health Building, The Medical Center gives one the impression of a quiet, beautiful village within a busy city.

The teaching staff, headed by Dr. Gatch, and the administrative force under the supervision of Mr. Martin, work together in maintaining the highest standards of instruction to students and service to the patients. With the cooperation of the Indianapolis City Hospital, the Center provides clinical teaching facilities second to none.

The eyes of the people of Indiana are now intently focused on this institution, which is daily fulfilling the expectations of a progressive commonwealth.

ALPHA OMEGA ALPHA

Alpha Omega Alpha, national medical scholastic fraternity, was founded in 1902 at the University of Illinois. The Indiana chapter was chartered in 1916. Election to membership in this society is one of the most coveted medical honors. Each spring those who have lead their class in scholarship throughout the four year medical course are granted membership. The new members are usually second semester seniors, but a few juniors are awarded this special honor.

Theta Kappa Psi, the first medical fraternity in existence, was founded in 1877 at New Haven, Connecticut. The Gamma Upsilon Chapter was established at Indiana in 1924. There are fifty-seven collegiate chapters, and graduate chapters have been formed in twenty-six cities.

The primary function of the group is to promote friendship, character, and scholarship.

Interesting and instructive speakers, medical motion pictures, literature reviews, and informal discussions are featured. Socially, the chapter participates in interfraternity dances, informal outings, Bloomington pledge banquets, and the special Senior Farewell party. The formal season is closed with the annual initiation banquet and dance when the senior considered to have been the most valuable man to Gamma Upsilon Chapter is awarded the coveted honorary key.

The Omicron Alpha Zeta chapter of Phi Beta Pi was established at Bloomington in 1905, fourteen years after the founding of the fraternity at the West Pennsylvania Medical College in 1891. Forty chapters in prominent medical schools all over the country make it a strong national organization. The flower is the white chrysanthemum, and the colors are green and white.

The local chapter maintains one of the largest enrollments of active members among medical fraternities and boasts of a very active alumni association; the national association now approaches 19,000 in membership.

The active chapter at Indianapolis and the pledge chapter at Bloomington combine to keep up high scholastic standards and promote fellowship among medical students. Social activities include the Christmas formal dinner dance, the spring initiation dance, stag parties, and smokers and luncheons shared by both chapters. To these are added movies and lectures of a more educational nature. The year's activities make up a well rounded program of social and educational character.

NU SIGMA NU

Sam J. Davis	President
Arthur Jay	Vice-President
Roland E. Miller	Secretary
Ottis Olvey	Treasurer

Nu Sigma Nu was founded March 2, 1882, by six students of the University of Michigan School of Medicine. The national organization after fifty-eight years of steady growth, is now composed of thirty-eight chapters in the United States and Canada, its membership totaling some 10,000 men. It claims among its ranks such names as Mayo, Cushing, Osler and others who have contributed brilliantly both to the theory and the practice of medicine.

With the aid of a national convention held on alternate years since its origination, as well as a permanent but progressive national leadership, each chapter of Nu Sigma Nu finds itself an integral member of a closely knit nation-wide organization which is quick to accept any steady trend toward the advancement of scientific medicine.

The local charter was granted in 1908 and the chapter began at Bloomington with eighteen students of the Indiana University School of Medicine and eleven men already in the practice of their profession. In 1912 the chapter was moved to Indianapolis where it has been located since that year.

Its fifty-two student members hold monthly meetings to which outstanding men are invited to lecture. Business meetings are held at the Medical Center. Each spring the fraternity holds an initiation dance and banquet which is attended by active and alumni members from all over the state.

A state alumni organization of several hundred physicians, keeping in close contact with the chapter in Indianapolis, affords guidance and fraternity fellowship.

The present Phi Chi medical fraternity is the result of the consolidation of two fraternities, both having the same name. The so-called Northern division of Phi Chi was founded at the University of Vermont, March 31, 1898. The Southern division was established at the Louisville Medical School on October 26, 1894. The local chapter was chartered at the old Indiana Medical College, forerunner of our present school, in 1903, as one of fifteen chapters of the original Southern Phi Chi. In 1905 the two fraternities were fused, resulting in the establishment of the grand chapter of the Southern group as the governing body for the combined organization.

The local chapter of Phi Chi is the oldest medical fraternity in the State, and numbers among its alumni many of the State's foremost clinicians and instructors.

The fraternity imposes certain prerequisites of character and scholastic achievement on its members in the interest of maintaining ever-rising standards within its own group and within the medical profession in general.

NU SIGMA PHI

Gamma Chapter of the Nu Sigma Phi was organized in February, 1909, by several alumnae of the Alpha chapter practicing in Indianapolis. Initially there were fourteen graduate members from other medical schools, four students and ten graduate physicians. At present there are several graduate members, eleven students, and approximately sixty graduate physicians.

The fraternity functions in the interest of women in medicine and the maintenance of high ideals in the profession. Highlights in the chapter have been the conventions in 1927 and 1939 when the chapter was host to the national organization. Dr. Olga Bonke-Booher was elected Noble Grand and Dr. Mary Alice Norris, Editor of the Nu Sigma Phi News.

Prior to 1930 Gamma Phi Zeta sorority was known as the I.U. Medic Dames Club which was formed in 1928. In 1929 the advantages of a Greek letter sorority were recognized and on May 7, 1930, the Alpha chapter was founded.

Gamma Phi Zeta is a social organization and its existing purpose is to facilitate acquaintances among the wives of medical students, internes, residents, and practicing physicians now in Indianapolis and those who will arrive from Bloomington in the future.

Meetings are held twice a month at the home of a member or in a downtown hotel. These meetings are devoted mainly to some form of social recreation. The sorority colors are light green, pink, and rose and the sorority flower is the Sweetheart rose.

Founders Day is commemorated in May by a dinner which the members give for their husbands.

Their relationship furnishes a common bond among the members of Gamma Phi Zeta that forms a basis for the success of the organization which is manifested in its steadily increasing membership.

Besides those pictured above, the membership includes Mrs. John Warren, Mrs. Roger E. Lingeman, Mrs. Robert M. Ferguson, Mrs. Meredith Flanigan, Mrs. Robert Badertscher, Mrs. Harold Laws, Mrs. John M. Young, Mrs. John C. Brink, Mrs. Floyd Boyer, Mrs. R. McCauley Vandivier, Mrs. William A. Karsell, Mrs. Noel Bailey, Mrs. Emmett B. Lamb, Mrs. Dwain Mings, Mrs. Donald R. Hampshire, Mrs. Willard Worth, Mrs. Joseph Worley, Mrs. Carl Kuehn, and Mrs. Loren Martin.

DEDICATION

Dr. Robert M. Moore has been an active member of the clinical teaching staff at the Indiana University Medical Center since his graduation in 1913. He received his pre-medical training at Indiana University; his A.B. degree was taken in 1911. In preparing himself further, Dr. Moore spent parts of three years at Harvard Post-graduate School (1920, '21, '22).

Dr. Moore is a member of the following organizations: Delta Tau Delta, Nu Sigma Nu, and the honorary Society of Sigma Xi.

In his capacity as Clinical Professor of Cardiology Dr. Moore has given very generously of his time and wide knowledge of both theory and practice of Medicine, so that each recent medical graduate remembers with a great deal of pleasure the time spent in Dr. Moore's clinics. Much of Dr. Moore's excellence as a teacher lies in his inculcating the supreme value of clinical observations. He teaches that no amount of laboratory work can replace clinical study and reasoning based thereon.

With passing years, Dr. Moore has become increasingly prominent in local as well as national medical circles, particularly in the fields of Cardiology and Internal Medicine. At present, he is the Indiana Governor of the American College of Physicians.

BLOOMINGTON MEDICAL CENTER

BURTON D. MYERS
Dean at Bloomington

The freshman class of the Indiana University School of Medicine for the year 1939-40, like the freshman class for the year 1938-39, was selected from more than 1,000 applicants. The enrollment for 1939-40 was 132. This is close to our maximum, and since we rank among the first half-dozen schools in the United States in point of view of freshman enrollment, it will be recognized that our freshman class was too large rather than too small.

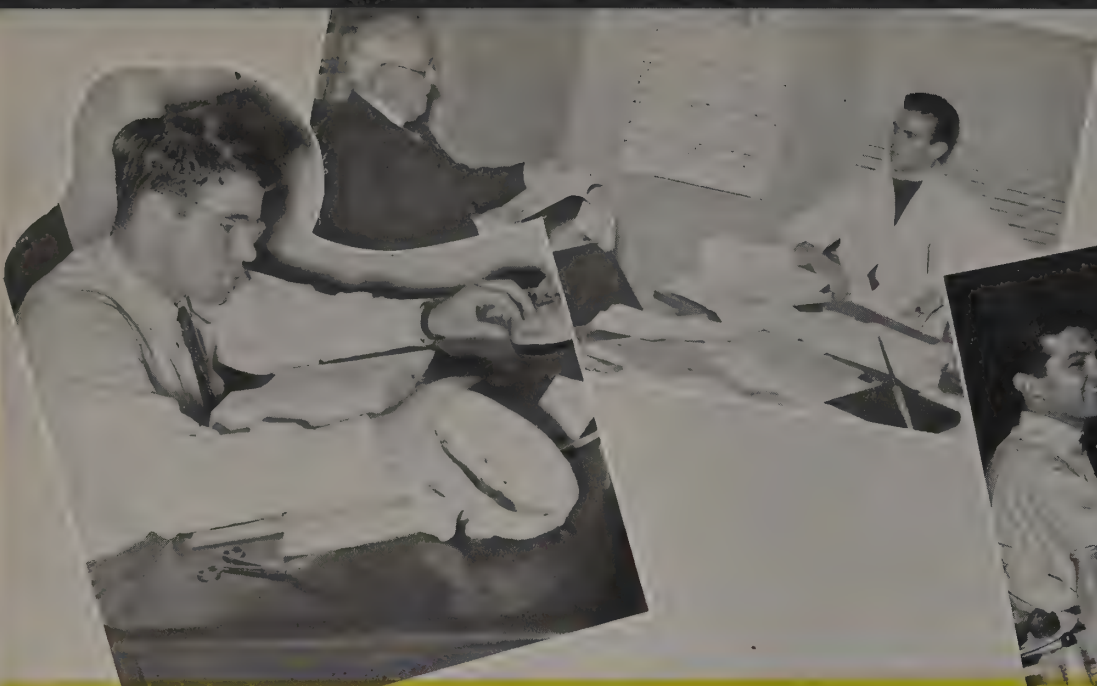

Of the 5,800 students who were enrolled in the Medical Schools of the United States last year, 63½% had either a B.S. or an A.B. degree prior to beginning the study of Medicine, and this per cent is greater each year.

A study has recently been published by the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Association giving the median cost of teaching the various major subjects of the medical course, such as Anatomy, Physiology, Pathology, etc. It develops that the cost in the Indiana University School of Medicine is a few dollars per student above the median for the United States, which leads us to feel that it is about right—neither too much nor too little.

With the purpose of increasing the effectiveness of our freshman medical work, it is planned to give part of the laboratory work in Physiology during the fall semester.

During the past year there has been active investigative work carried on by the staff of the freshman medical year. Badertscher, Hill, Jones, and Strong presented papers or demonstrations at the American Anatomical Association, and Harmon, Robinson and Scott have been very active in research and have subject matter shaping up for publication.

Recognized by their hats with a white skull and crossbones on them, members of the Skeleton Club include all Freshmen medical students. The purpose of the organization is to provide social recreation for its members, to broaden their medical education and to inaugurate bonds of personal and professional friendship among them. Of annual interest are the classic basketball and softball games and the tug of war with the Law students.

The club endeavors to present each year some known medical authorities. Dr. Byrl R. Kirklan an X-ray specialist from the Mayo Clinic, was one of the outstanding speakers this year.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES

MISS LUTE TROUTT
Head of the Department of Dietetics

The Indiana University Training School for Nurses, under the direction of Miss Cordelia Hoeftlin, is part of the School of Medicine in Indianapolis.

The School was opened in 1914. The March class of this year will be the 53rd to enter this school. At the present time, girls from Indiana, North Dakota, Illinois, Ohio, Nevada, New York, and Iowa are enrolled as members of the student body.

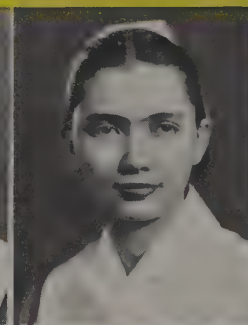

In order to be eligible for admission into the School, a student must have satisfactorily completed thirty hours of designated college work, and have shown herself adaptable in professional activities during an orientation period of one week. These orientation periods are held in February and in June.

It is the purpose of the School to maintain a high standard of nursing, to give the best type of nursing care to the sick, and to give the young women who choose nursing as a profession every opportunity of becoming competent and broad-minded members of the community. Classes and practical experience are so planned as to give the student nurses an intelligent understanding of the basic problems encountered in the remedial care of the sick, and the promotion of community welfare.

The student extra-curricular activities program is almost entirely planned by the student body. The Choral Club of the School, under the direction of Mrs. Martin is well recognized in the city of Indianapolis. The basketball team plays home and return games with other Nursing Schools and community centers in Indianapolis. Tennis, dancing, dinner parties, and teas are part of the program.

Miss Lute Troutt is head of the Department of Dietetics of the Indianapolis Medical Center. She is the director of an excellent post-graduate course in hospital and institutional dietetics and also has charge of feeding the patients, staff, and employees of the Medical Center.

It is the desire and intention of the members of the faculty of the Medical and Nursing Schools to continue the progress which has been to the mutual advantage of the student body, the patients in their care, and the people of the State of Indiana.

DR. GERALD D. TIMMONS

DEDICATION

The preparation of the dedicatory message for the Dental Section of this year's Arbutus is paradoxical—it is the easiest, and yet the hardest. It is easiest in that by their vote the students voiced their unanimous opinion to honor a man who although not now associated with the University, still holds a place in the hearts of every student. It is hard because with his leaving the students feel the loss of a true friend, a wise counselor, an able administrator and an eminent educator. Doctor Timmons was as an older brother to so many that his leaving has caused an indefinable hurt.

We are all proud of Doctor Timmons' national prominence. For seven years he has served as Secretary-Treasurer of the American Association of Dental Schools, and, until this Spring, as Business Manager of the Journal of Dental Education. He just recently resigned as trustee from Indiana and Ohio to the American Dental Association. As first Vice-President of the American Council of Education and as a member of the National Board of Dental Examiners, recognition was given to his outstanding ability. Many other honors, too numerous to mention, have been conferred upon him.

Doctor Timmons resigned his position as Acting Dean, effective in February, and shortly afterwards accepted the office of Executive-Secretary of the American Dental Association. The students are sincerely sorry to see Doctor Timmons leave Indiana, but equally glad that he has been thus advanced in the profession.

DR. WILLIAM H. CRAWFORD

WELCOME

The students, faculty, and assisting staff join in giving Doctor William Hopkins Crawford, our new dean, a sincere and hearty welcome. In acquiring such an outstanding personage to fill the office of the late Dean Frederick R. Henshaw, we have every reason to believe that such a wise selection will result in a continued and accelerated progress of the school and the dental profession.

Doctor Crawford, at the first of the year, left his position at Columbia University to assume the deanship of our school. At Columbia University he developed and equipped one of the finest laboratories for the investigation of materials used in dentistry. His reputation and past accomplishments in this important phase of dental teaching, as well as in other branches of dentistry, may allow us to assume that Indiana, under his leadership, will forge ahead into new fields of achievement in the science and art of our profession.

In the short space of time that Doctor Crawford has been with us, we all sense a feeling of pride and confidence in our new leader. The spirit of friendliness, understanding and interest in his attitude towards the student body will result in mutual cooperation and enthusiasm toward making our institution ever greater.

So we say welcome to a gentleman, scientist, scholar, teacher, and friend.

Organized in 1879, the Indiana Dental College was the ninth dental school to be founded in the United States. On June 1, 1925, by act of the Indiana legislature, the College was purchased by Indiana University and became known as the Indiana University School of Dentistry. Sixty-one successful years have found its graduates practicing dentistry throughout the civilized world.

In 1933 the school board moved to its present location in the Indiana University Medical Center in Indianapolis. In 1936 the United States Public Health Service established at the school a special clinic to provide for the care of child patients. Access to the facilities of the James Witcomb Riley Hospital for Children and the Robert Long Hospital have been made possible for dental students. Thus, in this ideal location and with a beautiful new building, complete facilities are provided for thorough training in the theory and practice of the science and art of dentistry.

The school is a member of the American Association of Dental Schools and conforms to all of the requirements of the Association for a top rating school. Because of its constant progress, efficiency, and completeness, it is regarded highly among the nation's dental educational institutions.

SENIOR CLASS

After four years of professional training in lecture, laboratory and clinic, the Senior student is qualified to assume the duties and responsibilities which accompany his Doctor of Dental Surgery degree.

Association with his fellow students during this time has resulted in many close friendships. With eagerness, yet with sadness at the breaking of old ties, the Senior student looks to his future. Realizing that he has had the best possible training, he is imbued with a spirit of optimism and confidence upon entering his chosen profession.

He has had the privilege of having studied under instructors who have treated him with respect and consideration. In appreciation alone can he repay the faculty for their never-failing kindness and able guidance.

Many of the Senior class will enter private practice upon being graduated; others will serve as internes. In any event, wherever they go, they will do their utmost to bring credit and honor to their Alma Mater.

JUNIOR CLASS

The Junior class of this year is one of the smallest in the history of the school. However, this class has shown itself to be higher than average scholastically.

The Junior year in dental school is generally regarded as being the most arduous of all. In addition to the full course of laboratory and lecture work, the Juniors have the new experience of applying their fundamental knowledge to clinical practice. Nevertheless, their introduction into the clinical side of dentistry is regarded by all as being a pleasing climax to their two previous years of academic studies.

Although this year involved a bit more exertion for all, they realize that the knowledge and experience gained is of vital importance in their professional training. With this thought in mind they are now prepared to enter their final year, harboring the ambition to accumulate and retain all of the skill and knowledge possible which will benefit their professional future.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

The Sophomore Class has decreased to twenty-one members this year. Nevertheless, they still maintain the high scholastic average they established last year as Freshmen.

In the second year of the dental curriculum many important procedures are presented to the students in lectures and in laboratories. Having become familiar with these procedures, the members of the class are anxious to make a practical application of their knowledge and skill in the school clinics in their Junior year. Although they have acquired considerable knowledge through their basic training, they begin to realize that their experience in the vast fields of dentistry needs supplementing through clinical operations.

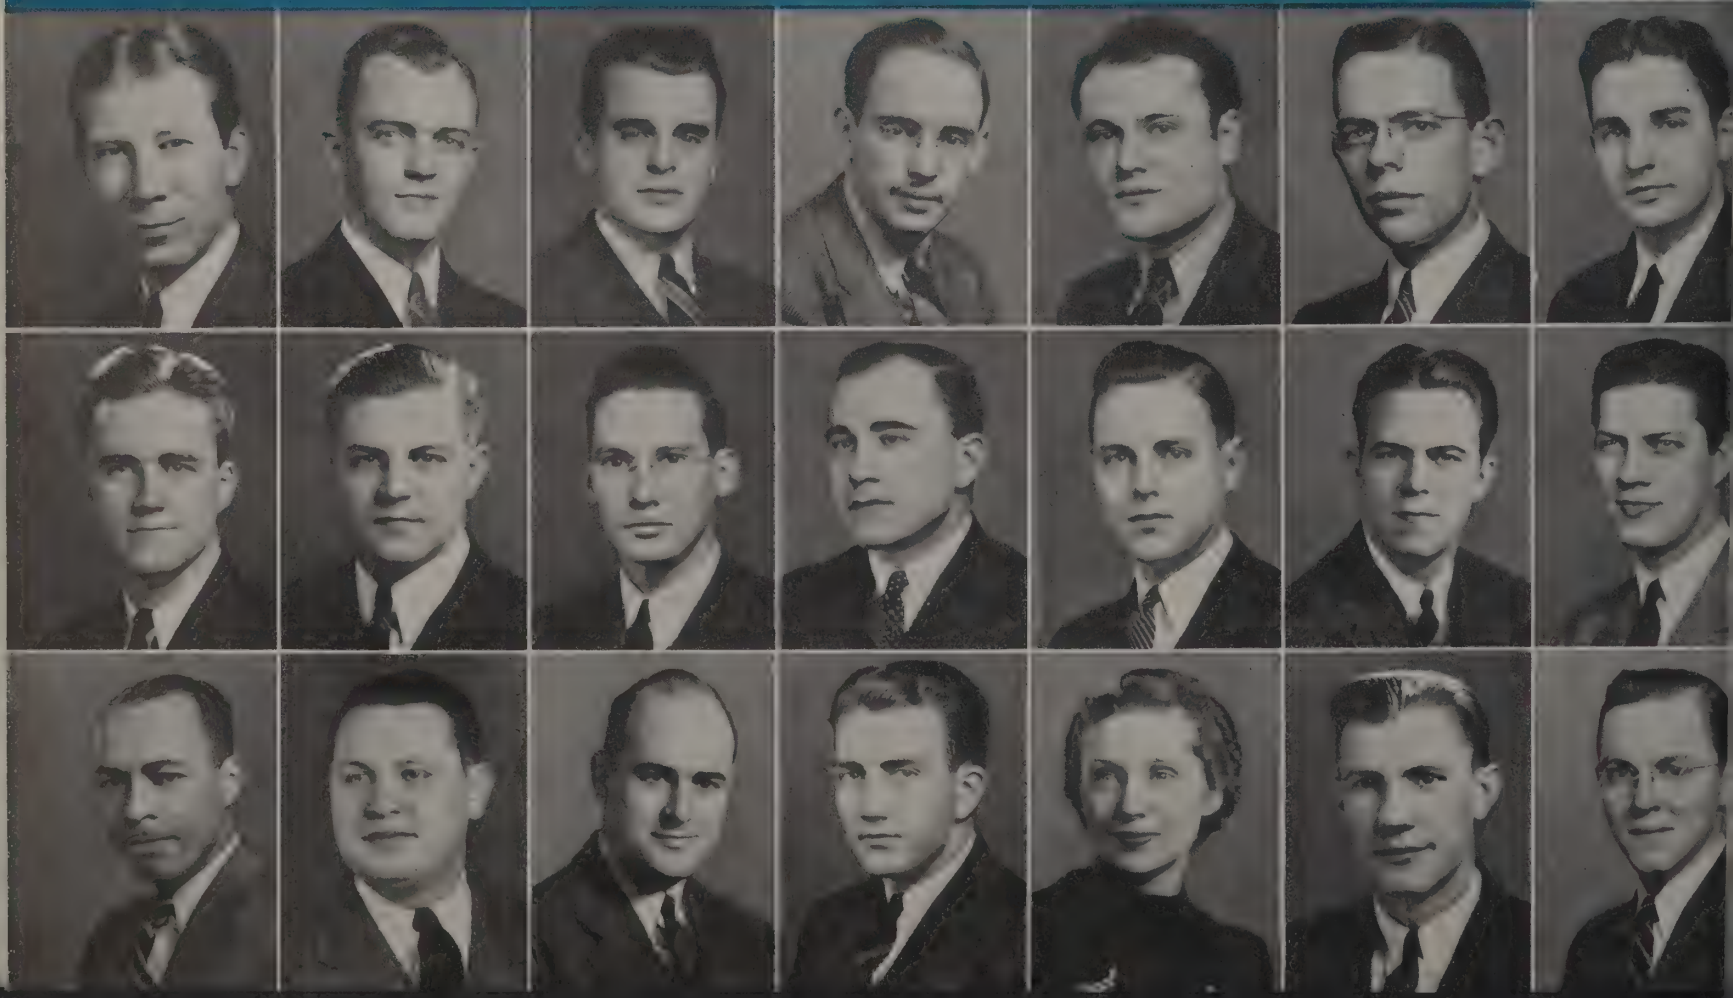

The class regrets the loss from the faculty of two very competent instructors, Doctor Louis D. Belden and Doctor Gerald D. Timmons. Doctor Belden discontinued his lectures early in the first semester due to illness. Doctor Timmons resigned at the end of the first semester to assume a still higher position in the dental profession.

FRESHMAN CLASS

At the beginning of the year, thirty students became orientated into a new era of their life upon their entrance into dental school. Many preparatory years of academic application have well fitted these men for the demands which will be made upon them in their dental course. With the passing of this first period they begin to comprehend the scope of their chosen profession and the many responsibilities devolving upon its members. Every unit in their course of study has been carefully planned and arranged so as to lay a solid foundation for their future schooling and professional living.

The Freshmen, realizing the necessity of this fundamental training and being confronted with the high expectations from them, have proved themselves industrious, scholastic, and intent on further advancement.

The Class of '43 gave a banquet in the fall for the members of the class and their professors. Such gatherings aid in facilitating a more friendly and co-operative attitude between students and professors.

OMICRON KAPPA UPSILON

The national honorary dental fraternity, Omicron Kappa Upsilon, was founded in 1914 by the faculty of Northwestern University Dental School. It is represented in the Indiana University School of Dentistry by Theta Theta Chapter. Organized for the purpose of encouraging scholarship and promoting advancement in the dental arts and sciences, membership in the fraternity is recognition of those who have made a distinguished record during their professional schooling.

Election to membership is voted annually by the faculty from a list of Senior students who generally rank in the upper one-third of the class. Based on individual merit, selection of twelve per cent of the total class is made from this list, and the individuals are presented with the fraternity key representing their membership.

JUNIOR AMERICAN DENTAL ASSOCIATION

Lynn Rodenbarger _____ President
 Ronald Ping _____ Vice-President
 Pat Lyddan _____ Secretary

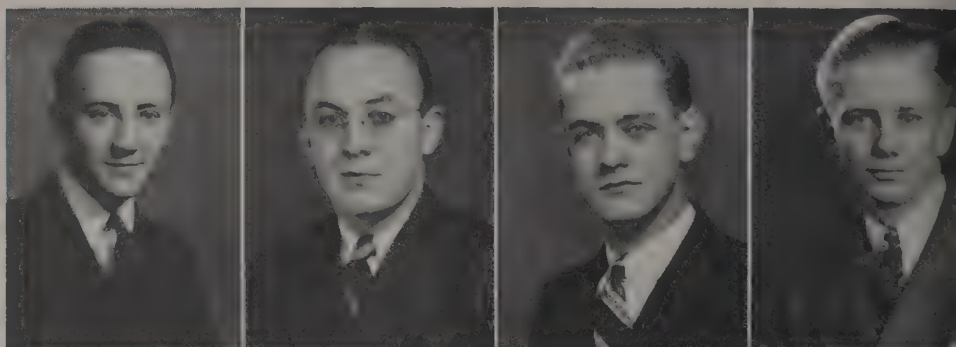

The Indiana University Society of Junior Members of the American Dental Association is an organization conducted under the auspices of the American Dental Association and the Dental School. Having been reorganized in November, 1939, the local society is now one of the largest and most active in any school. Membership is limited to Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors, and the society now boasts an enrollment of approximately eighty per cent of those eligible.

The purpose of the association is to contribute to the elevation of dental education in the student body and to give an insight of the value of organized dentistry. Lectures and clinics conducted at the society's monthly meetings by men distinguished in their field or specialty are highly beneficial to the student members. Problems which are likely to confront the dental graduate are discussed for the purpose of guidance along principles advocated by the association for a successful and worthy career in dentistry. Upon graduation, all junior members automatically become senior members of the American Dental Association.

The Student Council was instituted last year and in its short existence has proven to be a worthy and successful organization. Its purpose is to bring together through a definite medium the student body, faculty, and administration, so that a closer association may be had for furthering the educational program of the school.

At its bimonthly meetings Dean Crawford, the Student Affairs Committee, made up of the heads of the different departments, and the members of the Student Council discuss and act upon suggestions of the students and faculty members pertaining to student affairs and problems. The members of the council represent the student body in these meetings, and they present before the body any plausible ideas of the students which may aid in the progress of the school or alleviate discord or grievances. Respect for and arbitration of student problems is thus recognized as being of vital concern in the betterment of the student body and the school.

Five members from each of the four classes compose the Student Council. Two members are elected by class vote and serve together with the class officers to make up the representative body from each class.

Xi Psi Phi fraternity began its existence as the first dental fraternity at the Indiana Dental College with the installation of the Theta chapter in 1893. It was the second dental fraternity to be organized, having its origin at the University of Michigan, on February 8, 1889.

Xi Psi Phi, growing rapidly since its inception, established forty-six active chapters. At present, due to mergers and discontinuance of dental schools, there are twenty-five active chapters.

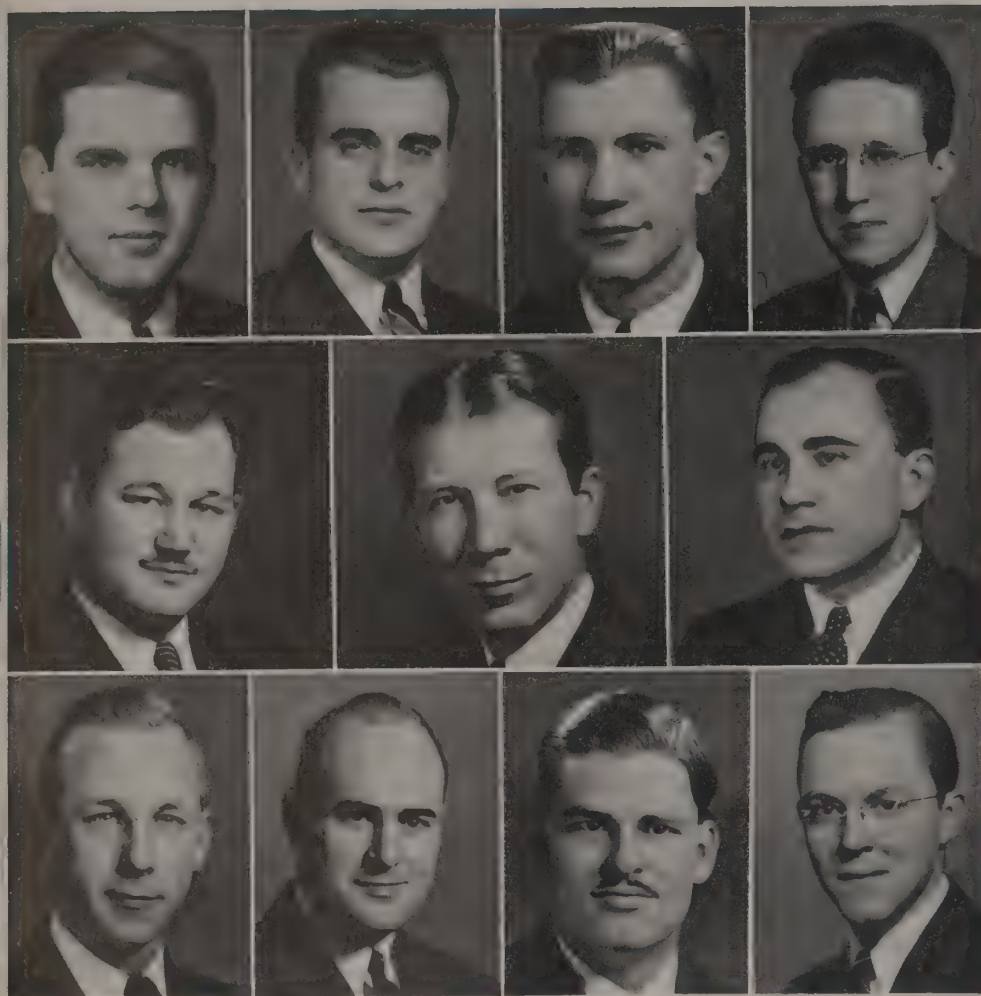

In the years 1900-1902 a fraternity magazine was published intermittently. In 1906, the official publication, the Xi Psi Phi Quarterly, was founded. It has since enjoyed a continuous existence and has proved to be a worthy publication.

Xi Psi Phi is the only dental fraternity in which every initiate receives life membership in the alumni chapter upon his graduation. Included with this membership is a lifetime subscription to the Xi Psi Phi Quarterly.

With very few exceptions, the active chapters reside in chapter houses. Theta chapter is now located at 115 East Fall Creek Boulevard, in Indianapolis.

Psi Omega fraternity was founded at the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery in 1892 by an energetic group of students who felt the need of an organization to promote fraternal fellowship and to aid in advancing the dental profession. To this group many graduate dentists and students of the profession are deeply obligated.

Psi Omega has grown to be the largest dental fraternity in the world, having a chapter in every dental school in the United States and several in European schools. All of the active and alumni chapters are kept posted on developments and activities of the fraternity by their journal, "The Frater", which is published quarterly.

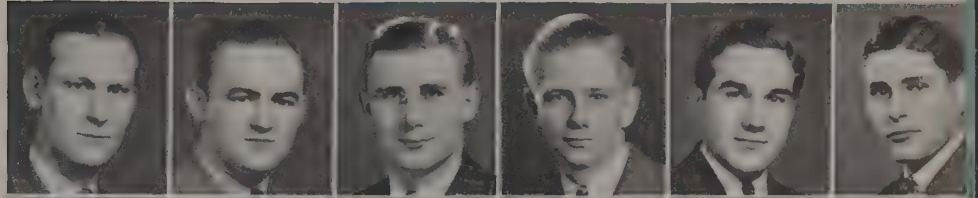

Omega chapter, at the Indiana University School of Dentistry, was founded in 1903, and since has been striving to do its part in carrying on the traditions of Psi Omega. To secure this, each member dedicates himself to cultivate the social qualities of his fellow members, to surround each with real friends to whom he can turn for assistance and advice, and to promote the advancement of the dental profession in methods of teaching, practice, and jurisprudence.

Founded in 1883 at the University of Michigan, Delta Sigma Delta fraternity claims the distinction of being the first dental fraternity organized for members and students of the profession. Since this time the fraternity has developed into an international organization composed of forty-two auxiliary chapters with thirty-three subordinate chapters.

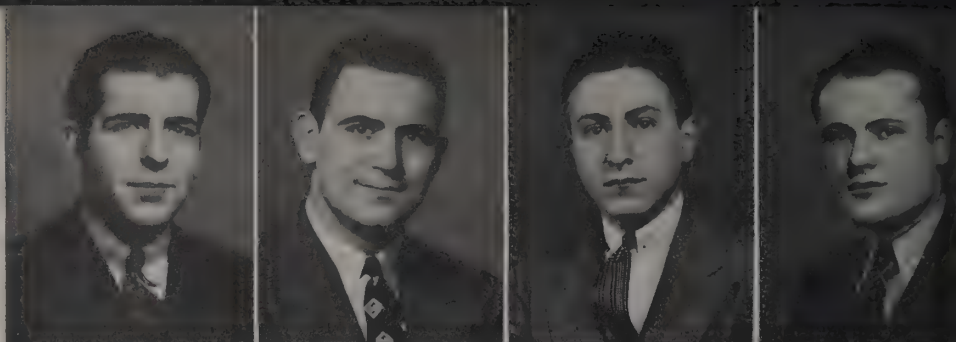

The local chapter, known as the Xi chapter, was established in January, 1900, and since has been a very active organization at the dental school. The late Dean F. R. Henshaw was a Past Supreme Grand Master of Delta Sigma Delta. Doctor F. Wade LaRue, also a Past Supreme Grand Master of the fraternity, is deputy in charge at the fraternity house, where he resides.

The Delta Sigma Delta fraternity house is located at 1424 Central Avenue, in Indianapolis, and the members of the fraternity are proud of the fact that the house is the property of the fraternity. The organization also owns a bus which affords transportation to and from school for the members. This has proven very advantageous and the members are contemplating a new bus for the next year.

ALPHA OMEGA

In 1909, the Romach Fraternity, established in 1906 at the Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery, and Alpha Omega, dental fraternity established in 1907 at the University of Maryland, combined to form the Alpha Omega fraternity. Thus, two small organizations found themselves together forming the nucleus of the Alpha Omega fraternity, the oldest and foremost Jewish dental fraternity in existence. Over fifty subordinate Chapters, covering many states, from coast to coast and from Canada to the Gulf, are now included within its rolls.

Alpha Gamma chapter at the Indiana University School of Dentistry was founded in 1928. Twelve years later, in 1940, the Indianapolis Alumni Chapter was organized. The charter members are all alumni members of Alpha Gamma chapter.

To instil in its members the virtues of truth and wisdom; to cultivate the social qualities of its members; to surround each member with true life long friends; to the general advancement of the dental profession; and to carry forth the fraternity's ideals of scholarship, fellowship and Judaeism: to all this the members of Alpha Omega, dedicate themselves.

By means of the University Extension the general public is given the privileges of a university. The four extension centers of Indiana are the Indianapolis Center, the Calumet Center, the South Bend-Mishawaka Center and the Fort Wayne Center. Classes are open to any adult who can carry out the work with profit. University credit is not given unless the persons comply with the University entrance conditions. Each Division is glad to certify any work which has been successfully completed. Under the guidance of the Extension Teaching Service the Extension Divisions offer annually several hundred different courses which are mostly undergraduate courses in the College of Arts and Sciences. Extension classes are also offered in courses in the School of Education, the School of Medicine, the School of Business, and the School of Music.

The Public Welfare Service is another phase of university extension. The Public Welfare Service aids the various agencies endeavoring to meet certain community needs such as good health, child welfare, sound public opinion, and civic progress.

The Public Discussion Bureau and the Visual Instruction Bureau are also organizations within the university extension. The Bureau of Public Discussion assists in the education of public opinion, stimulates intelligent discussion of current political, economic, and social questions, based on reliable recent factual data.

The four Extension Centers in Ft. Wayne, Indianapolis, South Bend-Mishawaka, and in the Calumet region offer university facilities for student study, activities, and recreation. Here many students take work before entering the University in Bloomington. Others supplement their high school training with extension studies. The students at the centers have many extra-curricular activities including plays, clubs, and interest groups. The journalism classes at the Indianapolis Center write an Extension news column which appears in the Indiana Daily Student every week. Thus the students at the Extension Centers are given an opportunity not only to take college courses, but also to participate in campus life and extra-curricular activities.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Along with the Freshman year, with its publicized rhinie pod, board, phone answering, and blind dates, go many other things not so much publicized. Among these are the sneak dates from study table, and the hours spent in the library annex, which may vary from the Varsity Drug Store to the benches behind the observatory—weather permitting. Then too, the Freshmen get a wide variety of education from the various lectures at which they fill in for upperclassmen. Perhaps the Freshman acquires more advice during his nine months' stay, than the Business School acquires in four years from the "Squeak" Box. It might be said, too, that the percentage of advice taken by both is low. Late in the year, the Freshmen become brave and cut a few classes, but in general they sleep through few of them, either in them or at home. Among the Freshmen who have not only been very successful in progressing the above lines, but also have indulged in extra-rhinie activities have been Ruth Taylor, Arbutus Beauty; Hank Rickey, President of Skull and Crescent; and Bob Niebauer, President of Phi Eta Sigma.

Nancy Hall, AOPH songstress, croons into the mike with Paul Devine's campus band . . . Aecias make a rake off . . . Warpy Waterfall's vocalist, Marge Warren, Alpha Chi warbler, adds that plaintive lull. . . Sigma Nu punch must be goggle water.

King of the Dames Ball Charles Barnhill in a wreath of smiles is crowned with the laurels by Mortar Board prexy Jeannette Dice . . . On one of the days when the Music School lounge was not closed to the public, three musical scholars, Klingelhoffer, Abrams, and Wiesman, got together and lounged.

The Sophomore year finds a more independent group haunting the campus. They may be found literally all over the campus, all the way from the Memorial Hall Rock Garden, to the middle of the Jordan, and from sleeping through eight o'clocks, to cutting classes for a game of bridge in the commons. Indeed, the most honored achievement that a member of the Sophomore class can attain is to get through the whole year without buying a book, and without borrowing one from a roommate.

The Sophomore is usually the villain who lures the unsuspecting Freshman into taking a blind date with a "queen". He is usually the one who thinks up the clever schemes of getting through school by selling the "one born every minute" boys tickets to Convocation, or an athletic book for intramural games. When on good behavior, the Sophomores may be found working diligently on plans for "Hell Week", or dodging the Freshmen after "Hell Week". In general, the only ones who notice the Sophomores are those organizations who have some manual labor to be done, and no fund for hiring it, and so they exchange a small key for several hours of work. Those branching out into other than the general run of activities this year have been Howdy Wilcox, ex-President of Skull and Crescent; SAE Ed Ferrey of the Arbutus and Daily Students Staffs; Don Batton, Delt President, and member of Union Board; and Mary Jane Armstrong, A.W.S. Council, and President of Pan-Hell.

Pi Phis do too study—and due to study bring up the scholastic rating . . . Sigma Chi—Pi Phi—alight—from White . . . Robert Sabin makes an impression with Mary Benninghoff—Thumb fun.

With two years of college behind them, the Juniors have all requirements out of the way, or at least some of them, and at once begin the search for pipe courses. Here many fail. Few of them find a full fifteen hours of pipe, and many are led astray by the "fatherly" advice of a Senior who wants to get even for the tough course which he got stung on the year before. When not in search of such courses, the Juniors are usually on the path of some person to take or give them a pin. A few are trying to find ways and means of severing pinning connections of previous years. When not pursuing one of these pasttimes, the Juniors content themselves with boressing with Freshmen about "Hell Week", piling up activities points, and reminiscing in general about the years they have left behind, Grey Beards, so to speak. Among the noted who have lasted through the third year in clinging to the activities ladder are Richard Stoner, Prom Chairman, Union Board President, etc.; Mary Susan Stull of University Theatre fame, not to mention the Presidency of A.W.S. and work on the Junior Prom; Barbara Van Fleit, '40 Prom Queen; and John Jay, of the I.S.A. and Union Board.

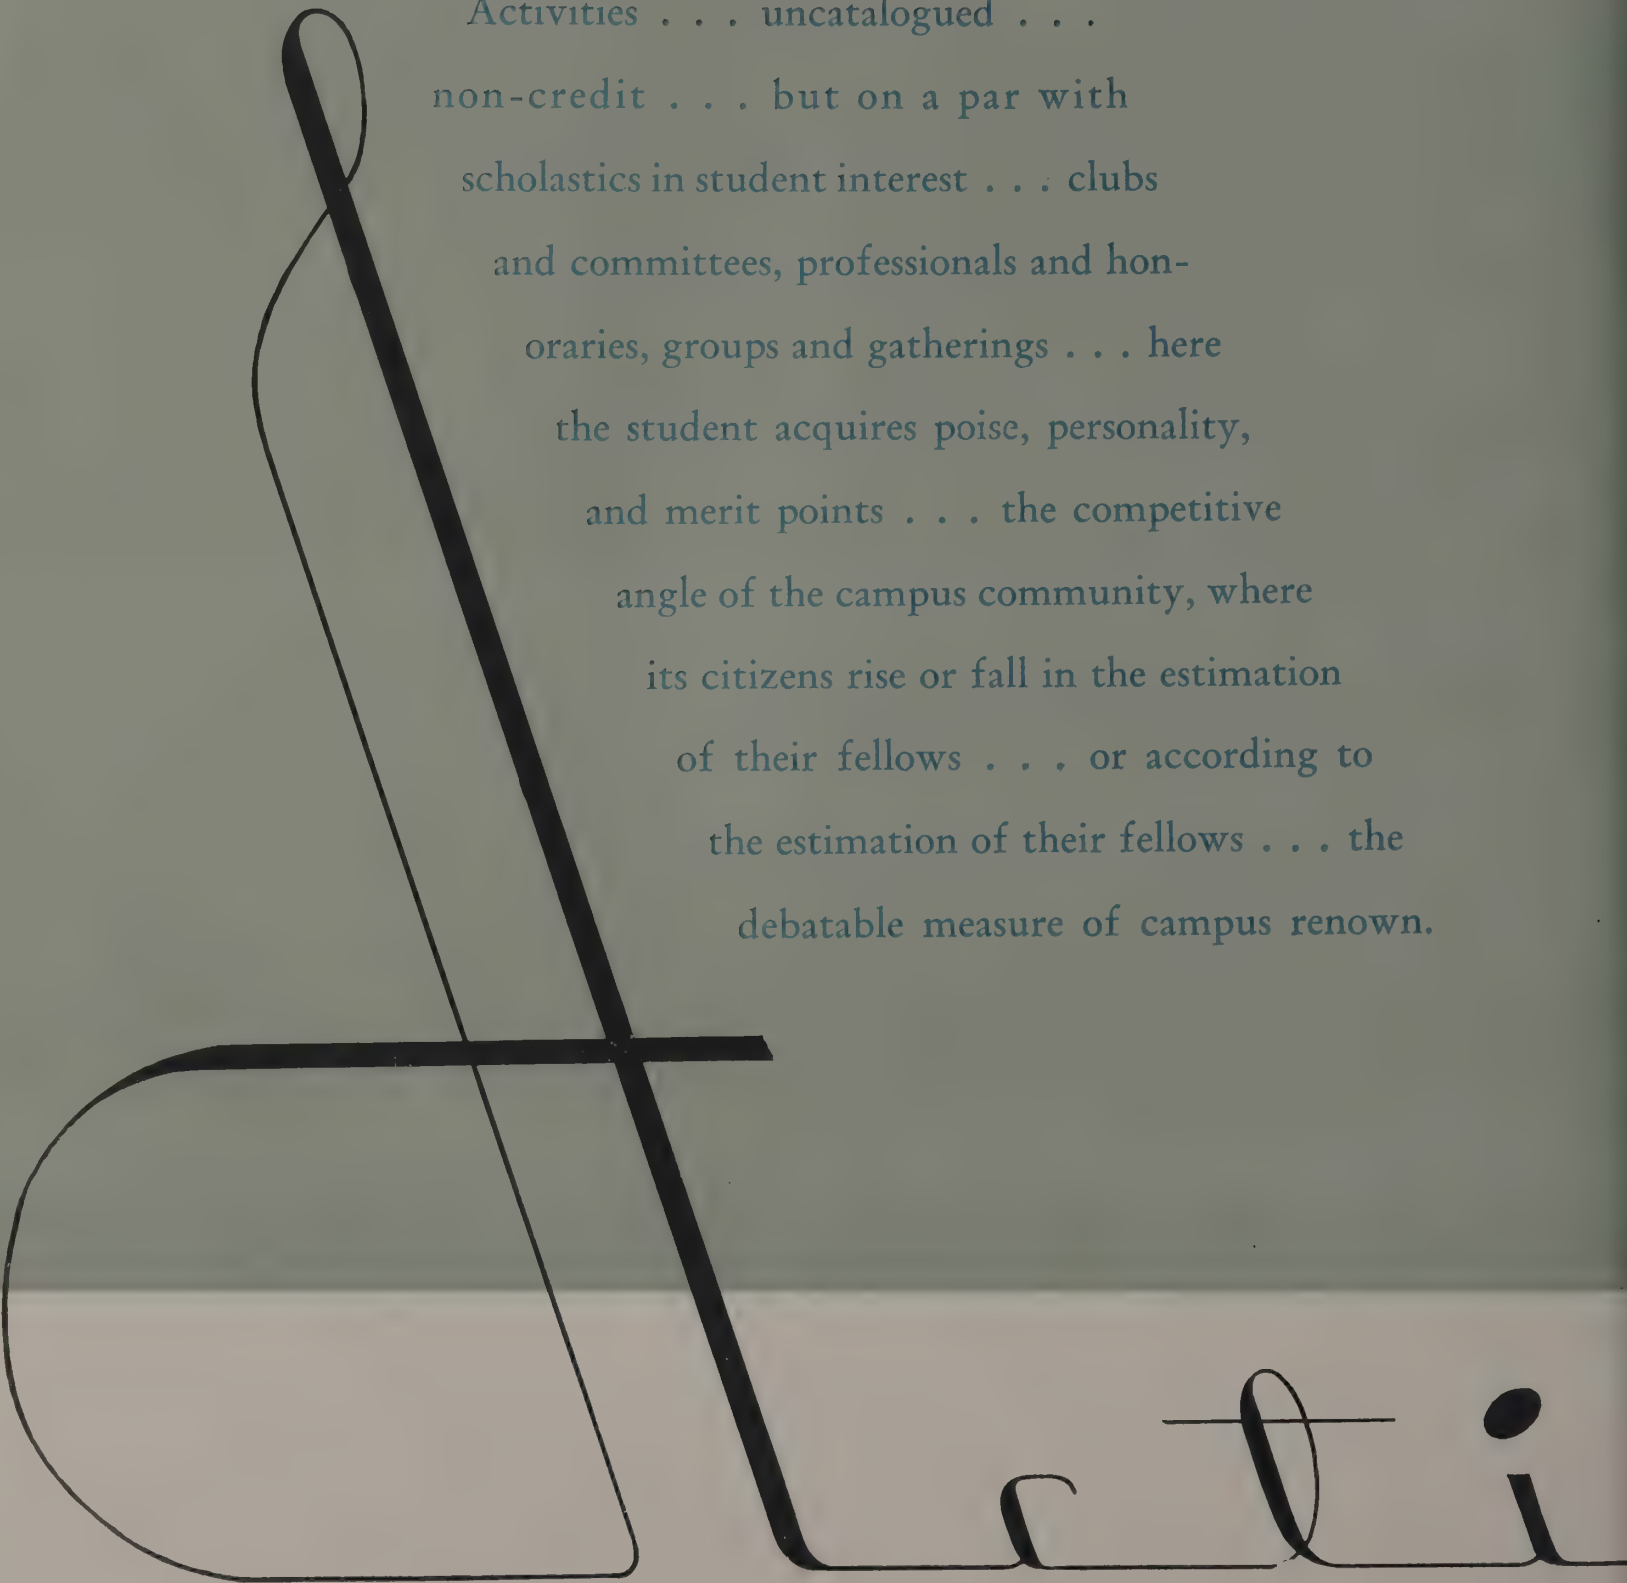

Once upon a time, there was a man who decided that it would be fitting to have a lasting and tangible record of his college days. So he invented something called a yearbook. This man should be doomed to an eternal hereafter in the deepest depths of hell. He found about fifteen of the world's worst suckers and called them his staff. They were all pleased with their titles, and proceeded to work for a lost cause which they never should have attempted to find. The man, who had not yet learned to leave well enough alone, thought up a filthy little thing that creeps up on one called a deadline, and created a well worn and oft repeated phrase, "The deadline must be met", and theoretically started out to meet it, optimist that he was.

He wrote reams of dull copy in which no one was interested and fewer reams of wit and humor which no one understood anyway. He took angle shots of beauties and formal shots of professors and sweated over short, to-the-point captions about them. He planned pages and counted words and corrected spellings on the names till he reached a crisis when he sent the book to the printers and left for two weeks in the mountains.

Our hero, or villain, depending upon whether one has ever worked on a yearbook staff, has not been heard of since. A man was found in the bottom of the East River with his hands and feet tied behind his back and a cement bag around his neck. He fitted the description of our late benefactor but he did not appear to have been the suicidal type. Some claim that he may be found under "Revolutionary War Claims" in his own office where no one would ever think of looking for him. Others say he was lost in a forest of eight balls.

The "Supreme Two Hundred and Fifty", lawyers, and others gaze avidly at the entertainment furnished by the Mad Monks at the taxi-less Taxi Dance . . . THE 1940 ARBUTUS

Publication of any issue of the Arbutus has always entailed extreme cooperation and coordination between the various students engaged in the financial and editorial units of the book. This year found a business and editorial staff of ample capabilities coupled with the experienced leadership of Editor-in-Chief, Audrey Smith, and Business Manager, Robert Twyman.

Working directly under the editor were the Junior associate editors, Bette Anne Tillman, John C. Vanatta, John Kistler, and Richard Stoner. These four, in turn, supervised the various departments of copy writing, editing photography, and style, assisted by the twelve Sophomore assistants, Madelyn Pugh, Jean Dickson, Joan Veit, Martha McIntosh, Don Batton, Maurice Hill, Claude Spilman, Virginia Flory, Ed Ferrey, Carolyn Davis, Mary Carson, and Joanna Archibald. Chief photographer, Bob McConnell with his ever-present assistant, Bill Morris, was seen throughout the year chasing his subjects around the campus.

With its high budget and expense the Arbutus required superior financial management. Directed by Robert Twyman, the business staff busied itself selling subscriptions, advertising space and the all important function of keeping the book on the black side of the ledger book. The Junior business associates were Marvin Miller, Virginia Austin, Herman Dicter, and Bill Fisher. The roster of subscription-sellers and ad-pawners included Charles Legeman, Nancy Ellis, Mary Elsner, Margaret Welsh, Jeanne Gifford, Joan Barr, Bob Witham, Bob Frank, Gene Brown, Joe Troy, John Painter, and Garza Baldwin.

The university watchman on his nightly rounds has no doubt many times passed in front of the Union Building, looked up at the third floor east wing and seen a light burning. If the window was open he probably heard the hum of voices mingled with the clacking of typewriters, and saw wisps of cigarette smoke rising in the early dawn air. He didn't run to the nearest corner to turn in an alarm, however, for he knew by this time that it was merely the Arbutus staff sweating their journalistic brows in the hope of being able to answer affirmatively the question, "Will the Arbutus be out on time this year?"

In the compilation of any year-book the help and cooperation of a great many people are necessary. The work of the photographer and his staff, as well as that of the editors and business managers of sections of the book, contribute greatly to the success or failure of a book.

For the second consecutive year the Arbutus has had a separate photography division in connection with its regular staff. The main work of this group has been the making of all of the informal shots and many formal ones which appear throughout the book.

This year the staff photographer was Bob McConnell, and his associate was Bill Morris. The dark room assistants were Walt Lerner and Bob Weatherwax.

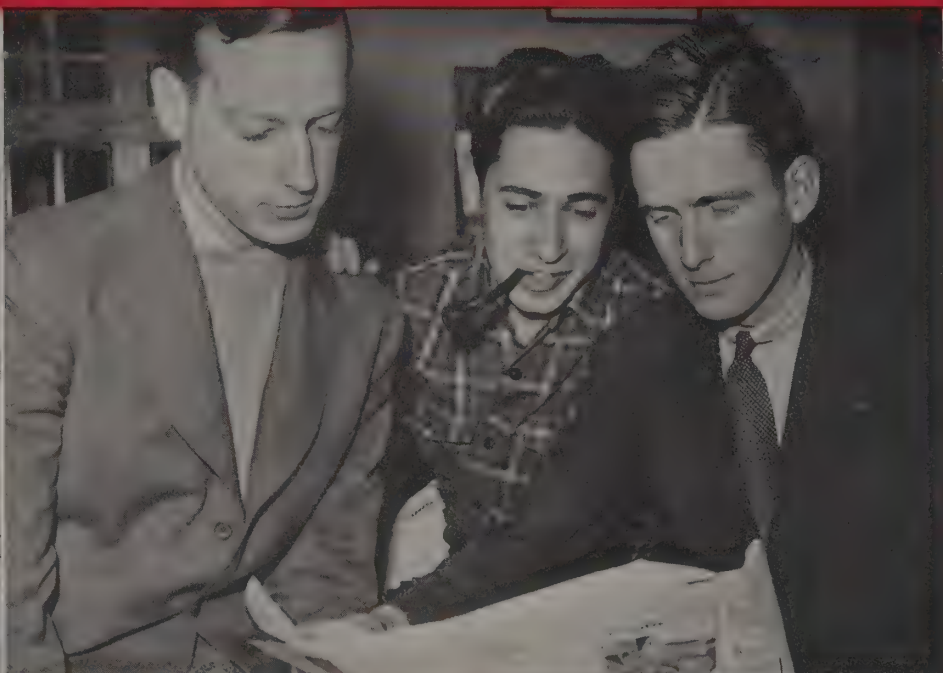

Past practical newspaper and high school annual experience has given McConnell a very good background for his work. Also, he has used most of his own equipment for this year's work.

Much of the quality of the Arbutus is due to those of the photographic division for their fine cooperative spirit, splendid photographs, and efficient service.

This year the editors and business managers of the Medical and Dental sections of the Arbutus have, through their efficiency and cooperation, assisted greatly in the publication of the year-book. With their aid, the Arbutus has attempted to present a clear picture of student work and activity on the Indianapolis campuses.

THE INDIANA DAILY STUDENT

Modestly self-styled the World's Greatest College Daily, the Indiana Daily Student publishes for the campus the latest campus, city, state, nation, and world news. During the school year, four sets of editors serve on the paper. The first semester Nathan Kaplan was editor; Dave Richardson, managing editor; the second half of the semester Dave Richardson was editor and Bill Brink, managing editor. The second semester Richard Beavans headed the staff and Wendell Phillippi assisted him; the second half of the semester Wendell Phillippi occupied the editor's chair, with Carl Lewis assisting as managing editor.

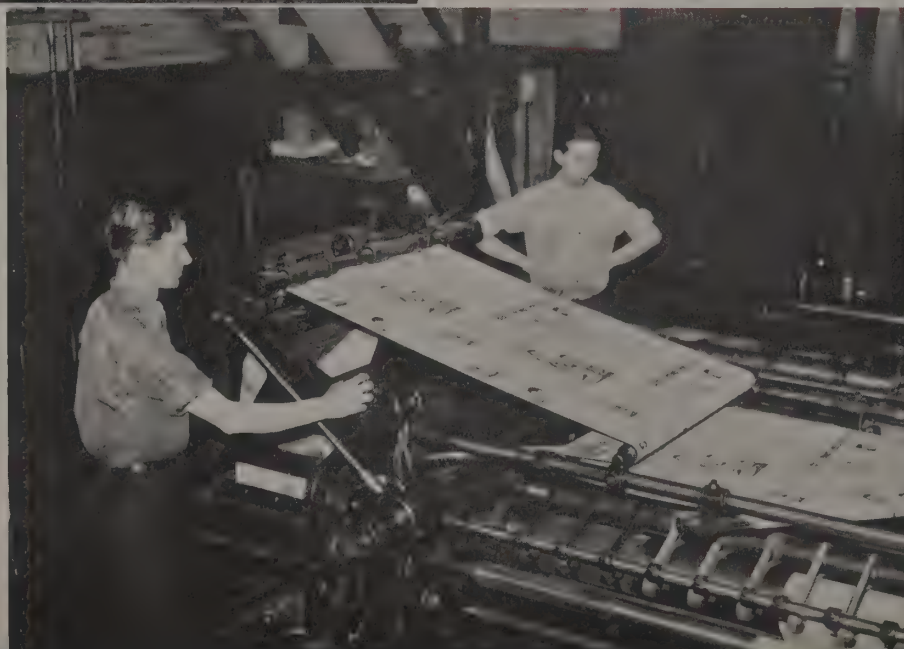

Dick Beavans and Wendell Phillippi, editors during the second semester, refer to the morgue.

First semester editors read the day's news: Bill Brink, managing editor, and Nathan Kaplan and Dave Richardson, Editors-in-Chief.

Famous are the Student's numerous campaigns, which are conducted with an earnest desire to improve the University. The Daily Student is to be congratulated upon its "Send the Band to Fordham" campaign, which it initiated during the football season, and which cry it kept up until the band was safely on its way to New York. During the basketball season the need of raising the school spirit was shown by the Student, with a suggestion that girls be added to the cheer leaders squad. By the time of the home Purdue game, three girl leaders were ready to perform.

The Student does much to keep the campus safety conscious by its frequent articles and editorials on this subject. Another campaign which the editors have taken up is that for an improvement in the student government set up, and a change in the merit system. Other campaigns which the Student has carried on have ranged from backing University debating, to advocating peace in keeping with the present world situation.

The Indiana Daily Student is not idle during the summer. An edition is published twice a week by summer school students, who struggle through the hot summer, tracking down stories, and editing the news.

During the State Fair at Indianapolis in September, a staff composed of Indiana University students, puts out a daily edition of the Student, the only newspaper in the world to be published on a fairgrounds. Dave Richardson was this year's Editor-in-Chief, and the rest of the staff was made up of Wendell Phillipi, Richard Beavans, Tom Miller, Mary Holsinger, Helen Wallin, Tom Gilliam and Carl Lewis.

THE FOLIO

In the year '39-'40, the "Folio" published its fifth volume, the third in succession under the capable direction of Editor-in-Chief Dr. Josephine K. Piercy. Under Dr. Piercy's editorial policy, each issue of the "Folio" is edited by different faculty co-editors working with a permanent staff of faculty and students. The co-editors this year were Dr. Collins and Mr. Lockridge, Jr., for the fall issue; Mr. Roudebush and Mr. Palmer for the winter issue; Mr. Jansen for the midwinter issue; and Dr. Campbell and Mr. Yellen for the spring issue. All are of the Department of English.

The year was marked by the introduction of two new features: "Among the Magazines", a series of reviews meant to introduce the student to some of the better magazines which he otherwise might not meet, and "News Review", a commentary by Nathan Kaplan, '40, in which news was not only reviewed but interpreted. "Books" and "Off the Record", the latter a news-letter by Robert W. Martin, '40, on the recording of classical music, were features continued from previous years. The art work of the magazine for the year was highlighted by the excellent photography of John W. Sloan, '39, and Lloyd Evans of the Bureau of Visual Instruction as well as the amusing and witty illustrations of Normabelle Helmen, '40.

The policy of the "Folio" has remained unchanged. Primarily it is meant to serve as a textbook for English Composition—to provide stimulation to composition students by showing them what their fellow students have done. Besides being an organ of the English Department, the "Folio" is meant to encourage aspirant writers on the campus by giving them an outlet of publication. Thus the "Folio" struggles with the two-fold problem of producing a literary magazine and a text book.

BORED WALK

The Bored Walk, humor magazine of the campus, is published once a month during the nine months of the school year. The magazine is considered by the boards and associations of college magazine editors one of the best college humor magazines in the Middle West.

Bob Meyer, Editor-in-Chief of the magazine, is assisted by Bob Dobbins as Business Manager, Earl McCaslin, Advertising Manager, and Jack Modisett, Circulation Manager.

In keeping with the editorial policy outlined in the September issue this year, the Bored Walk has presented each month a variety of features which appeal to every reader's taste—gossip, slang, features, love charts, cartoons, essays, satire on campus institutions, humorous poetry, gags, and plenty of names.

The most popular feature in the book is the Borings column, a monthly revelation of private love-life, dormitory, sorority, and fraternity gossip. This year the publication has been highlighted by having two cover designs drawn by an "Esquire" artist. Also capturing attention have been the pin charts, local photographs and the "Life magazine issue", which has gained favorable opinion from other campuses. Bored Walk has the distinction of having its humor excerpted for use in the "Reader's Digest".

In 1936 The Folio had its beginnings as a private enterprise at Indiana University. However, in 1937 the magazine was taken over by the English Department, enlarged, and is now used as a means of expression for creative writing, with the students in English Composition as its contributors.

The Bored Walk, Indiana University's humor magazine, was first published in January, 1931. Bernard Nordberg '33, served as Editor-in-Chief of the publication during its first year of life. Ever since its beginning The Bored Walk has been a privately owned publication.

During its eight years of existence, it has built a reputation for itself which makes its publication date a red letter day on the campus calendar.

Besides the conventional paper, yearbook, humor magazine, and literary magazine there are many subsidiary publications on the Indiana campus. Freshman men and women receive the "Freshman Handbook" and the "Chimes of Indiana", respectively, to aid them in becoming orientated to college life. The "Indiana Alumni Magazine" is of special interest to those wishing to keep in contact with their alma mater; the "Athletic Review" sold at football games appeals to sport enthusiasts; and the "Red Book" furnishes all those connected with the university with a complete directory of students, faculty, and offices.

OTHER PUBLICATIONS

In order to maintain alumni interest in I.U., the Indiana Alumni Magazine is issued each month from October through June to graduates and former students who are members of the Alumni Association. It includes University news, feature stories about outstanding alumni, sports write-ups, and pictures.

Published each fall by the Y.M.C.A., the Red Book is Indiana University's complete directory of all students, administrative officials, and faculty members. With the additional information concerning campus organizations and regulations, it is an indispensable book.

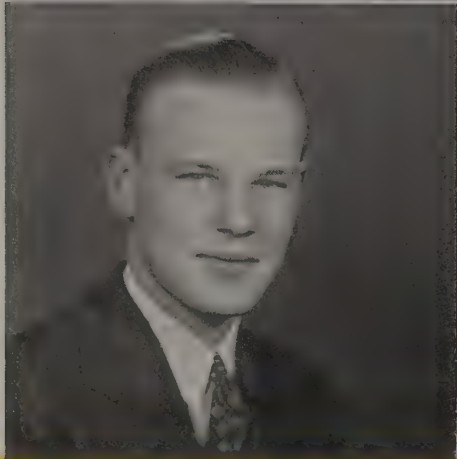

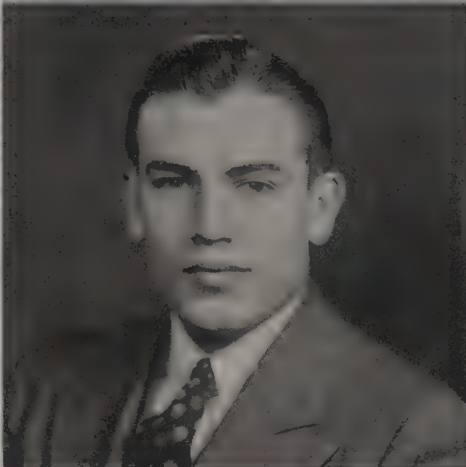

The Athletic Review is presented in combination with the official program at all home football games. It features lineups of the games, information about opposing teams, and pictures of the outstanding athletes of I.U.

This year the Freshman Handbook was compiled entirely under the supervision of an A.W.S. committee instead of in cooperation with Y.W.C.A. members. Presented in booklet form, it is a combination of tips to Freshman women on campus life and on social etiquette.

A committee composed of members of the Indiana Union annually prepares the Freshman Guide for new men students in the University. Its purpose is to give the student a general conception of the type of academic work and social and extra-curricular activities presented at Indiana University.

BOARD OF AEONS

Edward Hutton President
Paul Boxell Vice-President
Richard Beavans Secretary

In the center of the discussion and debate on student self-government this year was the Board of Aeons, highest student tribunal and governing body. Much publicity was given to the movement for self-government on the campus, and the Board itself spent considerable time studying various systems and plans pointing toward a probable change in the mode of administration.

Established in 1921 by President-Emeritus William Lowe Bryan, the Board of Aeons was originally designed to serve as a coordinating link between the student body and the faculty-administration. Meeting each Monday night throughout the school year, it discusses various problems relevant to campus life, and makes recommendations to the University Board of Trustees. Its meetings are secret, a fact which is necessitated by virtue of the type of situations it must handle.

In achieving a position on the Board of Aeons, a student may say that he has truly climbed to the highest rung of the campus political ladder. Membership is appointive, and the student must have displayed excellence either in scholarship or in some type of campus leadership. The Board compiles a list twice each year of the Junior and Senior men whom it feels most capable of executing its business, then submits these lists to President Wells for final selection. Men who represent all walks of campus life and who are well acquainted with student needs and problems comprise the membership of the group.

A university woman who has been elected to Mortar Board has achieved one of the highest honors possible in extra-curricular activities. Mortar Board has as its aim the promotion of the best interests of university women. This Senior organization recognizes four years of scholarship, leadership, and activity. New members are "capped" in their Junior year at the Junior-Senior Luncheon on University Foundation Day. In the evening after the "capping", the chapter serenades the new pledges and the faculty advisers.

The Indiana chapter of Mortar Board was organized in 1921 by Dr. Agnes E. Wells, former Dean of Women. Miss Wells also helped frame the national constitution of Mortar Board, at its foundation in 1918.

Mortar Board traditionally sponsors several worth-while projects. In October, the organization compiles a list of available tutors, who have been recommended by heads of departments in the College of Arts and Sciences. In addition, the group recognizes outstanding Sophomore women, who are entertained at a tea. Other projects include the collection of old clothes and textbooks, the awarding of three tuition scholarships, and the sale of Phillips Brooks calendars. Mortar Board sponsors the unique Dame's Ball, which is the one campus affair of the year at which the girl pays all the bills for the evening. The "dames" call for their dates, send them corsages and show every attention and courtesy that they would expect from a masculine escort. This year Mortar Board members held a dinner for their dates before the dance and attended in a body.

From their treasury, the organization periodically replenishes the Student Loan Fund and also has recently redecorated the chapter room. It is an annual custom for Mortar Board to return the "razz" on the members of Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalistic honorary, who sponsor the Razz Banquet. On Baccalaureate Day the active chapter entertains the Mortar Board alumni who have returned for Commencement.

Several new projects are being inaugurated this year. Mortar Board is keeping the Student Building kitchen supplied with staples, is conducting research on cooperative houses to see if they would be practical for this campus, and will publish a pamphlet on Hygiene and Etiquette for University Women.

The present faculty advisers of the group are Miss Agnes E. Wells, Miss Cora B. Hannel, and Miss Clara Fedler.

UNION BOARD

Buck Mauck	President
Mifflin Thomas	Vice-President
Robert Weir	Secretary
J. E. Patrick	Director

Conceded to be the most imposing edifice on the Bloomington Campus is the Indiana Memorial Union Building, which, since its erection in 1932, has served an indispensable purpose in providing the student body with a nucleus for the conduct of its activities.

Founded in 1909 by John Whittenberger and a group of students, the Indiana Union has grown to be a dominant factor in extra-curricular life. All male white students are members of the Union. Set up in the beginning to guide its activities was the Union Board, which has continued to function as governing body and supervisor of the usage of the building's facilities. Its membership consists of fifteen men, twelve students, two faculty members, and the director, J. E. Patrick. Of the student members, nine are selected on the basis of scholarship, interest in the Union as demonstrated in committee merit system work, and leadership qualities. The remaining three members of the board are elected at large by the male students in a spring election.

The various activities and interest groups sponsored by the Union Board are numerous. Each Friday night in conjunction with A.W.S. the Board holds an informal dance or "mixer" to provide low cost entertainment for the students. It makes possible the two discussion groups, Town Hall and the Open Forum, at which students voice their opinions in debate on pertinent questions of local and national concern. The football and basketball pep sessions are under the supervision of the Board, and also the Grid-Graph, a play-by-play presentation of the out-of-town football games.

Throughout the year visitors to the campus are conducted on tours of inspection by Union Board guide service workers. The Freshman banquet, football and basketball banquets, and other fetes of that type are directed by the Board. Another widely publicized project of the Union is the weekly Record Hour, at which classical recordings are played. This service enjoyed a tremendous boost this year as a result of a grant of records and custom-built recording machine donated by the Carnegie Foundation. Under this expansion students may now have access to the records at times other than the Friday night session.

The Union Board plays guardian angel to a group of lesser interest clubs and organizations, such as the Chess Club, the Camera Club, the I. U. Flying Club, the university billiard teams, and several others.

The seventeen hundred women students at Indiana University comprise the membership of the Association of Women Students. The promotion and the maintenance of the highest standards of college life, and the bringing about of greater unity and mutual helpfulness among the women of the university has been the purpose of this organization since it was established here in 1920. A. W. S. is a member of the National Inter-Collegiate Association of Women Students.

The organization is governed by a council of thirteen women students who are elected by all the women students. Organized and unorganized students have equal representation on the council. At least once a year there is a mass meeting of all the women.

In order that more women may take an active part in the organization, five committees were formed. They are the publicity, clerical, coed counseling, social, and finance committees. The publicity committee is in charge of the A.W.S. publication, The Coed Reporter, which contacts every woman student.

A.W.S. created the Board of Standards this year which enforces the A. W. S. rulings and offers help and advice to any woman student so desiring it.

The organization also made possible a recreation room in the Student Building to provide recreation and entertainment for both men and women. Students may enjoy dancing, ping-pong, badminton, and shuffleboard.

A.W.S. in cooperation with Union Board sponsors weekly Friday night dances, the Powwow, and a Christmas party for underprivileged children. Also at Christmas time the girls dress dolls to be given to unfortunate children. In addition to these functions, A.W.S. has several informal Saturday night parties, a dinner for Freshman women, a tea for transfer students, and a Hallowe'en party for all Freshman women. This year the organization is giving a dinner in honor of the Senior women. Through coed counseling and the printing of the Freshman Handbook, the organization helps orientate the Freshman women.

Dragon's Head represents a singular organization on Indiana's campus. It is purely honorary, meeting only twice a year at induction banquets, one taking place in the fall and another in the spring. Its beginning dates back to 1933.

The group boasts only the biggest and better of the campus big-wigs. To be eligible, one must be a Senior and must have attained none but the highest ranking in prominent extracurricular activities. As such, a member is captain of a major athletic team, editor or executive officer of a major publication, or president of one of several organizations.

Glancing over its officers it is easy to see what "rods" are members of Dragon's Head. Buck Mauck is President of Senior Class and President of the Union Board. Nathan Kaplan was Editor of the Indiana Student the first half of the first semester. Miff Thomas is Captain of the Varsity Swimming team. Robert Twyman is Business Manager of the Arbutus and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. Edward Hutton is President of the Board of Acons. Willard Findling is Senior Football Manager and President of Blue Key. Marvin Huffman is Captain of the varsity basketball squad. Richard Beavans is President of the Independent Students Association and was Editor of the Daily Student for the first half of the second semester.

Four men are initiated in the first semester and four more the second, thus limiting the membership to eight. Twice a year four officers are chosen from the ranks of the new members.

There are no dances, monthly meetings, or services performed by Dragon's Head. It sponsors no milk funds, gives no benefits for relief funds and gives no excuse for its existence. It is in this fact that lies its chief claim to campus fame. The reason for this is, undoubtedly, that the B.M.O.C.'s it boasts of would have no time to participate in them. For if they did have time, Dragon's Head would not claim them.

BOARD OF STANDARDS

The Board of Standards is the youngest self-government group on the campus. It began its work in the fall of 1939 with Rosemary Treanor as chairman of the group, and has been functioning strongly ever since. It was started by AWS Council to perform the functions of a judiciary board, and to act as an advisory council to the Dean of Women in her work with students. The council takes action in disciplinary cases, and plans remedial and constructive projects for women students of Indiana. Before the final examination period the Board of Standards undertook a campaign to reduce cheating. The campaign consisted of recommendations sent out to faculty members and group meetings for all women students. A survey was made by the board to discover the cause of cheating and find means of remedying it. Through contact with professors, a collection of past examinations is to be made, and the examinations are to be kept on file in the Library for the use of students.

The minutes of the weekly meetings are available for reading in the Dean of Women's office and the AWS Council room, so that any interested student may be fully informed of all the work of the Board. Plans are now being made to enlarge the group so that the student body will be assured of a greater representation.

The Board is composed of seven members, three seniors, two juniors and two sophomores. The present members are Barbara Beall, Albina Spsychalski, Rosemary Treanor, Betty Harsh, Mary Jane Straub, Margaret Fargo, and Mary Rees.

The burial of "Jawn Purdue" at the pep session preceding the Indiana-Purdue football game is one of the best-known activities of Blue Key, honorary organization for outstanding men of the campus. They also compile a recognition list of the outstanding Freshmen and give a Blue Key dance each year.

The group meets every other Thursday for lunch to discuss various campus problems.

Blue Key was founded at the University of Florida in 1924. The fraternity was originally organized for the purpose of welcoming members of the state legislature to their campus. One year later the organization became national in scope. In 1929 a chapter was founded at Indiana University to recognize student activities, character, and scholarship.

Before a student can be considered for membership in Blue Key, he must have accumulated at least 100 points in extra-curricular activities, his scholastic average must be at least 1.3, he must be a Junior or Senior, and he must have the endorsement of President Herman B Wells.

The faculty members of the fraternity are Dean C. J. Sembower, Dr. L. E. Norvelle, Dr. E. L. Yeager, Dr. J. J. Robinson, and A. N. (Bo) McMillin. Glen R. Hillis, prominent Kokomo attorney, was made an honorary member in 1939.

PLEIADES

Laura Wilkins	President
Julia Ann Harting	Vice-President

The blue and gold cap, which is worn on Wednesdays and rainy days by members of Pleiades, is their traditional insignia. The cap marks a girl who is prominent socially and in extra-curricular activities.

To strengthen the spirit of cooperation and friendliness among social organizations is the main purpose of Pleiades, which was founded on the Indiana campus in 1925 by six girls—hence the six stars in a circle on the front of the hat. The number of pledges is governed by those graduating, as the membership is limited to twenty-five. New members are announced at the Powwow in the fall and on the morning of the Junior Prom in the spring.

New pledges announced Prom morning were Naomi Bates, Helen Miller, Betty Nicholls, Mary Snapp, Nancy Ellis, Louise Samuelson, Joan Barr, Kathryn Alexander, Madelyn Pugh, Vara Judd, and Anne Hooge.

Pleiades sponsors an annual Christmas party for needy children and awards two scholarships annually to the unorganized women most outstanding on the campus. As a university organization it is most helpful because of its many projects which keep it in contact with students and student affairs.

Regular bi-weekly luncheons are held in the Pleiades Room of the Student Building, and dinner meetings are also held frequently at sorority houses of the various members in order to acquaint each with the other's sorority membership.

On November 11 the group co-operated with Skull and Crescent in sponsoring the "Jordan Ramble" dance.

Sponsors of the organization are Miss Agnes E. Wells, former Dean of Women, and Mrs. Lee Norvelle.

Sphinx Club

Jack Stevenson President
Earl G. Mauck Vice-President
Walt Smith Secretary-Treasurer

Sitting stolidly and allowing the shifting sands of the desert to bury him is not, as the name might seem to indicate, the occupation of a member of Sphinx Club. The very honorable honorary for upperclassmen maintains a reputation which is nationally recognized, for the group is wide-spread and has chapters on many campuses throughout the college world.

Originally conceived at this University in 1910 by several enterprising men as a means of promoting good fellowship among students on the campus, this organization has upheld that purpose with commendable zeal.

Pledging to the group takes place in the fall and spring, the new men being required to have at least Junior standing. The members of Sphinx Club are chosen on the basis of their being active on the campus in some form of extra-curricular activity, and being "good fellows" as well.

The organization sponsors several functions, some public and others confined to the group. The campus activities are numerous, including the Dad's Day function, an annual paternal get-together on the day of the Purdue classic. Sphinx holds the Table Waiter's Ball each year in Alumni Hall. In conjunction with Pleiades, the group ushers at the Powwow Banquet. In the journalistic field, Sphinx helps sponsor the Athletic Review. Within its own sphere of activity it holds several dinners and private parties during the school year. Faculty adviser of the group is Robert Allen.

The Young Women's Christian Association is characterized by a faith in the ability of each individual to create and contribute to the social whole. Here different personalities may meet on the common ground of belief in the realness of deeper values and form valuable friendships through common interests.

Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. grew into two separate organizations from the Joint Christian Association, which was established in 1887. The Y.W.C.A. welcomes into membership all women students who agree to practice the principles of the association. Its theme for this year has been, "Youth Faces Life".

All the programs planned by the Y.W.C.A. are beneficial to the students of the University. It starts the year with Freshman Week, giving a picnic, breakfast, luncheon, and the Freshman Frolic to help new Freshman girls get acquainted and feel at home. During the course of the year its members hold informal discussion groups, in which philosophy, music, international relations, and social and economic problems are discussed. Together with the Y.M.C.A., they sponsor monthly teas and parties and sponsor the University Sing in May on the steps of the Student Building. Hobby groups meet for members interested in hiking, riding, reading, poetry, music, dramatics, and handicrafts.

Council and Cabinet members of the association may participate in a retreat held in Brown County every spring and fall. Here campus problems and Y.W.'s proceedings for the year are discussed.

Y.W.C.A. also sponsors groups for campus and community service in which any interested members may participate. These groups strive to aid the poor, blind, and under-privileged children, and give special help in personal adjustments. They also lead Girl Scout troops and the Girl Reserves in Bloomington schools.

SKULL AND CRESCENT

Howard Wilcox	President

"The orange and green hat signifies membership in Skull and Crescent," replies the bored upperclassman to the inquiring Freshman, and may or may not continue to inform the lowly one that the organization in question boasts of eight chapters in the schools of the Big Ten athletic conference.

Each spring the group pins pledge ribbons on two neophytes from each of the several social fraternities on the campus, the men selected being the outstanding members of their respective classes. The members remain active only through the Sophomore year, then bow to the incoming class. Thus the group maintains an active roll of about forty men.

Each year Skull and Crescent presents a fifty dollar scholarship to an outstanding student who is a member of the Sophomore class. This year the award was given to Scott Daniels. Other activities engaged in are: maintenance of the "Senior Walk"; the assumed authority over the Freshman class as to the "wearin' o' the green"; and several dinners and luncheons throughout the year.

On November 11, the group collaborated with Pleiades in sponsoring the informal "Jordan Ramble" dance, injecting a novel circus theme into the affair.

The Indiana chapter of Skull and Crescent received its charter in 1922. The chapter adviser left the campus the following year, and no one has been appointed as yet to fill the vacancy.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Women's Athletic Association has as its purpose the promotion of interest in physical education. Membership in the organization is open to anyone who makes one team or passes two required tests in the Department of Physical Education for Women.

The group, which has a membership of approximately 150 girls, is governed by the W.A.A. Board, made up of the officers and the following: Georgia Vorgang, intramural head; Helen Wallin, publicity; Beryl Ann Brownell, who represents archery on the Board; Mary LaVon Stevenson, tennis; Roberta Haskell, swimming; Caroline Imel, dance; Lois Thompson, basketball; Elizabeth Dawson, baseball; Elnora Curtis, hockey and speedball; Ruth Rogers, recreational sports; Mary Stuart Hayes, golf; Marcile Irle, volleyball; and Alverta Sohl, hiking.

Also on the Board are representatives from the archery, hiking, dance, tennis, and swimming clubs. They meet twice a month, with the entire group meeting every third Tuesday.

W.A.A. sponsors the intramural activities for women, and gives a Senior banquet for all graduating women in May. They also publish an official bulletin every week.

Play days and sports days are held with other universities. This year W.A.A. convened with Depauw University, Franklin College, and Illinois University.

1909 saw the founding of an organization, the Intrafraternity Council which was to build up cooperation and friendship among the Greek letter fraternity men on this campus.

Once every two weeks the members meet to discuss fraternity house problems, exchange dinners, intramural games, rush week activities, and various other fraternity problems which arise. The organization includes a representative from each fraternity; the group, however, has no legislative control over the organizations, for it may only formulate and offer suggestions.

The Council sponsors two annual events—the Interfraternity Ball and the Greek Night Banquet at which awards are made to both the fraternity and to individual members having the highest scholarship. The fraternity winning this award for three successive years will be able to take permanent possession of it.

Through these activities the Council has been able to be of greater service to the fraternities in solving their problems, encouraging high scholastic averages, and in eliminating interfraternity conflict.

Pan-Hellenic Association is a group of representatives from each sorority whose purpose is "to maintain fraternity life and interfraternity relationship; to cooperate with college authorities; to be a forum for discussion of questions of interest to the college and fraternity world".

A national organization, "Pan-Hell" is active in promoting a cooperative spirit among the sixteen sororities on the campus. The organization also strives to encourage a more friendly attitude between organized and unorganized students. A Thanksgiving tea dance was given by the association in cooperation with the Interfraternity Council and the I.S.A. in an effort to stimulate this attitude.

As an incentive for high scholarship, Pan-Hellenic Association awards a scholarship cup to the Greek-letter sorority having the highest average each semester. The house which is able to retain the cup for three successive years is entitled to permanent possession of it.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA

Mary Mann	President
Doris Sheeler	Vice-President

Alpha Lambda Delta girls might be called the "intelligentsia" of the Freshman class. Prerequisites for becoming a member are a B+ average and fifteen or more hours of college work. The purpose of the group—to provide "a stimulus for study and high scholarship and a reward for real interest in things intellectual"—is incentive enough for Freshmen women to strive to attain the honor of selection to membership in this group.

This honorary organization was formed at the University of Illinois in 1924. It became a national organization two years later when other colleges in the Association of American Universities became members. Now scholarly Freshmen women in colleges and universities all over the country are seen wearing the small, gold pin of Alpha Lambda Delta.

All study and no play is far from the aim of the organization. Social activities, although less important than studying, are never neglected. The major social event of the year is the formal dinner with Phi Eta Sigma in the spring after the initiation of new members. This year members of Alpha Lambda Delta attended social meetings which were held once a month. A Christmas party was given for all members now in school.

PHI ETA SIGMA

James Noland President
Lloyd Toney Vice-President

"To promote a higher standard of learning and to encourage high scholastic attainment among Freshman men" is the sole and worthy purpose of Phi Eta Sigma. This honorary fraternity was founded at the University of Illinois in 1923 and in 1930 a chapter was established on the Indiana campus. There are now twenty-nine active chapters throughout the country.

Eligibility for Phi Eta Sigma includes Freshmen standing in the University and a maintenance of at least a 2.5 average for the first semester or for the year. Robert Royer, swimming coach and assistant Dean of Men, is the faculty sponsor.

The fraternity's chief function consists in assisting Freshman men who have encountered difficulty in their studies. A Counsellors Corps, made up of members who volunteer their services, helps freshman students plan study hours and methods of study. This year the organization distributed a booklet, "Hints on How to Study", to all Freshman men.

Social activities consist of a smoker in the fall for Freshmen who attained an A average in high school, and a banquet in the spring held in conjunction with Alpha Lambda Delta, honoring new members of both organizations. Last year in the spring of 1939, the Indiana chapter played host to the national convention of Phi Eta Sigma.

Alpha Phi Omega, which is primarily a service organization, sponsored this year for the first time on the I. U. campus the Quarterback Hour, in which a series of movies of the football games played away from home were shown with explanations by members of the football coaching staff. Another new project which met with success was the free fingerprinting service in which members of Alpha Phi Omega took fingerprints of over a thousand students for the civilian fingerprint files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Alpha Phi Omega was established at Lafayette College in 1929, to extend the services of Boy Scouts throughout the college. The principle requisite for membership is that a prospective member must have been a registered scout.

A traditional project of Alpha Phi Omega is the annual "Scout Day," held at the beginning of the football season. This year they also held the Third Annual Eagle Scout Conference, and in connection with it awarded two scholarship loans.

Exemplifying the true spirit of brotherhood the Young Men's Christian Association, founded in 1891, has been bringing together the individual students of this campus for 42 years.

Its functions are numerous. The "Y" helps to create a well balanced life for the student. It gives him religious training, social training, political and economic experience, and offers to him training in leadership.

The Y.M.C.A. assisted by the Y.W.C.A. sponsors many important social events of the year. These include the Freshman Mixer, the All-University Parties, and the University Sing in which all social organizations compete for the trophy offered by the "Y".

One of the important services of the "Y" is the publication of the Red Book. This book, giving complete information about the faculty, all social organizations, and students of the campus, from its publication date becomes the complete encyclopedia for the students.

Members of the fraternity are selected from the "Marching Hundred" on the basis of attitude, appearance, and playing and marching ability. Much of the attention of the group is centered on promoting the interests of the "Marching Hundred" on the campus.

SCABBARD AND BLADE

Scabbard and Blade was founded in 1905 at the University of Wisconsin by five senior officers in the cadet corps. Now it is a national organization composed of seventy-eight companies at the different universities and colleges having departments of military sciences and tactics. It has a total membership of 30,000.

The Indiana chapter presented its petition at the first national convention of Scabbard and Blade held after the World War. The petition was accepted in 1921, and Company F, 2nd regiment at Indiana University, was the first company to be admitted to the national organization after the close of the World War. The installation of this chapter is very peculiar in the fact that its ceremonies were held at Purdue instead of at Indiana University.

Membership is based upon character, academic record, proficiency in military science, and general fitness. The local chapter conducts an election each year to elect the five coed sponsors for the R.O.T.C. unit.

Scabbard and Blade's chief purpose is to promote interest in military training. It seeks to develop the essential qualities of good and efficient officers. It also spreads intelligent information concerning the military requirements and organizations of the country.

Scabbard and Blade shares the responsibility of the Band Benefit Ball and gives the Military Ball at which the Coed Sponsors are announced. For the past few years on Scabbard and Blade Day the fraternity has had the honor of being the reviewing stand for a regimental parade.

Pershing Rifles attracts those men who find their interest in military to be greater than merely the required course. Its purpose is to maximize the drill efficiency of its members; its goal is to teach perfect precision in all military movements and drill. In a word it is the "crack" drill team of the military department.

The group first came into being when John J. Pershing organized an army unit as a competitive drill team in 1894 at the University of Nebraska. It has grown until now there are seven regiments in the United States. National headquarters are maintained at the University of Nebraska.

Organized in 1930, the unit on this campus belongs to the Third Regiment which also consists of companies from Michigan State University, University of Illinois, and Western Kentucky State Teachers College. I.U.'s members of Pershing Rifles entered into this year's regimental meet which featured competition in individual and team drills.

Marching as a separate unit, Company F, in the weekly military reviews, the Pershing Riflemen can be recognized easily by the blue braid worn on their left shoulders. Because of the extra training offered by the organization, most of the men holding responsible positions in drill regulations are found to be wearing this distinguishing blue braid.

Members of Pershing Rifles aid the advanced military course men in sponsoring the Military Ball. The unit this year elected, as their Coed Sponsor, Virginia Austin who served as reigning queen for the ball.

FLYING CLUB

Marshall HassenmillerPresident
Richard RobinsonVice-President
Dean PearchSecretary

The Indiana University Flying Club was organized in 1937, at the same time becoming a member of the National Intercollegiate Flying Club. In 1938 they put out a questionnaire on campus for the purpose of compiling statistics for the C.A.A. The club was formed to promote interest on the campus in aviation, to obtain flying instructions at reduced rates, and to aid students in gaining flying experience and knowledge of Civil Air Rules.

The organization was quite influential in obtaining a Civilian Pilot Training Program at Indiana University, which was granted a quota of twenty students in November, 1939. Thus the University became one of the many hundreds of colleges and universities participating in the new program of the Civil Aeronautics Authority. Soon after this first quota, I. U. got an additional grant which increased the quota to thirty students enrolled in the course.

The course includes ground instruction amounting to seventy-two hours, during which time the students study Navigation, Meteorology, Theory of Flight, Airplane Engines, History of Aviation, Aeronautical Instruments, Parachutes, and Radio Procedure. In addition to this they are given at least thirty-five hours of flying, of which eighteen are solo. After this is completed, they are given the C.A.A. examination for a Private Pilot's License.

The ground instruction was begun just after Christmas vacation, but the flight instruction was held up for some time before the city could get a P.W.A. grant for the construction of a new airport. Finally, on February 22, flight instruction was begun.

Although this program is not connected in any way with the U. S. War Department, and students enrolled in it do not assume military obligations, the course is under the supervision of Col. John F. Landis on this campus. Lieutenant Daudt of the National Guard is the instructor of the ground school, and he is assisted by William Kaiser, and Blaine (Junie) Bradfute in the flight instruction of the thirty students.

Membership in the Cosmopolitan Club is limited to foreign-born students and any faculty member. However, a restricted number of American-born students are allowed membership by vote of the club. The organization is principally a social and educational group, its purpose being to acquaint foreign-born students with each other and to widen their relationships with the remainder of the students on the campus.

The Indiana University Cosmopolitan Club was accepted as a chapter of the International Association of Cosmopolitan Clubs in 1918. Their bi-monthly meetings include a varied entertainment program, consisting mainly of faculty speakers and musicales. Prof. C. L. Lundin of the History Department, was chosen faculty adviser for the group this year, succeeding Miss Cora B. Hennel.

Projects being carried on by the club include the organization of a speaker's bureau of foreign-born students available for school and club talks, and the maintenance of an emergency loan fund for students whose homes are in foreign countries. Plans are also being made for a revival of the International Revue which was discontinued by the group in 1925.

One of the newest club groups on the campus is the organization composed of Registered Nurses who are taking work in the university. The idea of organizing these students into a social group was first conceived two years ago when the School of Education offered a B.S. degree in Nursing. They have grown in this short time from the six original members to thirty-eight members this year.

The two main purposes of the R.N. Club are social and educational advancement. The meetings are held once a month usually in the Student Building. At these meetings, various faculty members and other outstanding persons have spoken. In addition to the regular educational meetings, luncheons and teas are held.

The ultimate aim of this young organization is to build a chapter house and obtain permission to charter a national Greek letter organization.

Mrs. Bessie F. Swan of the School of Education is the sponsor of the club.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

Five regular dramatic productions, a student-written musical, and several experimental shows constituted the schedule of the University Theatre season. "You Can't Take It With You", Pulitzer Prize winner, opened the series. Its farcial comedy was excellently done by a large cast in which Vera Mae Massey, Joe Hayes, and Charlotte Fields were outstanding. Following was another award play, "Our Town", with Joe Hayes, Marianne Cowan, and Frank Gregory in the leading roles. Noel Coward's sophisticated group of one-acts, "Tonight at 8:30", came next with Richard Reed, Mary Susan Stull, and Bud Stigdon carrying off the honors. "George and Margaret", a delightful English comedy, saw Vera Mae Massey, Richard Reed, and Maurice Hill as the leading fun-makers. "The Jordan River Revue", written by Paul Boxell, '40, and Shakespeare's "Merry Wives of Windsor" completed the season's work. The experimental Theatre presented for their first showing original plays written by Robert Johnson, '41, Robert Maloy, '39, and Maurice Hill, '42.

Student technicians were Tom Rowe, lights; Mary Jane Straub and Lucilla Hall, make-up; Margaret Lou May and James Glover, costumes and properties. Fred Brooks was Manager of the Business Staff with Betty Jo Hanson and Adele Lowell as Junior Assistants and Joan Barr, Charles Legeman, Mary Snapp, and Don Batton as Sophomore assistants. In charge of publicity were Ruth Ferris, Robert Johnson, and Miriam James.

DIRECTORS

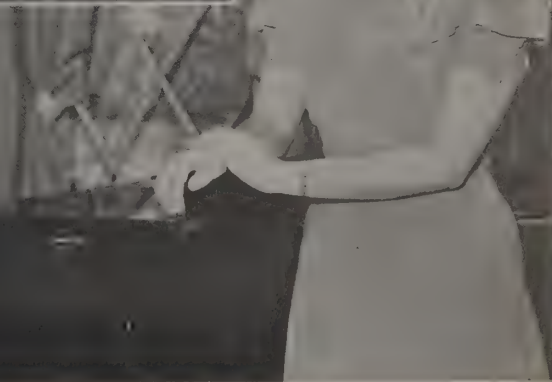

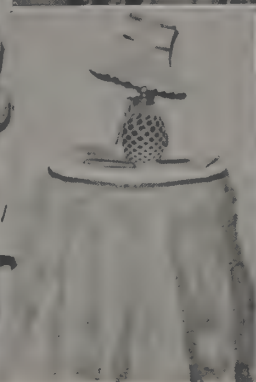

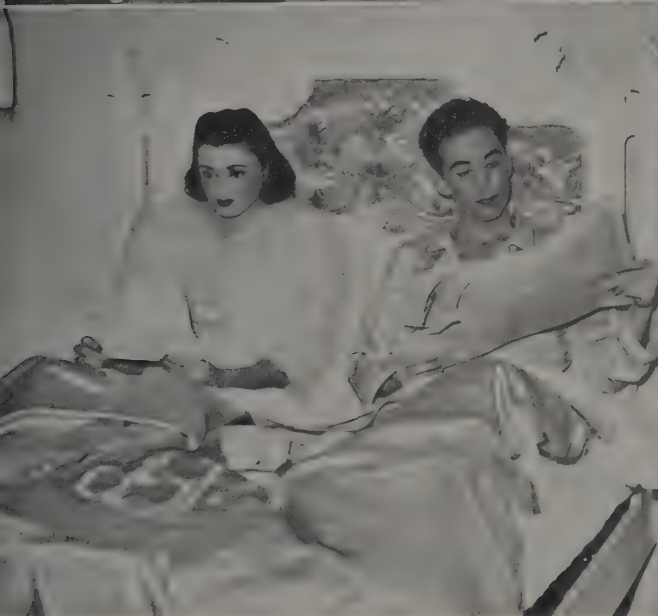

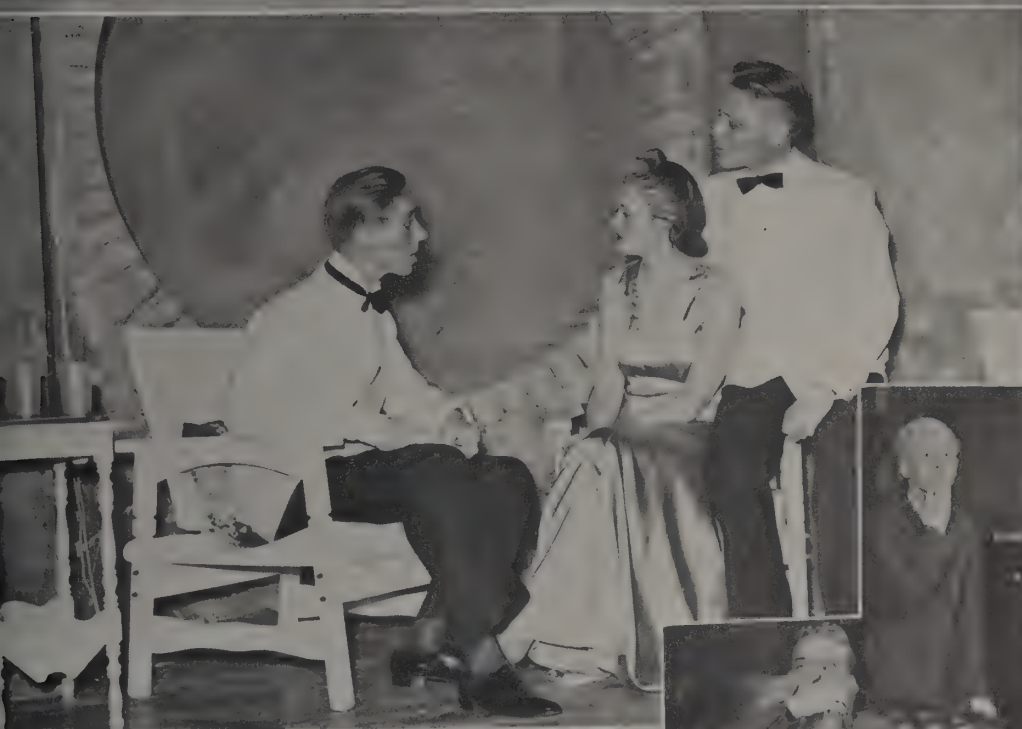

Each year the University Theatre presents a number of well-produced plays under the supervision of an efficient staff of directors headed by Dr. Lee Norvelle. One of the most outstanding college men in the field of drama, Dr. Norvelle is recognized not only on this campus but also in national dramatic circles; he holds the position of national president of Theta Alpha Phi, honorary dramatic organization. He is also chairman of the Committee of the National Association of Teachers of Speech of the National Educational Association.

Each of the three assistants holds a particular position on the directing staff. Foster Harmon is the assistant director of the main group and also make-up director. V. A. Smith is the technical director in charge of costumes and scenery which he himself designs. Assistant to Dr. Norvelle is George Blair.

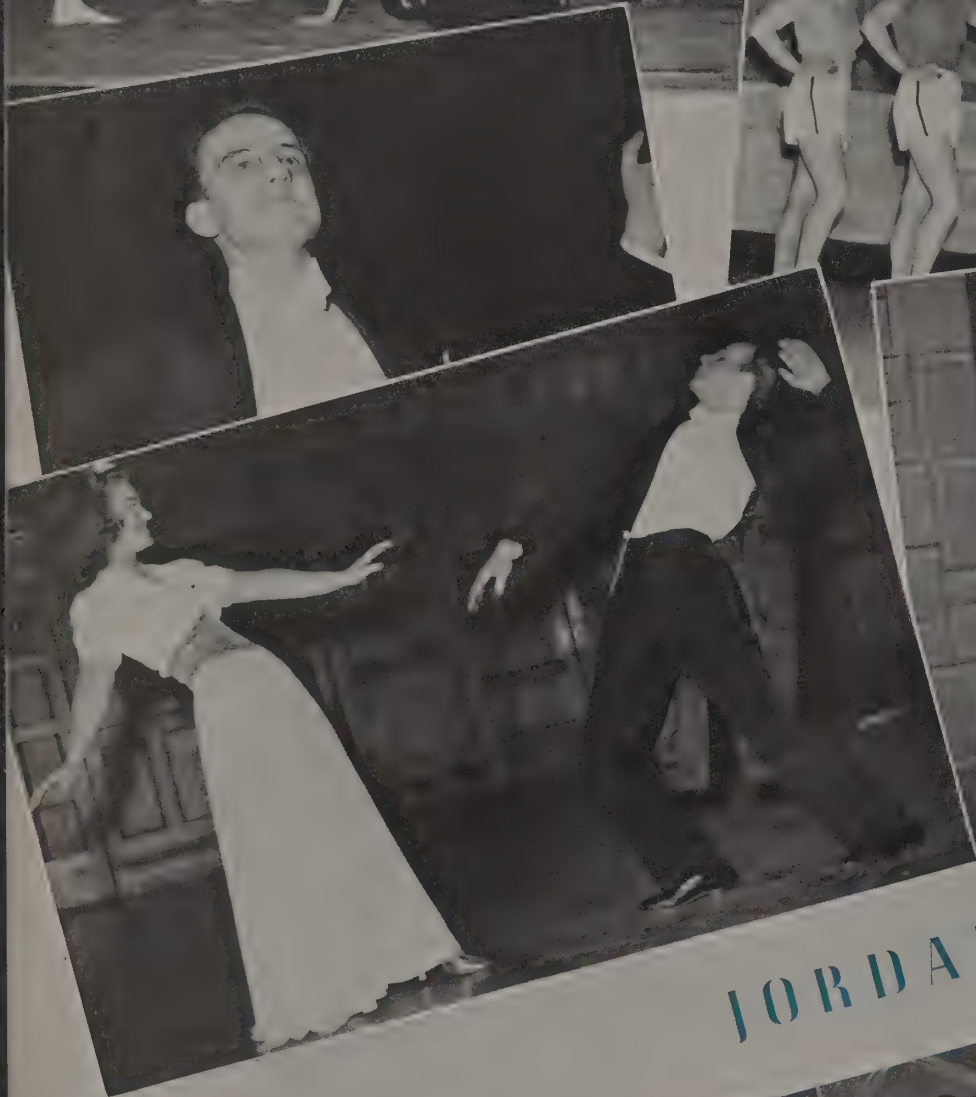

The Experimental Theatre, with Mr. Harmon as director, is one of the projects of the dramatic department. Its purpose is to give more students an opportunity to appear in plays and also to find new talent for future University Theatre productions.

DEBATE

The development of better-than-average skill in speaking and the practice of habits of good delivery are two purposes of the debating program at Indiana University.

The different squads, composed of 29 members, carried on more than one hundred intercollegiate debates this year. The men's squad debated two questions: government ownership of railroads and the isolation policy of the United States.

Indiana defeated Iowa, Illinois, Purdue and Ohio State, but lost to Wisconsin.

In the Manchester Tournament, they won 10 out of 12 debates, and participated in the University of Wisconsin tournament and the Big Ten Tournament.

The women's varsity discussed the question "Should anti-democratic organizations be suppressed?" at a discussion conference held at Ohio State University. Out of ten possible opportunities for recognition from the entire Big Ten group, Indiana received three. Those named were Mary Susan Stull, Geneva Senefeld, and Ruth Adler.

In the spring the women's team discussed "Renewment of the Federal Housing Administration program." A Round Robin tournament was held in February, in which Indiana met the Purdue and Illinois teams twice each, winning over Purdue twice and defeating and tying Illinois.

The Women's Junior Varsity and the Freshmen men took part in the first invitational novice tournament and the Manchester College Tournament in which they won 17 out of 20 debates.

Approximately fifty teams entered the intramural debate contest which was won by the I.S.A. team made up of Betty Foss and Ann Thomas.

RADIO

Familiar to this year's students are the University broadcasts from WHAS and WIRE. It was only two years ago—February 13, 1938 that I. U. went on the air. At that time the University received and accepted an invitation from WIRE in Indianapolis to broadcast weekly programs by remote control. President Wells then appointed a committee of seventy-five to organize and direct this radio work, and later chose from these an executive committee of twelve. Professor Lee Norvelle of the Speech department was made director of radio. Courses in production and script writing for radio were then initiated and Indiana's newest experiment was well under way with four weekly programs being given. At the end of this first year, a full time program director, Robert E. Allen, was appointed.

In 1939 courses in radio education and a radio seminar were added to the curriculum. In the same year WHAS in Louisville extended an invitation to the campus for broadcasts and the committee accepted. On November 12, 1939, Indiana inaugurated a series of broadcasts over WHAS, Everyman's Campus of the Air, from 11:30 to 12 on Sunday mornings; this program consisted of music, drama, and brief interviews of current topics. There are two weekly programs broadcasted from WIRE: Beight's Ensemble, Thursday evenings at 5:30; and the Editorial of the Air, Sunday at 9:30 a. m. In the new speech department adequate facilities have been provided for radio, both for actual broadcasts and for learning radio technique. During the past two years the broadcasts originated from the Music School, with Joe Badger as technician.

MUSIC SERIES

Deviating somewhat from the usual assembly of an all musical array of talent, this year's University Music Series included two lectures on its schedule. The distinction of being the first lecturer went to William Lyon Phelps, the grand old man of Yale University. The other speaker, Grant Wood gave his talk on contemporary art later in the year.

This year's series again featured two concerts by the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Fabien Sevitsky in addition to the varied programs presented by outstanding musical artists. The season was opened with a program by Emma Otero, celebrated Cuban soprano; and the next musical performance was given by the Salsburg Trapp Choir, an instrumental group. The artistic performances of both Allan Jones, radio and screen tenor, and Moriz Rosenthal, the last of the great pupils of Franz Liszt, also contributed to the success of the series.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

The Men's Glee Club is composed of sixty selected voices. With the Women's Club it comprises the Choral Union for the presentation of outstanding choral literature, and prepares its members for participation in such campus activities as have a call for soloists or choristers. The Glee Club has been invited to sing for the next meeting of the Indiana Society in Chicago in the fall of 1940.

CHORAL UNION

One of the outstanding programs presented for the first time by the Men and Women's Glee Clubs as the Indiana University Choral Union, was a Christmas concert which included the Christmas music of "The Messiah" and a fantasy of Christmas carols. A spring concert was presented with music from the "Peaceable Kingdom" by Randall Thompson and excerpts from "The Messiah". Student soloists were the outstanding features of both concerts. The Choral Union and the University Symphony were both under the direction of Dean Robert L. Sanders.

The Choral Union is composed of the Men and Women's Glee Clubs and additional faculty and towns people on invitation. Student members participated in the "Jordan River Revue" and the Music School Operetta.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

Membership in the Women's Glee Club, directed by Professor William Ross, is open to all women students in the University. Eligibility for membership is based on try-outs for quality of voice and a certain amount of music reading ability. Approximately ninety girls compose the Glee Club proper, but for performances of the Choral Union, additional voices are added making a total group of one hundred fifty voices.

The Women's Glee Club has sung this year for University programs which were broadcast. The group also sang at the Bankers' Convention held here in February and concluded their activities with the annual Mother's Day Concert.

Other Activities

By choice and not by compulsion, Indiana University offers R.O.T.C. as a part of its curriculum. Approximately 1,500 men learn "right oblique", "stack arms", and "at ease" during their Freshman and Sophomore years; and spend the next two years trying to forget and learning to hoot at the Freshmen.

R. O. T. C.

About 100 of the students continue their studies of military under the supervision of the tactical officers. These advanced students make up the student officers of the corps. Alfred Teegarden was selected to serve as Cadet Colonel for this year.

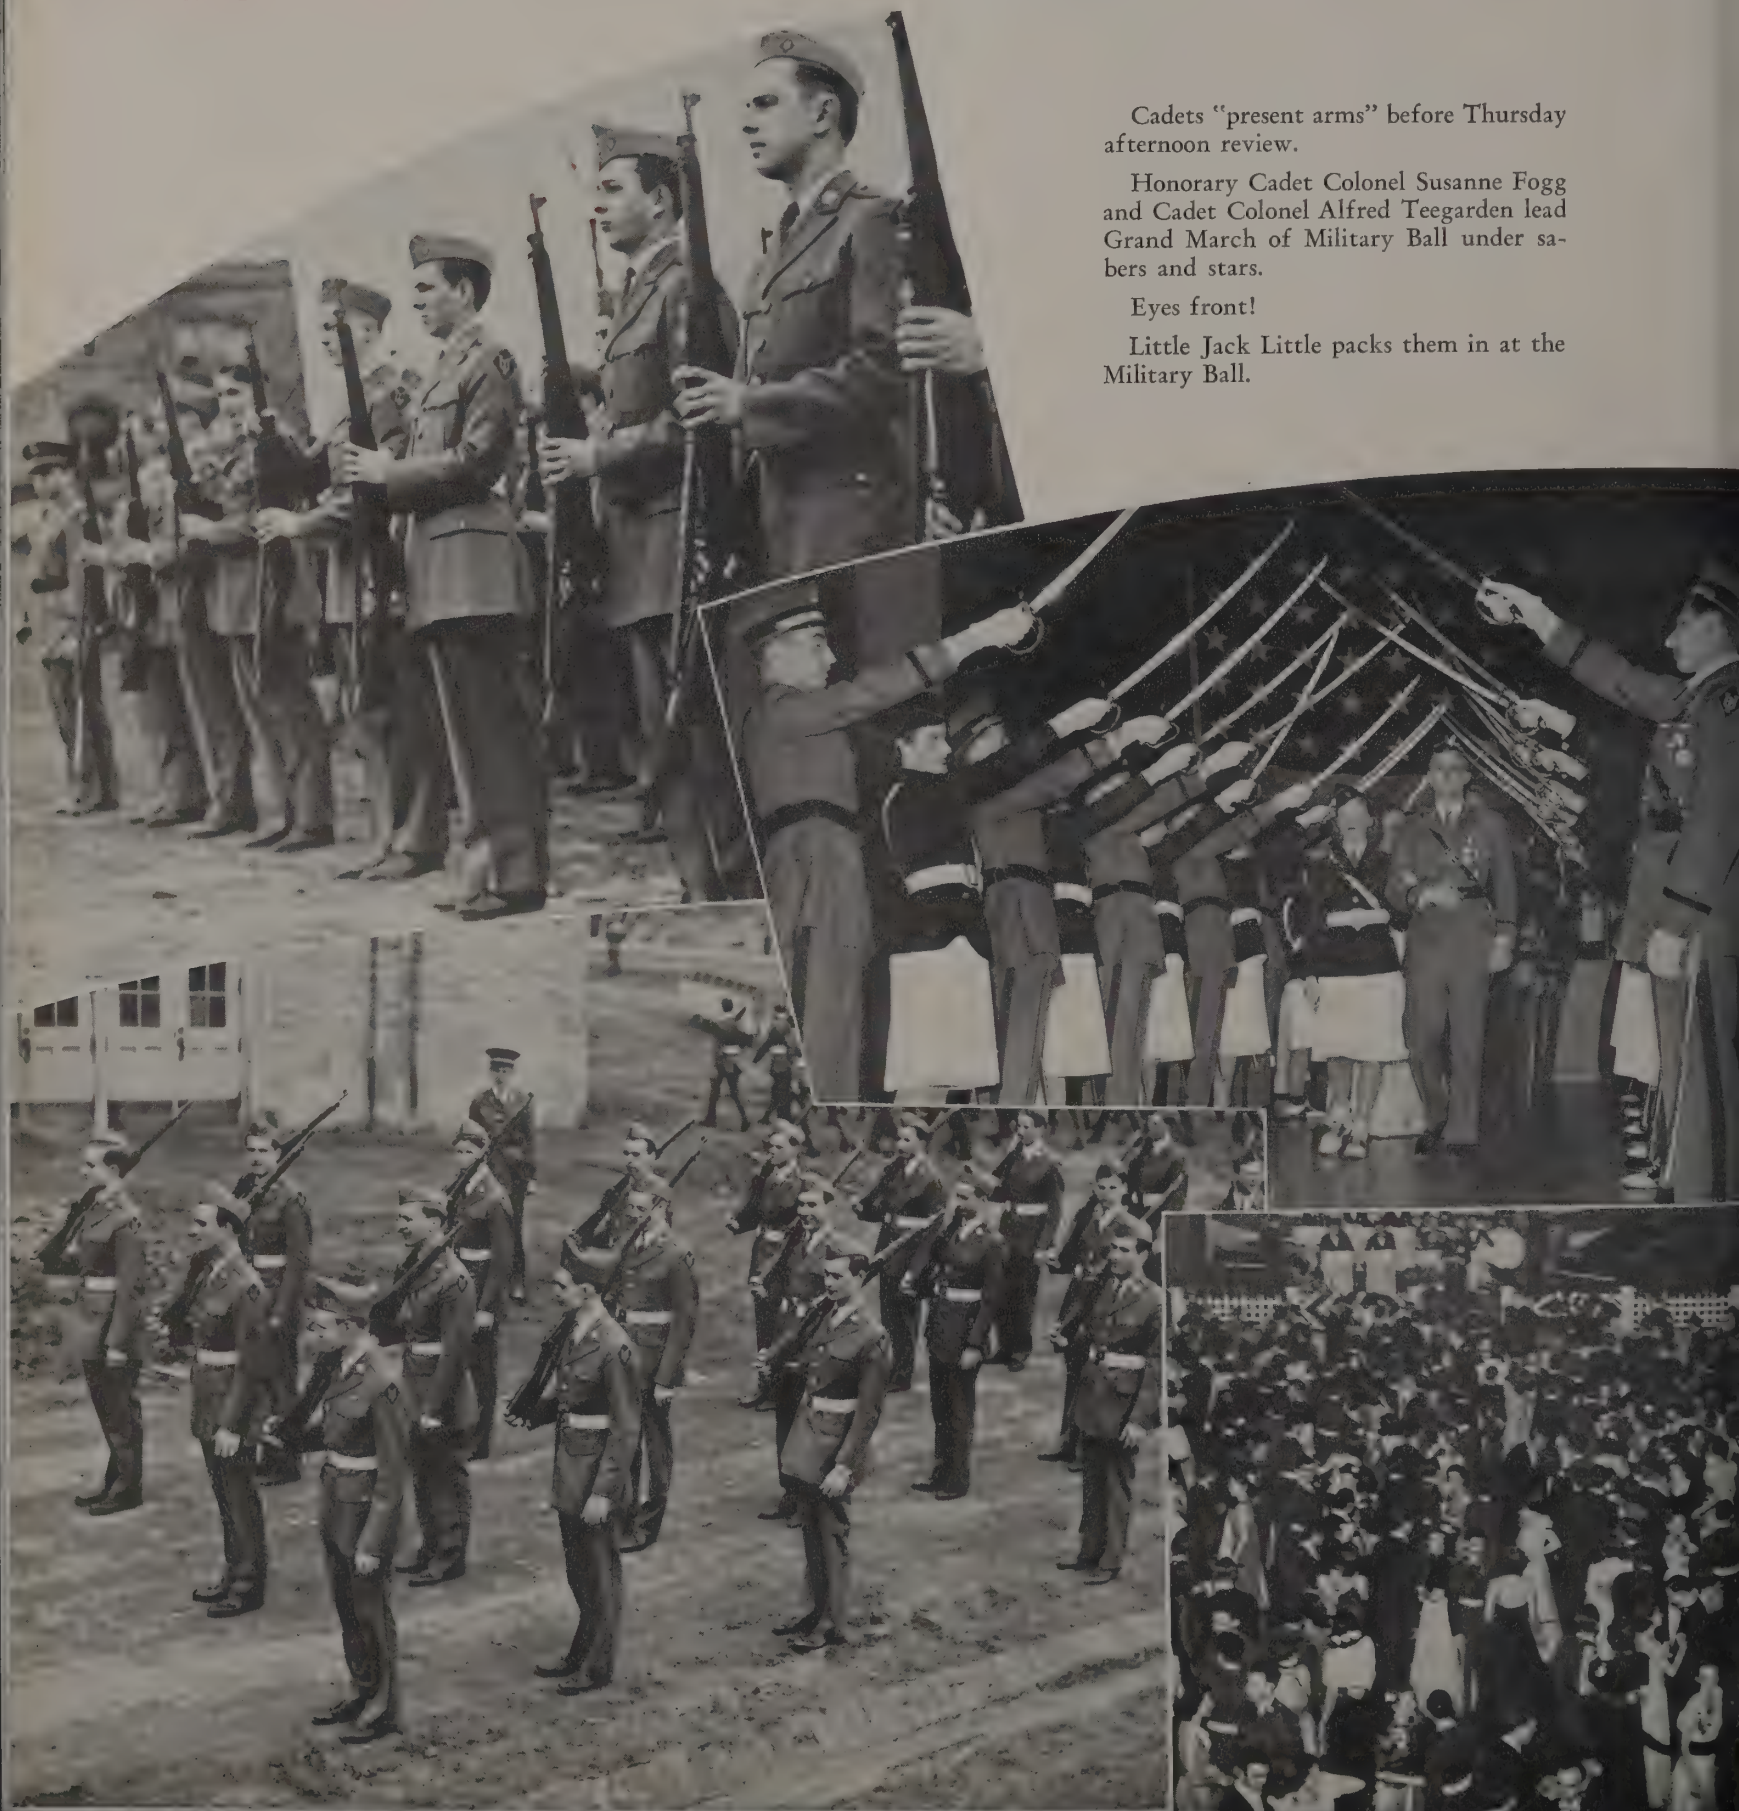

Two new majors came to Indiana this year. They are Major Hodnette, and Major Shoemaker.

Last spring marked the innovation of the Girls' Fife, Drum, and Bugle Corps at Indiana University. The group was first organized by Major Roy N. Hagerty of the Military Department. The fifty girls, dressed in red and white military uniforms and red and white saddle shoes, rapidly became proficient with Mrs. Frederick E. Green as musical director and Charles Littell as drill master.

As a result of many hours of practice, the Corps has presented several well-received performances since the beginning of its existence. In the spring of 1939, they marched at both the President's Review and the Federal Inspection of the R.O.T.C. During the past winter, the Drum Corps performed at the Homecoming football game and at the Indiana-Purdue game. At the latter, they formed an I.U. monogram formation in conjunction with the Marching Hundred.

Coed officers of the organization are: Muriel Collins, drum major and second lieutenant; Elmyra Holmdohl, first sergeant; Rachel Norman, technical sergeant; and Kaye Steinburg, staff sergeant.

THE MARCHING HUNDRED

Indiana's Marching Hundred, recognized as one of the most outstanding marching bands in the country, oddly enough, has a membership of 143. Each year the band takes at least one trip with the football team to perform at the game at a major university. The trip, made to Fordham this year, was probably one of the most outstanding ever undertaken by the Marching Hundred. It was also an expensive project, and during the week preceding the game, an extensive, campus-wide campaign was conducted voluntarily by the Indiana Daily Student in order to raise the remainder of the necessary funds.

The band drilled long and hard on an intricate formation for the Fordham game at the Polo Grounds in New York City. Their remarkable skill and marching precision was well-recognized by the 20,000 spectators, as well as newspapers throughout the east. After the performance, Major Roy N. Hagerty, director of the Marching Hundred, received a program upon which were written words of praise from Kay Kyser and Eddy Duchin.

In addition to appearing at home football and basketball games, pep sessions, and military reviews, the outfit played last spring at the Kentucky Derby and at the 500-mile race in Indianapolis. At the latter, 100 of the 143 members of the band played a concert in front of the main grandstand at the Speedway; they were the only college band ever to have had that privilege.

Much ability and enthusiasm is embodied in the group of boys, who this year mastered many new marching techniques and formations. Progressive ideas are constantly added to their methods; the latest is the adoption of the British parade step for entrance, which is slow and stately in contrast to the rapid, high step which follows.

The colors advance across the field . . . Indiana's Marching Hundred forms an "I" before the crowds at the Purdue game.

HOMEcoming

In traditional style the annual Homecoming celebration was observed this year with gaily decorated fraternity houses and a light-hearted carnival spirit over the campus. The Fightin' Hoosiers played the Nebraska Cornhuskers to a 7-7 tie before a near capacity crowd in Memorial Stadium.

Returning old grads and enthusiastic I. U. supporters thronged Bloomington for the occasion, and fell into the general spirit of good will and gaiety.

Delta Delta Delta, social sorority, won first prize for women in the decorations contest with a scene of Indiana "taking" Nebraska, "Reverend" Bo performing the ceremony. Phi Delta Theta, social fraternity, captured the men's award with their ferris wheel on which they hoped to "take Nebraska for a ride".

Speaker for the twenty-seventh annual Powwow was Jim Tucker, '30, Indiana's youthful Secretary of State. President Herman B Wells' remarks were directed toward the upward trend in Indiana football.

Homecoming festivities were ended with the annual Band Benefit ball with music by Don Bestor's twelve-piece orchestra. Proceeds of the dance financed the I. U. Band's trip to the Fordham game.

NAME BANDS

Indiana University was host to an unusually large number of outstanding dance bands this year. Don Bestor and his twelve piece orchestra opened the season at the Band Benefit Ball. Duke Ellington and his "sophisticated swing" played for a Union-A.W.S. dance and the Republican Club entertained with Herbie Kay and his band furnishing the music.

Next on the social roster was the Blanket Hop, following the Indiana-Purdue football game, with Johnny "Scat" Davis and his swing orchestra officiating. The opening of the formal season was celebrated December 1 with a dance at which Ray Herbeck played. Little Jack Little was the featured attraction at the Military Ball in February.

Highlight of the social school year was the coming of Hal Kemp and his universally popular band for one of the most successful Junior Proms in years on March 8.

Among Indiana University's honored guests of 1939-40 were many of the state's and the country's most prominent citizens. Artist, statesman, politician, sportsman—all added to the University's program of cultural and educational advancement.

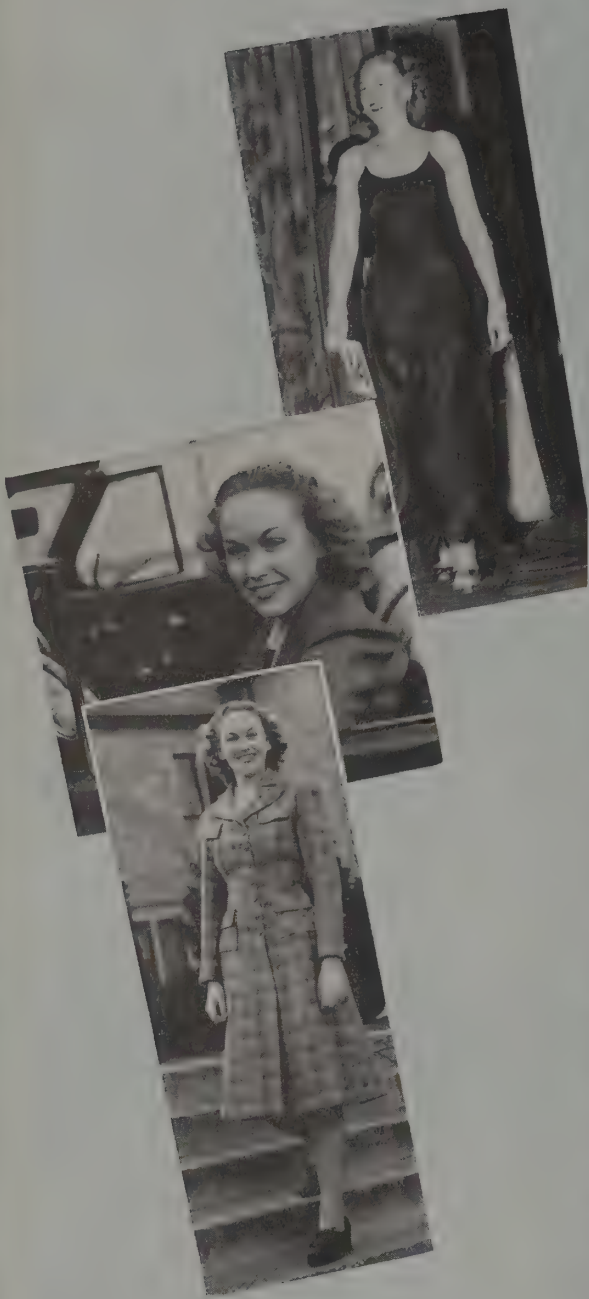

Besides those pictured above many others, Mary Ellen Chase, novelist, Father Flanigan of Boys' Town, James Tucker, Secretary of State, and Lawrence M. Judd, former Governor of Hawaii, have been guests at Indiana.

1940 PROM QUEEN

THE 1940 JUNIOR PROM

On March 8, four hundred couples danced to the music of Hal Kemp and his orchestra at the 1940 Junior Prom. The Prom, with "Gone with the Wind" as the theme, was one of the most successful in recent years. The theme was carried out in the decorations by a replica of a Southern mansion, which formed the background for the band. The walls of Alumni Hall were artistically draped with Spanish moss, and the entrance to the hall was decorated in keeping with the Southern theme.

The Prom Queen, Barbara Van Fleit, wore the dress which was worn by Vivian Leigh in her role as Scarlet O'Hara in "Gone with the Wind". At eleven thirty, Miss Van Fleit led the Grand March with Richard Stoner, chairman of the 1940 Prom Committee. During the evening Miss Van Fleit was interviewed over station WHAS during a half hour broadcast from Alumni Hall. Miss Van Fleit reigned as the second consecutive unorganized girl to be awarded the honor of queenship in the twenty-year history of Indiana's top social event.

Five capable Juniors handled the arrangements for this year's Prom. They were, as shown below, J. Hugh Funk, Mary Susan Stull, Prom Chairman Richard Stoner, Rachel Norman, and Phil Cooper.

Behind the scenes of a successful prom, there are many details which are forgotten soon afterwards, such as the three by fives of the prom candidates, the social schedules of the Junior men who are being politicked for votes, and the apple polishing of all of the Prom Chairman's friends and fraternity brothers in hopes of getting a free ticket to the affair. Not to be forgotten, too, are the social chairmen's headaches in arranging for the prom dinners and breakfasts, to say nothing of minor details of keeping the tie straight throughout the evening.

The 1940 prom was not without these details, all of which must be attended to in order to make the prom a never-to-be-forgotten event. Among the highlights was the dropping of the balloons from the top of the Union Building, with one of the red ones carrying a free prom ticket. Along with this went the slopping in the mud, as the Juniors tried to find and catch the particular red balloon. Then too, pre-prom days were filled with political teas, parties, and dances, at which were found the customary "glad hand", but poor punch. Then, after the weeks of activities and the prom itself, come the usual dance "post-mortems" in fraternities, sororities, dormitories, and residences for countless days.

R. O. T. C. SPONSORS

Honorary coed sponsors add a bit of color and grace to the Thursday afternoon R.O.T.C. reviews. In their red and white uniforms the girls march beside the cadet officers, respectively in the positions of Honorary Cadet Colonel, Lieutenant Colonel, and Majors of the three battalions. In addition to these five customary positions, a sixth girl was chosen this year to serve as sponsor for the Marching Hundred.

Formerly the selections have been made by a vote of the Junior and Senior military men; however, the sponsors were chosen this year by a selection committee composed of five persons appointed by the Department of Military Science and Tactics. The selections were made on a basis of appearance, posture, and smartness of bearing, application being open to any girl in the University.

The sponsors chosen are announced and introduced at the annual Military Ball in February, and serve during the following spring and fall drills, terminating their period of service by participation in the grand march, in uniform, at the Military Ball the next year. The coed Pershing Rifles' sponsor is presented with the other sponsors at the Ball.

The new coed sponsors for the year 1940-1941 are: Ruth Breimyer, Genevieve Cougias, Jane Calnon, Barbara Johnson, Jane Smith, and Virginia Austin, honorary officer of Pershing Rifles.

ACACIA

When the Acacia fraternity was founded at the University of Michigan in 1904, it was a fraternity for the sons and brothers of Masons. At the present, however, a member must be recommended by two Masons before gaining admittance to the fraternity. The Acacia chapter at Indiana University was established in 1920 by three members of the Indiana Masons Club which had been established on the campus four years before. In 1939 the group began occupancy of their new house.

To all Acacia's, the mention of the Colonnade, the fraternity's formal winter dance, brings enthusiastic comments. This dance and the Founder's Day Banquet on May 22, are Acacia's most important social events.

Dick Arnold is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Union Board, and Board of Aeons and is President of the Interfraternity Council. Acacias in Phi Eta Sigma are Robert Sill, Robert Eifler, Elmer Koch, and James Huston. John and Bill Torphy represent Acacia in varsity basketball while Robert Sill is on the varsity golf team. Eugene Brown is Business Assistant on the Arbutus Staff.

For prominence in politics Acacia honors William Howard Taft and Posey Kime. Alumni on the campus are Geoffrey L. Carmichael, Lyle Dieterle, Dr. Logan Esarey, Dr. Ralph Esarey, Harold F. Lusk, Robert A. Royer, and Professor William D. Thornbury.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

Alpha Tau Omega celebrated in 1939 the diamond jubilee of its founding at Richmond, Virginia, which each year the Indiana chapter celebrates by giving a dinner dance, the Richmond Hop. The fraternity was established to bring about a better feeling between the youth of the North and the South. In 1915 Alpha Tau Omega chartered its local chapter of Delta Alpha on the Indiana University campus.

A.T.O. Al Harrison is a member of Blue Key, and "Howdy" Wilcox is President of Skull and Crescent. Bob Witham, Merrill Eaton and Bob Chattin are members of Phi Eta Sigma. In the field of sports, A.T.O. has Bob Dro and Herman Schaeffer, members of the varsity basketball team, and Bob Boaz and Fred Smith on the swimming team. Emerson Craig and Bob Witham are on the golf team, while Bob Chattin participates in track. Bob Witham is also a member of the Arbutus staff.

Faculty members of Alpha Tau Omega are: Dr. Wilbur A. Cogshall of the Department of Astronomy, Dr. Merrill T. Eaton of the School of Education, Dr. Lee R. Norvelle of the Division of Speech, and Dr. Richard S. Sherman of the Department of Spanish.

BETA THETA PI

The highlights in the social life of the Betas are the traditional Fall Barn Dance and the Miami Triad Dance, given with two other fraternities founded at Miami University, Phi Delta Theta, and Sigma Chi.

One of the many traditions belonging to the Indiana Betas is the custom of putting out their pins in the Well House. That edifice, built by a member of this chapter, is the insignia of a Beta pin. Following all serenades the chapter meets at the Well House to perform their sacred and secret rites.

Beta Theta Pi was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, in 1839, and the local chapter received its charter in 1845. The many prominent alumni from the Indiana chapter include: Paul V. McNutt, Federal Security Administrator; Wendell Willkie, former President of Commonwealth and Southern Utilities; and William Kunkel, member of the University

Board of Trustees. Faculty members are Dr. Allan Mitchell and Coach A. N. "Bo" McMillin.

Beta Rembrandt Hiller is a member of Blue Key, Union Board, Phi Eta Sigma, and is Senior Swimming manager; Marvin Huffman is captain of the varsity basketball team and a member of Sphinx Club. Tom Cravens is a member of Blue Key and is the Senior Intramural manager. Jack Stevenson is President of Sphinx Club, in which memberships are held by Betas Tom Peters, Tom Elrod, and Page Benson. Other Phi Eta Sigma men in the chapter are William Fisher, James Henley, and Richard Reed. In addition to Huffman, Curly Armstrong, Cliff Wiethoff, and Jack Stevenson play varsity basketball. Charles Legeman is a Sophomore Assistant on the Arbutus Staff and William Fisher an Associate Business Manager.

DELTA CHI

Originally intended as a law fraternity, Delta Chi was founded at Cornell in 1890. The annual traditions of the fraternity are the observance of Founders' Day on October 13, Memorial Day, and Mothers' Day.

Delta Chi Ray Harmon is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Kappa Psi, and Pi Sigma Alpha. Maurice Hill is Editorial Assistant on the Arbutus and a member of Phi Eta Sigma, the University Theatre, Skull and Crescent. KAPPA DELTA RHO

Each anniversary of the founding of Kappa Delta Rho in 1905 at Middlebury College, is celebrated by a venison dinner. Also an annual Thanksgiving dinner is given for the alumni who are on the campus, and Mother's Day is observed with a banquet.

The Indiana chapter, which was chartered in 1926, is now living in a relatively new house designed in the Grecian revival style architecture. The outstanding trophies coveted by the organization are the two scholarship cups which they retain permanently.

K.D.R. is represented on campus by Joseph Waltz, who is a member of Phi Lambda Upsilon; Louis Conn, a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Der Deutsch Verein; Stanley Stoker, a member of Alpha Chi Sigma and Sigma Gamma Epsilon; Earl Bannister, a director of the local Collegiate Chamber of Commerce and Financial Chairman of the national organization; James Neighbours, member of the Bloomington Junior Chamber of Commerce; Ed Swets and Leland Teaney, members of Skull and Crescent; and Joe Jewett, who is a Phi Beta Kappa and President of the Skeleton Club.

On the faculty of Indiana, Kappa Delta Rho is represented by Dr. Robert Hartman, Dr. Eugene Kanning, Bernard Miller, and Claude Rich.

In 1887 the Beta Theta chapter at Indiana University was given one of the first charters to be granted in the North.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

The Alpha Omicron chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha was created from the Independent Literary Society of Indiana University in 1917. The growth of Lambda Chi since its foundation at the University of Boston in 1909, reached a climax in 1939, with the special convention and negotiations which resulted in the union of Theta Kappa Nu and Lambda Chi Alpha. One of the established traditions of the local chapter is a St. Bernard mascot. "Old Joe" faithfully fulfilled this duty for thirteen years, and upon his death was replaced by Josephine. Last year Josephine disappeared, and this year a new dog, Pard, reigns.

On campus, Lambda Chi is represented by Eddie Herbert and Emil Uremovich, varsity football players, with Herbert also a member of Sphinx Club; Hugh Williams, Phi Eta Sigma; Richard Held and Leighton Mock, Alpha Kappa Psi; Robert Scott and James DeVol, Skull and Crescent. Clyde Blocker is a member of the varsity debating team and William Oliver is on the Freshman team; Milford Anness is Telegraph Editor of the Daily Student; Leighton Mock, Clyde Blocker, Charles Clunie, and Richard Yarling are members of the Marching Hundred.

On the faculty Lambda Chi is represented by Herman Briscoe, George Starr, Joseph Batchelor, Ingwald Alm, Christian Knecht, Theodore Torrey, and Karl Bookwalter.

PHI BETA DELTA

Each year the Farb-Levi cup is awarded to the best Phi Beta Delta pledge on the basis of scholarship, outside activities, character, and general interest. In addition, tradition claims an annual open house for all Jewish women entered in the University and a smoker for all Jewish men on campus. This is the second year that Phi Beta Delta has donated $1,000 to a refugee author to enable him to continue his work. The Indiana Alpha Theta chapter founded in 1928, is the outgrowth of Gamma Tau, prominent Jewish men's local organization on this campus. Phi Beta Delta was founded at Columbia University in 1912 by a group of eight Jewish students.

In extra-curricular activities, men on campus include Irving Berger, member of Beta Gamma Sigma; Bernard Diamond, Senior wrestling manager; Bernard Rose, Night Editor of the Daily Student; and Bernard Kaufman, member of Phi Eta Sigma and manager of the wrestling team.

Louis B. Mayer of M. G. M. studios is an important Phi Beta Delta alumni as is Senator Jacob Weiss, president pro-tem of the Indiana Senate. Each year, to those alumni who have distinguished themselves in their service to the fraternity since graduation, the national organization gives an honorary award. This award was given to an Indiana graduate in 1938.

PHI DELTA THETA

The Indiana Alpha chapter of Phi Delta Theta enjoys the privilege of being the oldest chapter of any social fraternity in continuous existence. It was established one year after the founding of the national organization in 1848 at Miami University by six men who were not satisfied with their old fraternity, Delta Epsilon Kappa.

The Miami Triad dance, given with the Betas and the Sigma Chis, and the annual Housemother's Banquet are included in the social activities of this chapter.

Representing the Phi Delts on the campus are Robert Weir, a member of the Board of Aeons, Blue Key, Sphinx Club, Union Board, and Phi Eta Sigma; Richard Herd, President of Alpha Phi Omega and International Relations Club, and Business Manager of the Red Book. In athletics are Campbell Kane, varsity trackman; Harry "Tuffy" Brooks, member of the varsity football squad; and Bill Frey, a member of the basketball team.

The Phi Delts are well represented by their brothers on the faculty, for Dean Bernard V. Gavit of Law School, Dean H. L. Smith of the School of Education, Professor John Mee, and Professor Julius Bryan are alumni of the fraternity.

PHI GAMMA DELTA

Almost as old as Indiana itself is the Zeta chapter of Phi Gamma Delta. The national fraternity was founded at Jefferson College, Canonsburg, Pennsylvania in 1848 and was established at Indiana in 1871, where it became the first campus fraternity to own its own house, and remains the only house on the campus proper.

The Phi Gams annually celebrate their spring initiation with a Pig Dinner and a Dinner-Dance, to which all members are invited.

Phi Gam is represented on the campus by Mifflin Thomas, swimming captain and a member of the Board of Aeons, Union Board, Dragon's Head, and Blue Key; Charles Baillie, having double track letters, being a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, Sigma Delta Psi, Phi Eta Sigma, and President of Blue Key; Gilbert Shull, member of Phi Eta Sigma, Sphinx Club, and Blue Key. Also represented in Blue Key are William Keck and Val Nolan. Other members of Phi Eta Sigma are Val Nolan, Richard Mason, and John Reinhard. Representatives in the athletic field are: Orville Nichols as Junior basketball manager; in Junior basketball, William Keck; in Junior track, R. E. PHI KAPPA Phi Kappa, founded in 1889 at Brown University to further Catholic fellowship, installed on the Indiana campus last October the Alpha Alpha chapter. The local fraternity, Torch and Skull, was founded on the campus in 1937 and was granted a national charter from Phi Kappa on August 24, 1939.

During the summer, a new chapter house was purchased and ambitious plans for the first year with a national charter were formulated. Preparations for intensive participation in extra-curricular activities and the preservation of a high scholastic record were not neglected.

Young in tradition, the Phi Kaps have initiated the annual Mothers' Day Banquet, smokers for Catholic students, a Founders' Day Banquet, and the exchange of a trophy each year with the Purdue chapter on the result of the football classic between the two schools.

Phi Kappa is already well represented in campus activities. Jacob Wittmer is a member of the Cosmopolitan Club and the Daily Student Staff. Jack Lynch holds membership in Sphinx Club and the Campus Committee on Religion. Stephen Reibly represents the Phi Kaps in Alpha Chi Sigma. Salvator Iozzo is on the Freshman football team. Other activities include Flying Club, Newman Club, Experimental Theater, Bored Walk, and Alpha Phi Omega.

PHI KAPPA PSI

This year marks the seventy-first anniversary of the founding of the Indiana chapter of Phi Kappa Psi. This active chapter is part of the national organization of Phi Kappa Psi formed at Jefferson College, Canonsburg, Pennsylvania, on February 19, 1852. While keeping night vigil and caring for their typhoid-stricken fellow students during an epidemic, a group of boys conceived the idea of founding an organization with service as the basic motive.

Heading the list of activities men is Robert Boughman, who is Social Chairman of Union Board, a member of Alpha Kappa Psi, Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, and Sphinx Club. John McFarlan is President of Kappa Kappa Psi and a member of the University Band. Among those claiming membership in Phi Eta Sigma are Sam Mitchell, John Springer, Truman Rose, and James Noland.

Representatives in the various fields of athletics include: Phil Green, head yell leader; Charles Feeger, intramural manager; Ray King and Bob Denny, varsity track; Al Sabol and Rex Wisehart, varsity football; Ben Wilson and Nat Hill, wrestling; Dick Davis, tennis.

Faculty representation includes Dr. Robert L. Kroc and Professor John Stempel. Alumni serving prominently in other capacities are Croan Greenough, administrative secretary, and Thomas A. Cookson, Registrar.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Since its founding at the University of Alabama in 1856, Sigma Alpha Epsilon has grown until today it is the largest national college social fraternity, comprising a total of one hundred and fourteen chapters. Although it was the original intention of the founders to keep S.A.E. strictly a southern fraternity, a number of chapters had already been established north of the Mason Dixon Line before the turn of the twentieth century. Indiana Gamma chapter was granted a charter at Indiana University in 1907.

S.A.E. is well represented on the campus by faculty alumni, among whom are Dr. Robert E. Walden, Dr. Chauncey Sanders, Dr. Donald Smalley, Prof. C. W. Barker, Prof. Wayne Stackhouse, Samuel E. Braden, Dr. Nelson Grills, and Paul Feltus, a member of the Board of Trustees.

Eddie Hutton is president of Board of Aeons, and a member of Blue Key, Dragon's Head, Sphinx Club, Union Board, Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, Tau Kappa Alpha, Phi Eta Sigma, Beta Gamma Sigma, varsity debate team, and winner of the Niezer Award. Willard Findling is President of Blue Key, Senior football manager, and a member of the Board of Aeons, Sphinx Club, Phi Eta Sigma, and the 1939 Prom Committee. Other members of Phi Eta Sigma are Bill Bloom, George Bloom, Phil Cooper, Phil Hennessee, John Danch, Jack Barnett, and Bob Gates. Phil Cooper is also a member of Blue Key, and Ed Ferrey is an Editorial Assistant on the Arbutus Staff.

Jim Logan captained the 1939-40 football team. Other S.A.E.'s who are outstanding in athletics include Gene White, football; Tom Motter, basketball; Jim Wood and George Stevens, tennis; Bill Bloom, George Bloom, and Vic Aldridge, baseball; Carl Jacobson, swimming. Athletic managers, in addition to Findling, are Phil Cooper, Junior swimming; Joe Black, Junior baseball; Hugh Clayton, Junior wrestling; Ed Ferrey, Sophomore baseball; and Bob Gates, Sophomore swimming.

SIGMA ALPHA MU

After the annual I. U.-Purdue battle, a replica of the "old oaken bucket" travels the road to or from the Bloomington and Lafayette chapters of Sigma Alpha Mu as a result of the local chapter's foremost tradition. This tradition grew up shortly after the chapter, Sigma Zeta, came to the campus in 1922. The national organization was founded in 1909 at the College of the City of New York by eight Jewish students to foster and maintain a close social and fraternal union among Jewish students at the various universities and colleges of the country.

Active S.A.M.'s are Myron Glassner and Manuel Rothberg on the Board of Aeons; Maurice Adelman is Telegraph Editor on the Indiana Daily Student; Herman Dictor is a member of the Board of Directors of the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, and is Junior Business Manager of the Arbutus; Manuel Rothberg, Irvin Wasserman, Robert Goldstein, Edgar Siegel, and Philip Trockman are members of Phi Eta Sigma. Manuel Rothberg is a member of Blue Key. Irving Glazer is on the varsity swimming team and Morton Turbow is on the wrestling squad. Myron Glassner is Senior manager of the track team and Irvin Wasserman is Junior manager of the football team.

SIGMA CHI

Sigma Chi joins with Beta Theta Pi and Phi Delta Theta annually to hold the Miami Triad, a dance whose significance lies in the fact that all three fraternities were founded at Miami University. This fraternity was founded in 1855. It was but three years later that Lambda chapter, which is the oldest Sigma Chi chapter in continuous existence, was founded at Indiana University. Added to this distinction is the fact that the I. U. chapter is housed in the oldest fraternity house in the state, built by them in 1905.

Included in the list of prominent alumni from Lambda chapter are: Edwin C. Hill, radio news commentator; Fontaine Fox, cartoonist; L. G. Balfour, President of Balfour Jewelry Co.; R. D. Weyerbacker, Commander of U. S. Naval Bureau of Aeronautics; and W. C. DePauw, benefactor of DePauw University. Alumni who are members of the faculty are Professor W. J. Buckley and Dean C. J. Sem-bower.

B.M.O.C.'s of the chapter are Evan Stiers, who is President of the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, Secretary-Treasurer of Blue Key, President of Delta Sigma Pi, senior basketball manager, and a member of Beta Gamma Sigma; Bill Menke, member of Sphinx Club, and his brother, Bob, have won honors in varsity basketball. Don Danielson and Red Corriden have received letters for varsity baseball, while Bill Horton has won his letter in golf.

SIGMA NU

Sigma Nu fraternity was founded at Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Virginia, in 1869. Although the development of the fraternity during the first few years was almost entirely in the South, the organization soon spread to the Middle West and came to the Indiana University campus in 1892.

SIGMA PI

Traditions of Sigma Pi are an annual banquet given by the undergraduates in honor of the Seniors, a Founders' Day Banquet held in February of each year, and a Christmas Dinner given for a number of under-privileged boys. Another big social event of the year is the Orchid Dance for which each girl receives an orchid.

Walt Smith is a member of Sphinx Club, Alpha Phi Omega, and President of the McNutt Club. William Fitzgibbon is active in Sigma Delta Chi, Scabbard and Blade, and the Indiana Daily Student. Earl McCaslin and Jack Modisett are on the Bored Walk staff; and James Gridley and Frank Smith are active in basketball and football respectively.

Founded in 1898 at Vincennes University, Sigma Pi is recognized as one of the oldest fraternities originating west of the Alleghenies. Although it was organized as Tau Phi Delta, in 1907 the name was changed to Sigma Pi. A chapter of Tau Phi Delta was started at Indiana University in 1905 by five law students from Vincennes, but it became inactive during the World War. However, Sigma Pi again became one of the organizations on this campus in 1924 when local Kappa Chi became a member of the national fraternity.

Prominent alumni are President Davis of Vincennes University and Prof. W. C. Lynch and Dr. R. L. Jones of the Indiana faculty.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Alpha Chi Omega's outstanding philanthropic interest is the Star Studio maintained by the sorority at the Mac Dowell Colony, Peterboro, New Hampshire. The purpose of this colony is to provide a place of refuge and quiet for those who wish to study and do creative work. The outstanding traditional functions of Alpha Chi Omega are Hera Day and Founders' Day. These occasions are observed with a service devoted to the well-being of others.

The pearl encircled lyre, the pin of Alpha Chi Omega, signifies not a music sorority but a social organization having an interest in music. The national organization which has grown to include fifty-eight chapters, was founded at DePauw University in 1885 by seven girls who realized the need of a group whose purpose would be to develop social activities and to promote musical art. The Alpha Mu chapter was installed on this campus April 23, 1913.

Alpha Chis Jeanette Prinz, Marybelle Gallmeyer, and Julia Ann Harting are members of Pleiades. Jeanette Prinz and Suzanne Weaver are members of the Daubers Club. Bette Ann Tillman is Associate Editor of the Arbutus and Social Chairman of the A.W.S. Council. Jane Gaff and Joan Veit are members of Y.W.C.A. Council, and Joan is also Sophomore Assistant on the Editorial Staff of the Arbutus. The Collegiate Chamber of Commerce lists Julia Peckinpugh and Julia Ann Harting who, with Anna Louise Burkhart, are both members of Omicron Delta. Alma Freyn, Emily Zankyl, and Betty Nicholls are members of Oceanides, while musically-minded Katheryn Klingelhoffer is President of Sigma Alpha Iota and a member of the Pro-Music Club. Alpha Lambda Delta claims Julia Peckinpugh, Rosamond Schlaegel, and Bette Ann Tillman. Pauline Taylor was chosen as an R.O.T.C. Coed Sponsor.

ALPHA DELTA PI

Founded in 1851 on the campus of the Wesleyan Female College, the Adelphean Society adopted the custom of writing the Greek letters Alpha Delta Phi after their name. In 1913 they amended the charter and changed the name to Alpha Delta Pi, in order to avoid confusion with the fraternity, Alpha Delta Phi.

Honorable mention was given the chapter for their Homecoming decorations featuring the "Wizard of Ah's". Members of the local chapter are prominent in several campus activities. Lenora Wilkinson and Ruth Lindner are on the roll of Alpha Lambda Delta. Mary Smith was a charter member of Omicron Delta while Lenora Wilkinson and Doris Trogdon are members of Oceanides. Jean McFeely and Betty Bender are members of Omicron Nu. Ruth Lindner is a member of Classical Club, English Club, and is Vice-President of Eta Sigma Phi. Members of the Glee Club are Peggy Taylor, Thelma Davis, Ruth Lefforge, Alta Marie Morgan, and Marjorie Martinson. Bettye Jo Ullom is a member of Sigma Alpha Iota.

The Indiana chapter holds a Colonial Dinner, usually during rush week, as one of its annual customs, besides such traditions as a Founders' Day Banquet and a Senior Razz Banquet. DELTA DELTA DELTA

The crescent moon and three stars of the pin worn by members of Delta Delta Delta originated when, during the first pledging, founders looked at the sky and saw there a moon and three stars. The sorority was established on Thanksgiving Eve at Boston University in 1888 by Sarah Ida Shaw, Eleanor Dorcas Pond, and two classmates. From this small beginning the organization, which is based on friendship and development of character, has grown to include eighty-nine chapters. This year Indiana's Delta Omicron celebrated its twenty-third birthday and its eleventh year at its present location on Third Street.

This year the Tri Delt house was awarded the cup for Homecoming decorations, and the Freshman class won the A.W.S. stunt contest in competition with the other Freshman groups. The house president, Virginia Austin, is Co-Chairman of Coed-Counseling, Assistant Business Manager of the Arbutus, a member of the Daily Student and Bored Walk Staffs, a Pershing Rifles Sponsor, and a member of Pleiades. Jeannette Dice is President of Mortar Board and Theta Sigma Phi, and a member of Pleiades. Suzanne Moore is a member of the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, the Debate Team, and the University Theatre Business Staff. Mary Carson is an R.O.T.C. Sponsor and an Editorial Assistant on the Arbutus Staff. Betty Firth is on the Y.W.C.A. Cabinet and Marion Smith is a member of Pleiades. Five members are Alpha Lambda Delta members.

The Delta Gammas are well represented in campus life and extra-curricular activities. Mary Beth Hunt is a member of Mortar Board, Tau Kappa Alpha, Senior representative on A.W.S. and Co-Chairman of the Powwow. Eight Delta Gammas are members of Alpha Lambda Delta. Pleiades representatives are Mary Beth Hunt, Virginia Heller, and Marjorie Heidenreich. Council of which Katherine Durham is a member; University Theatre Staff, Mary Jane Straub; and Sigma Alpha Iota lists Harriet Yenne as a member. Members of Oceanides are Peggy Newton, Katherine Durham, and Nancy Kegley.

Indiana's Theta Chapter, founded in 1898, was established on the Quad when Jordan Avenue was still a mud path. Today it boasts of green terraces, sloping to the shores of the Jordan River and green hair-bows on its Freshmen. The national organization was founded in 1874 at Lewis College, Oxford, Missouri. Today there are girls on fifty college campuses, four of which are in Canada, wearing the golden anchor of Delta Gamma.

DELTA ZETA

Hoping to stimulate true interest in scholastic achievement, the Indiana University chapter of Delta Zeta offers two honorary awards to its members. A silver loving cup is awarded each semester to the active member with the highest scholastic average. To the Freshman girl with the similar honor in her class a scholarship ring is presented.

Elizabeth Dawson, who is President of Pan-Hellenic Council and a member of W.A.A. Board and the Drum and Bugle Corps, and Jane Hudson, who is a Y.W.C.A. Council member and Secretary of the Girls' Glee Club, are prominent members of the organization.

Delta Zetas may well be proud that they belong to the fifth oldest sorority on the campus, their chapter having been chartered in 1909, just seven years after the national founding at Miami University. They may also be proud that such persons as Gail Patrick, movie actress; Mary Drange Cambell, founder of the Seeing Eye Foundation; and Bess Goody Koontz, Commissioner of the United States Bureau of Education, are included in their group of outstanding alumnae.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Kite Day, now a tradition of Kappa Alpha Theta, was established in 1889. This is held on the Sunday before Commencement in honor of the graduating Seniors. The important social functions are a banquet which is given after the installation of new officers in January, and formal dinners given before Thanksgiving and Christmas. The Christmas dinner is of especial importance because at this dinner needy youngsters are completely clothed.

The national organization, founded at DePauw University in 1870, was created to give cooperative advantages to women similar to those of men. Beta chapter was founded at Indiana in the same year.

Those in the sorority who are active in campus affairs are Rosemary Treanor, who is a member of Mortar Board and is Vice-President of the A.W.S. Council; Mary Susan Stull, who is a member of Theta Alpha Phi, Tau Kappa Alpha, A.W.S. Council, the 1940 Junior Prom Committee, and Pleiades; and Marie Turgi is also a member of Pleiades and Secretary of the Pan-Hellenic Council. Janet Gorrell belongs to Theta Sigma Phi and is Women's Editor of the Indiana Daily Student. Members of Alpha Lambda Delta are Marjorie Nie, Anne Louise Cole, Rosemary Treanor, Kathryn Alexander, Betty Brown, Mary Susan Stull, and Mary Rees. Mary Rees is also a member of the Board of Standards.

KAPPA DELTA

Alumnae of Kappa Delta are prominent in many professions, Pearl Buck, the Nobel Prize-winning author of "The Good Earth" and other novels; Sylvia Myer, the only woman member of the National Symphony Orchestra; and Georgia O'Keefe, one of America's most famous women artists. Alumnae on the campus are Dr. Edith Schuman, women's physician of the University; Mrs. Herman Briscoe, wife of the head of the Department of Chemistry; and Miss Hawthorne, dietician in the food department of the Union Building.

Kappa Delta was founded by four young women at Virginia State Normal, Farmville, Virginia, in 1897. It has now grown until it is represented by chapters in sixty-nine colleges and universities. Sigma Upsilon chapter of Kappa Delta was established on the Indiana campus in 1923. Their outstanding philanthropic work is the support of a ward at the Children's Hospital at Richmond, Virginia.

PHI MU

Many needy inhabitants of the state of Georgia benefit from the traveling health clinic provided by the national organization of Phi Mu. Annually contacting every isolated district in the state, the truck hospital is fully equipped with modern supplies and a staff capable of rendering excellent medical service to all in need.

Known as the Philomatheon Society from 1852 until 1904, the year in which the Greek name was adopted, Phi Mu has accumulated in its many years of existence a background imbued with southern tradition. In observance of some of the old customs, the local chapter annually holds a Dixie Day Dinner and Southern Ball in the true style of the Old South.

Since its organization in 1920, the Delta Alpha chapter of Phi Mu has contributed many prominent women to this campus. Among them is Miss Clara Fedler of the Department of Physical Education. Active members who are now outstanding in campus affairs are Louise Hurst, Women's Editor of the Daily Student, and a member of Theta Sigma Phi; Virgene Moore, President of Chi Gamma; Janet Dwyer, a member of Alpha Lambda Delta; and Alice Kettner, who belongs to the latter organization as well as being President of the German Club.

PHI OMEGA PI

Wearers of the pentagon annually sponsor numerous social functions which include the Rose Dinner, an outing in Brown County, and the Pentagon Prom. Nationally, the sorority is prominent in social work, particularly in Lexington, Kentucky, where it maintains a ward for the blind in conjunction with the city hospital.

Phi Omega Pi boasts of several women in varied activities, among whom are three members of Alpha Lambda Delta, Leota Bruner, Eunice Runner, and Eleanor Taylor. Eunice Runner is also on the Y.W.C.A. Cabinet, and Eleanor Taylor is a member of the Y.W.C.A. Council.

Branching out of the Masonic Order of the Eastern Star, the first chapter of Achoth, as it was originally called, was founded by fifteen women on the campus of the University of Nebraska in 1910. The local chapter was founded by members of the Eastern Star in 1922, shortly before the national organization changed the name to Phi Omega Pi and dropped the Masonic requirements.

The national organization of Pi Beta Phi has one outstanding philanthropic interest, a Settlement School located at Gatlinburg, Tennessee. This school has caused much interest among tourist trade in its education program for the people living in the mountain areas surrounding the school.

Prominent alumnae of Pi Beta Phi are Mrs. C. E. Edmondson, Mrs. Thomas Cookson, Mrs. Stith Thompson, and Miss Helen Grant. Beta chapter boasts of Mortar Board members, Anne Hopman and Caroline Imel. Anne is also Senior representative on A.W.S. Council. Peggy Smith and Margaret Lou May are members of Theta Alpha Phi; Peggy is, in addition, a member of Pleiades and W.A.A. dance group head, while Margaret Lou is a member of the Y.W.C.A. Council. Roberta Haskell is W.A.A. swimming head and a member of Pleiades; Frances Watkins is also in Pleiades. Elizabeth Thompson has been honored by Beta Gamma Sigma, while Madeline Scully is a Coed Sponsor of R.O.T.C.

The national organization came into being in 1867 at Monmouth College under the name of I.C. Sororis. Beta chapter on the Indiana campus was formed in 1893 by Louise S. Gregg. Since the founding the arrow has been worn in many ways in accordance with the ever-changing fashions.

SIGMA DELTA TAU

Upsilon chapter of Sigma Delta Tau, formerly Sigma Phi Upsilon, was installed on the Indiana campus in April. Sigma Phi Upsilon was the last local sorority on the campus to become a part of a national organization.

Sigma Delta Tau, one of the highest ranking Jewish sororities, was founded in 1917 by seven women at Cornell. The Indiana chapter was made a pledge chapter February 17, 1940. Sigma Delta Tau's national president is listed in Who's Who as the youngest national president of any organization.

Edna Levi, Betty Holland, Betty Savesky, and Patricia Jackson are members of Alpha Lambda Delta. Mortar Board recognized Mildred Horowitz and Betty Savesky, who is also on the Daily Student Staff. Jeanette Fichman is a member of the Indiana University Law Club. Members of Taps include Bernice Saperstein, Gerri Levine, Jeanne Sacks, all of whom had roles in University Theatre productions. The lead in "Silas, the Chore Boy" was played by Jeanne Sacks. Betty Holland is a member of the Honorary Chemical Society for Women.

Patronesses of the sorority are Mrs. Lewis Becovitz, Mrs. Hedwig Leser, and Mrs. Rose Fell.

SIGMA KAPPA

Out on Jordan Avenue is situated an inviting looking structure—Tau chapter house of Sigma Kappa. The sorority's origin is interesting in that Sigma Kappa was the first sorority to be established in the New England states. In 1874 five girls established this organization at Colby College, little realizing that some day it would become not only national but international in scope.

Tau is quite active with both Charlotte Jeanes and Harriet Kriegbaum, members of Alpha Lambda Delta, and Virginia Trickey and Anne Douglas, reporter and Assistant Campus Editor, respectively, on the Daily Student Staff. Two girls in the house, Jeanne Schrader and Harriet Kriegbaum, are members of Omicron Delta, while Doris Koning, Alice Schafer, Betty Anne Regel, Norma Lagenaur, Zanna Davisson, Virginia Campbell, and Doris Nicholson are active in Chi Gamma. Virginia Trickey and Charlotte Jeanes are editors on the Folio Staff, and Charlotte is also Treasurer of the Y.W.C.A. Anne Douglas is a member of Daubers Club. A Sigma Kappa representative in the Drum and Bugle Corps is Margaret Anne Hamilton.

Traditions of the sorority are the Maroon and Lavender Dinner which is held in September, the Mother-Daughter Thanksgiving Dinner, the Razz Banquet during the Christmas season, and the annual Star Dust Dinner in February.

Sigma Kappa is well represented in the University by Mrs. John Stempel, Mrs. Ward G. Biddle, Mrs. Theodore Torrey, Mrs. J. Wymond French, and Mrs. Harold M. Haas of the Alumnae chapter.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Southern-born Zeta Tau Alpha for a number of years confined its growth and influence to that region, and maintains a health center for the rehabilitation of mountain people in Currin Valley, Virginia, as a symbol of service to its mother state. The local chapter's annual affairs include the observation of Founders' Day with a banquet at which some province officer is in attendance and a formal dinner for the Seniors.

Founded nationally on October 15, 1898, as "The Three Question Marks" by nine coeds at Virginia State College, the organization later adopted the Greek letter title. Alpha Xi chapter was introduced on the Bloomington campus in 1922. Campus alumnae include Mrs. Bernard Gavit, Mrs. Ford P. Hall, Mrs. Dale Tomey, and Mrs. Joanna Olmstead.

Zeta Tau Alphas holding prominent campus positions are Mary Catherine Kirk, Treasurer of Pan-Hellenic Council; Anne Hooze, President of the Riding Club; Nelda Johnson and Georgia Vorgang, members of the W.A.A. Board. Omicron Delta includes Rose Ellen Berndt, Jane Worsham, Rachel Jones, Katherine Collier, and Dorothy Graf in its membership; Pleiades members are Georgia Vorgang, Mary Scales, and Mary Catherine Kirk; Georgia Vorgang and Eleanor Nicholas are members of Alpha Lambda Delta.

FOREST HALL

In 1936 the new dormitory for women was opened. During the first year mud and board walks provided its landscaping. In its second year came the addition of suitable drives and walks, and its dedication by Acting-President Wells who bestowed upon it the name, Forest Hall. The girls of Forest Hall made the first attempt to install a system of self-government on this campus during the third year. This year, its fourth, will mark the graduation of its charter members who number fifteen.

A unique tradition of the dormitory is the compilation of the Forest Folio which contains snapshots and "characteristics and foibles" of each year's residents. At the annual Senior Banquet the editors present the book.

The campus activities in which the Forest Hall girls have distinguished themselves are many and varied. Those holding offices on the campus are: Geneva Senefeld, President of A.W.S.; Margaret Postma, President of W.A.A.; Eliza Bess Lucas, Vice-President of Y.W.C.A.; Lois Armstrong, Secretary of Y.W.C.A.; and Doris Sheeler, President of Alpha Lambda Delta. MEMORIAL HALL

Memorial Hall is the realization of a dream—a dream of Dr. Agnes E. Wells who worked and planned for this building unceasingly. She visualized a women's dormitory that would combine beauty, practicality, and comfort. The result is this building in Collegiate Gothic, with its familiar four towers which symbolize Education, Service, Religion, and Recreation. The earnest yet exuberant spirit of Miss Wells has permeated the traditions of the dormitory.

Self-government under the A.W.S. constitution is practiced by the residents of the Hall. Each wing has its officers and committees which under the supervision of the social directors govern the women. Each wing publishes a year book, East, the "Towers" and West, the "Castle Chronicles". These books review academic and social achievements of the year.

The social activities besides teas, dances and pajama parties, include May Day Breakfast and Hard Times Dinner for East, an Easter Breakfast and Bowery Dinner for West. Jointly the two wings have a Senior Ring Dinner and a Faculty Supper. Two traditional customs which have been much enjoyed by students and visitors are the informal Sunday night suppers and Sunday after-dinner programs.

With the opening of Sycamore Hall second semester, the spirit embodied in Memorial Hall extends into another unit of the dormitory system which is being completed for Indiana University women. Miss Katherine Waller is Business Manager and Dietician for the Hall. Miss Helen Stewart was Social Director of East the first semester and is now at Sycamore. Miss Marguerite Keller is Director of Residence Halls.

Coaching Staff: Harrell, Hayes, McCracken, McMillin, Graham, Anderson, Thom, Freeman.

"Bo" McMillin, the almost mythical quarterback of the "Praying Colonels" of Centre College, came to Indiana as head-coach in 1935 and has lifted the Hoosiers from the doldrums of mediocrity in football. Since Bo's advent to Indiana football the Crimson have played the best teams in the country and have performed creditably well. Bo's teams have been fighting teams—a credit to their coach, a credit to their school.

Although losing half of their games during the 1939 season, the Crimson gridmen nevertheless gained many honors. Gaining 636 yards in conference play and averaging 126 yards per game for all games, the Hoosier passing attack was above that of any other Big Ten team and third best in the nation, behind Texas Christian and Princeton. Jim McGuire, hitting 10 out of 16 pass attempts, had the best completion record in the Conference. Harold Hursh was one of the most highly publicized players in the country. Mike Bucchianeri was named left guard on a southern sports editor's annual All American team of unpronounceables.

It seemed to the casual observer that one of the weaknesses of the 1939 edition of the "Fightin' Hoosiers" was the lack of versatile back. Indiana had good line plungers, good passers, and good men on end runs and reverses. However, almost to a man, they were proficient in only their specialty. The opposition soon learned that when Hursh took the ball, a pass was in the making; or when Tofil carried the mail, it was a plunge. They set their defense accordingly. A triple threat back would have spelled the difference between defeat and victory in several games. Two fine freshman backs, Dale Swihart and Bob Rhoda, may be the answer to McMillin's troubles.

After a disappointing season in 1938, the Hoosier football warriors returned for the 1939 gridiron campaign with 21 lettermen on the roster. With experienced men for almost every position on the team and plenty of reserve strength on hand, "Bo" and his "Fightin' Hoosiers" had good reason to face the 1939 season with an optimistic outlook. But bad luck struck the Hoosier camp hard and often, dispelling the high hopes that had been held.

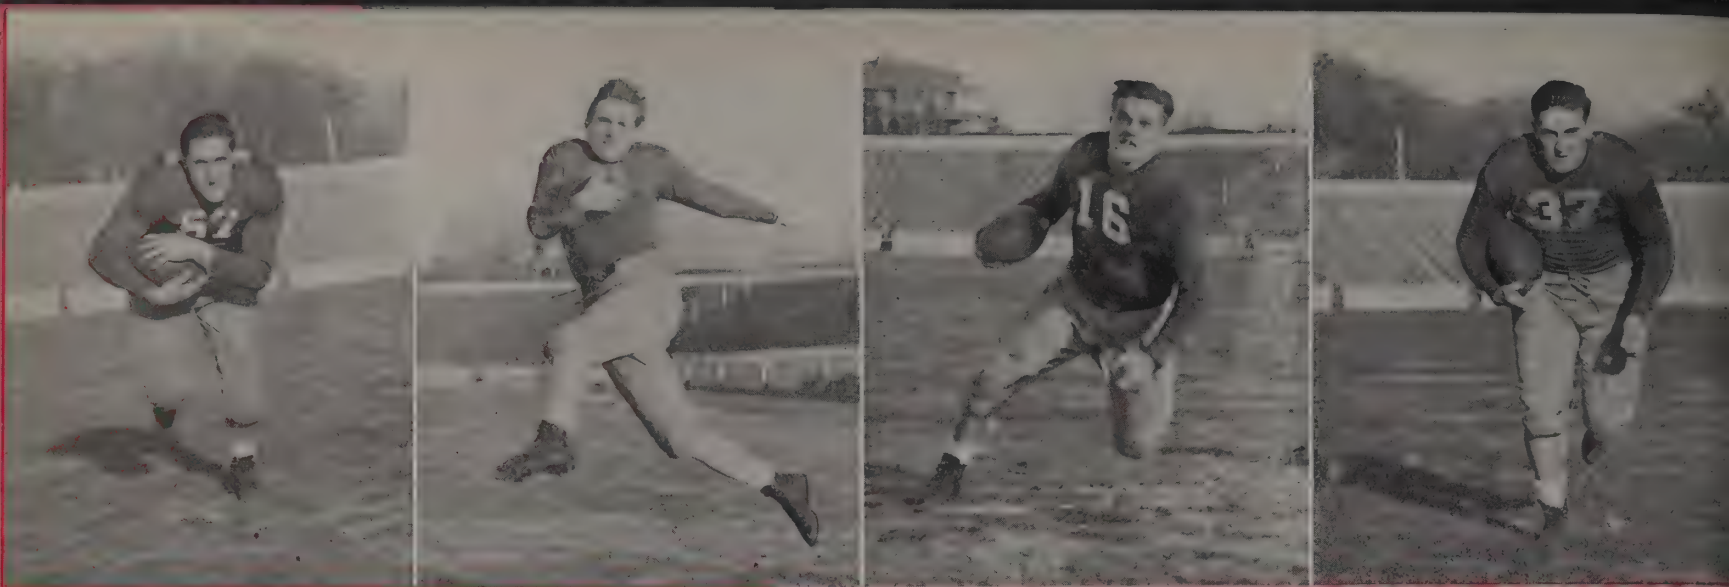

Halfback Cobb Lewis, who had been expected to start as a regular, was kept out of action for the entire season because of injuries. Maddox, Tofil, Higginbotham, and others were dogged by injuries that kept them on the sidelines for part of the season. As a result of the bad luck jinx, Indiana ended the year with a record showing two victories, two tie games, and four losses. The Big Ten conference standings showed I. U. in seventh place.

The Hoosiers started with a tie game against the highly-rated Nebraska eleven. One week later Nile Kinnick and his teammates from Iowa edged out the McMillinmen, 32-29. Undaunted by this defeat, Indiana came back to topple Wisconsin and Illinois on successive Saturdays. Ohio State, the conference champions, had too much power for the Hoosiers, as did Fordham. Indiana out-fumbled Michigan State but gained a tie decision and then ended the season by losing to Purdue, 7-6.

The Hoosier eleven opened their 1939 grid-iron campaign with a 7-7 tie against the Nebraska University football warriors in Memorial Stadium before a colorful Homecoming crowd of 18,000 spectators.

After a scoreless first half in which neither team threatened seriously, the Hoosiers came back in the third period with a successful aerial attack that carried them the length of the field into scoring position. Tofil climaxed the drive by smashing across the goal line for a touchdown and Herbert placed-kicked the extra point to put Indiana in the lead, 7-0.

In the closing minutes of the final quarter Nebraska resorted to the air as Rohrig passed the Cornhuskers into scoring position. Luther on a reverse skirted his left end for a touchdown and Rohrig converted the extra point to tie the score, 7-7.

So far as the statistics of the game were concerned, it was an I. U. victory. The first downs favored McMillin's eleven, 12 to 6, and the Crimsonites gained 220 yards from scrimmage as against only 71 yards for Nebraska.

In one of the wildest and highest scoring battles seen in the Big Ten for more than a decade, the University of Iowa celebrated its Homecoming by pushing over two touchdowns in the final quarter to nose out Indiana, 32-29. It was a heart-breaking loss for the Hoosiers, who held a nine point lead going into the final quarter.

With the hot sun beating mercilessly down upon the Iowa City gridiron, Hursh of Indiana and Kinnick of Iowa staged a spectacular passing duel. It was in this game that Hursh established himself as one of the greatest passers in college football by completing 18 of 26 passes attempted.

The Hoosiers jumped into an early 10-7 first quarter lead, but the Hawkeye offense rolled up a 20-17 advantage as the first half ended. In the third period Hursh completed two touchdown passes to move Indiana into a 29-20 lead that appeared safe. In the final stanza, however, Iowa scored twice to gain their 32-29 margin of victory.

Brooks, Zimmer, Tipmore, and Rucinski tallied touchdowns, Herbert booted a field goal, and Tofil and Herbert each converted an extra point to account for the Hoosiers points.

An alert and vastly improved Crimson eleven scored in the opening minutes of the first quarter and the closing minutes of the final quarter to give Indiana a 14-0 victory over Wisconsin. The Hoosiers unleashed a powerful running attack and provided a stubborn defense that kept the Badgers from scoring.

Before many of the 22,000 spectators had an opportunity to settle back in their seats, Indiana had scored. On the second play of the game Archie Harris recovered a Wisconsin fumble on the Badger 18 yard line. Hursh then faded back and passed to Herbert in the end zone for a touchdown. Herbert place-kicked the extra point to shove the "Fightin' Hoosiers" into a 7-0 lead.

It was late in the fourth period when Maddox, speedy Indiana half-back, supplied the thrill of the day. Indiana received the ball on her own 20 yard line after an exchange of punts. On the next play Maddox went outside his right tackle, cut back sharply, and sped down the sideline for the Hoosier's second touchdown. Herbert converted, making the score: Indiana 14, Wisconsin 0.

ILLINOIS 6

The right toe of Gene White, Sophomore guard, gave Indiana a 7-6 victory over Bob Zuppke's Illinois eleven. In a game that was featured by the goal line stands of the "Fightin' Hoosiers" and the accurate passing of Harold Hursh, Indiana chalked up its second Big Ten victory of the season. The win marked the first time in 40 years that a Hoosier eleven has defeated the Blue and Orange on the Illinois gridiron.

The Crimson's only touchdown of the day was scored with but 22 seconds of play remaining in the first half. After Indiana had moved the ball to the Suckers' nine yard line, Hursh faded back and passed to Eddie Rucinski, who made a spectacular catch on the goal line and fell into the end zone for the touchdown. White then place-kicked the extra point that proved to be the Hoosiers' margin of victory.

Illinois scored their lone touchdown late in the third quarter. After recovering an Indiana fumble on the Crimson 15 yard line, the Illini took advantage of the opportunity by driving to a touchdown in four plays.

OHIO STATE 24

After winning two consecutive conference games, the Hoosiers buckled before a powerful Ohio State eleven for their second conference defeat of the season. The conference champions rode roughshod over Indiana in hanging up a 24-0 victory.

The Hoosiers, who failed to score for the first time of the year, were kept deep in their own territory during most of the game by an alert Buckeye defense. Consequently, the I. U. gridmen were unable to unleash their vaunted aerial attack.

On the first play of the second quarter Langhurst, Buckeye fullback, plunged over the I. U. goal line for the first score of the game. A few minutes later Maag kicked a 25 yard field goal and the score was: Ohio State 10, Indiana 0. With only a few seconds of play remaining in the first half, Quarterback Scott broke loose for a 10 yard touchdown run, giving Ohio State a 17-0 lead.

The Buckeyes scored their final touchdown in the fourth quarter when Langhurst plunged over from the Indiana one yard stripe.

INDIANA 7

MICHIGAN STATE 7

Taking advantage of numerous breaks, Michigan State held the Hoosiers to a 7-7 tie in a game that was marked by frequent I. U. fumbles. The Crimson showed a definite superiority in the statistics, outgaining the Spartans, two to one.

After Michigan State had jumped into an early 7-0 lead, Indiana, led by Hursh and Brooks, tied the score in the third quarter. Tofil plunged for the Hoosier touchdown and Herbert place-kicked the extra point.

Displaying a crushing running attack, the Fordham Rams scored a 13-0 victory over a stubborn Hoosier eleven, in its first New York appearance. The Rams, scoring in the second and third quarters, were held at a stand still, however, during the remaining periods. Indiana was able to make only one serious threat. On an intercepted pass by Herbert and two tosses from Hursh to Herbert, the Crimson brought the ball to the Fordham seven. The ball was then lost on downs. Two plays later Eshmont scored Fordhams last touchdown on an 80-yard run.

Conversion of the extra point after their touchdown gave Purdue a 7-6 victory over Indiana in one of the hardest fought games ever played between the two schools. By virtue of their one point margin of victory, the Boilermakers, for the third consecutive year, were able to forge another link on the highly ornamental chain attached to the Old Oaken Bucket.

After a scoreless first half, the upstate eleven started a 63 yard victory march at the outset of the third period. With Brock carrying the ball on nearly every play, Purdue marched to the Indiana one yard line. Brock, after the Hoosiers held for two downs, circled his left end for a touchdown and Montague kicked what proved to be the winning point.

Early in the fourth quarter Indiana traveled 74 yards on three pass plays to score their touchdown. After Hursh had returned a punt to his own 26 yard line, he completed a pass to Brooks for a 15 yard gain.

The next toss to Rucinski was good for 14 more yards and a first down on the Purdue 45 yard stripe. On the next play Hursh faded deep and threw a long pass to Brooks, who made a beautiful catch on the Boilermaker 15 yard line and then raced the remaining distance for a touchdown. Herbert's attempt for the extra point was wide.

The Hoosiers made a desperate effort to score again in the closing minutes of the game, but Hursh's attempt to drop-kick a field goal from the Purdue 33 yard line fell short of the goal posts.

A capacity crowd of 25,000 watched the Crimson eleven dominate the play throughout the game. Indiana gained 217 yards from scrimmage as compared to 41 gained by the Boilermakers. In addition, the Hoosiers amassed a total of 15 first downs, while Purdue was able to make only 10.

Many people are prone to forget the gridiron greats of Indiana as soon as they receive their diplomas and take leave of their alma mater. Yet the fame of a great many Cream and Crimson football men spreads throughout the country in a few years, as ex-I. U. stars continue their feats on the gridiron for professional teams.

Corby Davis, one of the greatest full-backs ever to wear the colors of Indiana University, has been plunging through the National Professional Football League for the Cleveland Rams since his graduation in 1938. In 1937 Vernon Huffman graduated from I. U., carrying with him nation-wide fame as the result of his choice for sports writers' All-American elevens. For the past three seasons Huffman has been playing with the Detroit Lions.

Playing with Davis on the 1938 team was a versatile backfield man by the name of Frank Filchok, who today, as a member of the Washington Redskins, is recognized as one of the greatest passers in professional football. Two years ago Bob Haak was selected as the most valuable man on the Hoosier team. At the present time he is one of the most valuable members of the Brooklyn Dodgers' aggregation. On the Dodgers' roster is another name familiar to Indiana sports enthusiasts—Joe Zeller, one of the "Fightin' Hoosiers" in the early thirties.

Claire Randolph, who brought fame to I. U. more than a decade ago, turned to professional football and was described as one of the greatest players in the game. Other well-known Indiana University football men have graduated to the professional leagues; but to name all of them is a task best suited for the football historian. As long as the Hoosiers continue to play football, there will be additional wearers of the Cream and Crimson who will gain fame in the professional field.

A singular honor to which I. U. can lay claim is the distinction of having more football players win the most valuable player award in the Big Ten than any other school. Chuck Bennett, Vernon Huffman, and Corby Davis are the athletes who have received this coveted award. No other school in the Conference has had three men win this honor.

Basketball

Coach Branch McCracken has compiled an enviable record in the two years that he has coached the Indiana basketball teams. The McCracken coached Crimson teams have won 37 of 43 games played, and have been the victors in 19 straight non-conference battles. Both teams coached by "Big Mac" have placed second in the Conference and his 1940 edition won the N.C.A.A. tourney.

McCracken has turned out an All American, Ernie Andres, and several all Conference men. 1939 saw Andres picked unanimously to the many All Conference teams. This year Curly Armstrong was named to the A.P. All Big Ten five.

McCracken came to Indiana eight years after he graduated from the Bloomington institution with highest honors in athletics. While at Indiana, McCracken was an All American basketball player and an end on the football team. After graduating, Branch took over the coaching duties at Ball State where his basketball teams captured over eighty per cent of their contests.

The 1940-41 Indiana University basketball schedule will include a five-game trip during the Christmas holidays that will pit the national hardwood champions against some of the best quintets in the country. The trip will be climaxed by an intersectional battle against the University of Kentucky's Southern Intercollegiate title-holders in the famous New Orleans Sugar Bowl. The Hoosiers will go to the west coast and then to the Gulf of Mexico before they return home—a distance of nearly 4,000 miles.

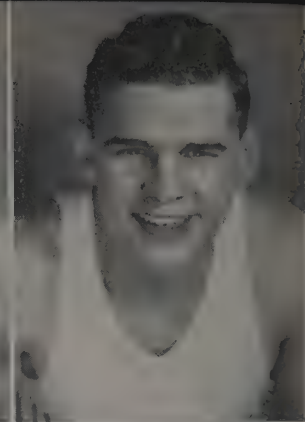

The Indiana team will open their Western jaunt by playing California at Berkeley and Stanford at San Francisco on successive evenings. The Crimson basketballers will then play both U.C.L.A. and Southern California in Los Angeles before leaving for New Orleans, where the Hoosiers will meet the powerful Kentucky team on December 30. The trip from California to Louisiana will be made by airplane.

N. C. A. A. BASKETBALL

In the words of President Herman B Wells, "It is fitting that the state of Indiana should be the home of the national basketball champions." Coach Branch McCracken and eleven Crimson hardwood men proved this statement to the entire nation March 30, 1940, when they returned from Kansas City, Mo., with the gold trophy symbolic of their basketball supremacy—they were national champions.

After being selected as the team to represent the Mid-West in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament, the Hoosier cagers won the Eastern division championship by trouncing Springfield College, 48-24, and Duquesne University 39-30.

Kansas University, who had won the Western division crown by conquering Rice and Southern California, was defeated by Indiana in the championship tilt, 60-42. The Hoosiers were led in the final game by Huffman and McCreary.

The members of the Crimson team were presented gold watches and key-chain basketballs. Captain Marvin Huffman was awarded a medal for being the most valuable man to his team in the N.C.A.A. tourney.

When the newly-crowned basketball champions returned to Bloomington, they were met at the city limits by more than two hundred cars filled with University students, who paraded them to the Fieldhouse. There more than 2,000 spirited students joined in the most enthusiastic victory celebration seen on the campus in recent years.

The 1940 Big Ten Conference season produced one of the most unusual races in recent years, as Indiana's fire-brand five placed second to a team which they defeated twice by decisive margins. Although Purdue placed first in the final Conference standings, I.U.'s students and supporters claimed a moral championship by virtue of the Hoosiers' twin victories over the Boilermakers.

The Crimson quintet opened their Conference season with a narrow 36-34 verdict over Illinois, who was without the services of Captain Bill Hapac. The Indiana netmen chalked up their second Big Ten win at the expense of Iowa, who fell before the fast-breaking Hoosiers, 45-30. After this auspicious start Indiana partisans began dreaming of a Conference Championship; but an inspired Minnesota team darkened I.U. hopes when they handed the Crimson a 46-44 defeat.

However, the McCracken-men soon found the victory trail again as they outpointed Wisconsin's Badgers, 40-34, two nights later. And then came the first Purdue game. As the capacity crowd filed out of the I.U. Fieldhouse, the scoreboard showed: Indiana 46, Purdue 39. The Wolverines from Michigan were outclassed, 57-30, before the Hoosiers again tasted defeat—this time by a 40-36 count at Northwestern.

The Crimson five then vanquished Iowa, 46-42, and stalled to a 38-34 victory over a stubborn Chicago team, before bowing to the Buckeyes at Ohio State by a 44-26 margin. And then came the second Purdue game. Newspaper headlines recorded the following figures: Indiana 51, Purdue 45. Indiana won their ninth and final Conference contest by smashing Ohio State, 52-31.

For the second consecutive year the Indiana basketball team went through its non-conference hardwood season undefeated. Playing some of the best quintets in the country, the Crimson netmen breezed through an eight-game schedule that included three intersectional tilts. Two of the Hoosiers' most impressive victories were the 51-30 conquest over the highly-rated DePaul cagers and the 51-49 win over the powerful Duquesne five.

1940 BASEBALL

Coach Paul "Pooch" Harrell, Indiana diamond mentor, faced a difficult task in building his 1940 nine. Although the Hoosier baseball strategist had an experienced mound corps and a crop of promising Sophomores, the Cream and Crimson diamondmen were hard hit by graduation. Missing from the 1939 team, which finished second in the Big Ten, were many lettermen, including Ernie Andres, Tom Gwin, Hal Cromer, Lefty Cox, and Bob Woehr.

As the Harrellmen prepared for the Conference opener against Ohio State, the infield was still Pooch's biggest worry. Don Danielson, hard-hitting second baseman, was the only returning regular in the infield. Mike Kosman, Junior letterman, took over the third base spot, and at first base and shortstop Harrell found two Sophomores who ably filled the gaps. Everett Hoffman covered the initial sack and Lloyd Whipple won the shortstop berth.

Dro and Hursh worked behind the plate for the Hoosiers when Stoshitch needed relief. Capt. Dale Gentil and Don Hundley were Pooch's pitching mainstays. However, the Indiana tutor also had three other reliable hurlers—Don Dunker and Clarence Brunner, both Sophomores, and Vic Aldridge, Junior left-hander.

1939 BASEBALL

The Indiana University batsmen finished out a top notch 1939 Conference season in second place having lost the Championship by the slender margin of one-half game to Iowa with whom they tied for first in 1938. Had they not been rained out of the opening two games with the lower bracket Illinois nine, the home diamond lads easily might have emerged with the title. In the Conference race, the Crimson won seven and lost three, and for the total season won sixteen out of twenty encounters.

The Harrellmen opened the season with impressive 22-2 and 14-2 victories over DePauw. Indiana State and Wabash proved to be the next victims by scores of 14-5 and 5-2, respectively.

The Conference season was launched by a double-header with Wisconsin. Superb pitching Gentil and Cox coupled with late winning splurges put I.U. on top, 7-2 and 11-4. The Crimson winning streak stretched to eight games by victories over Wabash and Michigan State before it was broken by Chicago when they stole home with the winning run in the last inning. The next day the Hoosiers gained revenge with a 13-5 victory.

Defeat trailed the Hoosiers' heels in the next two games, losing to Notre Dame, 12-7, and Purdue, 1-0, in an 11-inning game. The Crimson retaliated with a victory the next day.

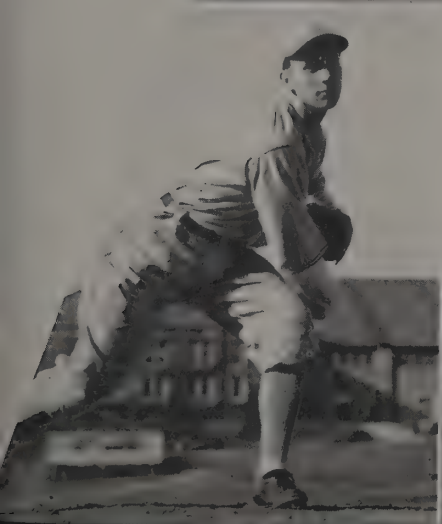

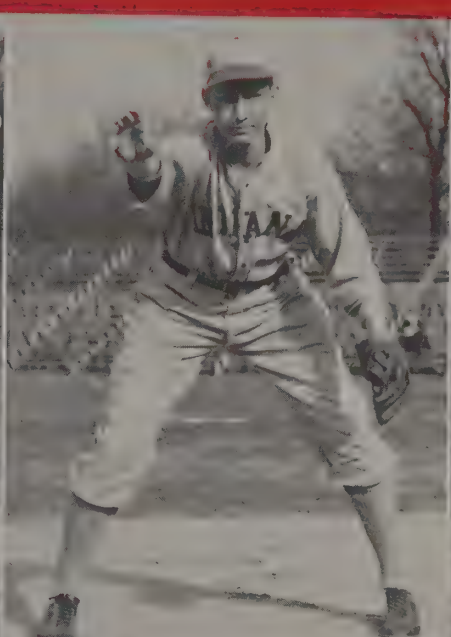

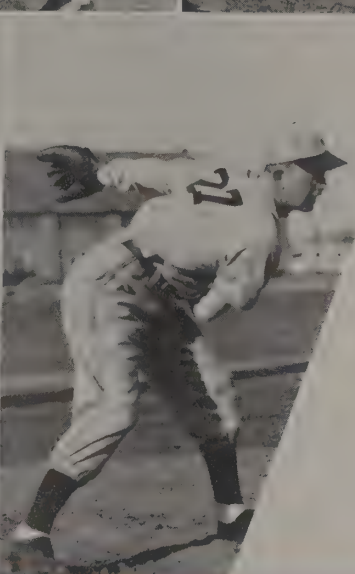

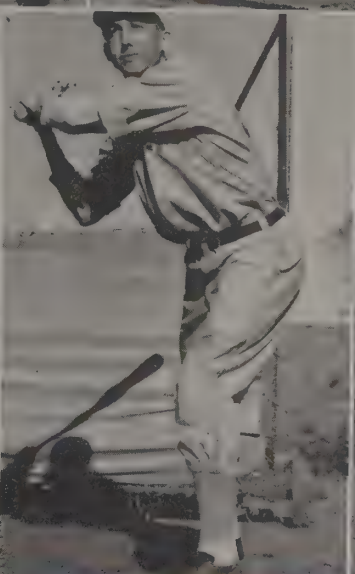

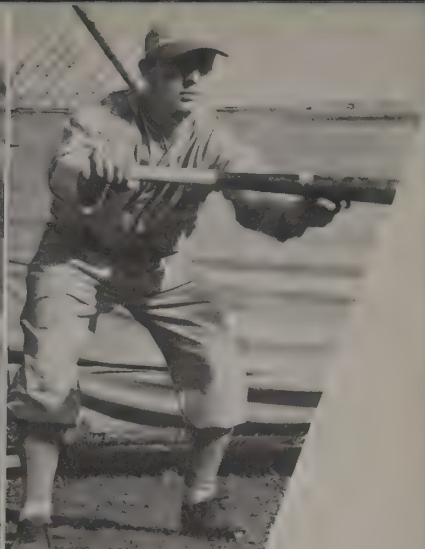

Next in line of the Crimson's vanquished were Michigan State, 7-0, with Wilshire allowing only four hits. Michigan balanced the trip to the Wolverine state by defeating Indiana, 11-1.

The last four games were won handily as Butler fell, 4-3, Ohio State, 11-2, and 4-2, and DePauw, 14-1.

Outstanding in the delivery department of the game last season were Dale Gentil and Sophomore Don Hundley. Outstanding batters were Gwin, Danielson, Andres, Corriden, and Dro. The Hoosiers crossed the plate 172 times as against 81 for their opponents, indicating a better than 2-1 scoring average for the season's play.

Coach E. C. "Billy" Hayes who has developed some of the country's greatest track stars appears to have brought two more from under cover. They are Roy Cochran and Campbell Kane. Cochran, the brother of "Race Horse" Cochran, the great sprinter of the 1924 Olympics, who was also one of Hayes' prodigies, was National and International champion for 1939 in his specialty, the 440-yard low hurdles. This spring Cochran broke the world indoor record in the 440 twice with times of 48.2 and 48.3.

Campbell Kane, a sophomore, has been called the most promising middle distance man to come up in recent years. The rangy Hoosier won the Sugar Bowl half mile in 1:54.2 and the Big Ten indoor mile in 4:13.2.

Kane and Cochran teamed with Hoke and Hedges to run the fastest time ever recorded for the distance medley. This quartet, unbeaten this year in the distance medley and the two mile relays, stepped the two and one-half miles in 10:10 at the Butler relays.

The Indiana thinlies easily won all three of their dual meets this year. Led by Campbell Kane, brilliant sophomore runner, and Roy Cochran, lightning dash man, the team was not closely pressed in any meet all year.

The team opened its season with a 53½ to 41½ victory over Ohio State at Columbus. Cochran won both the 70 yard high and low hurdles and placed second in the 60 yard dash to score 13 points. Archie Harris, ace shotput heaver, won his event.

Kane won the mile and 880 yard run to score 10 points.

Against the last Nicholson-coached Notre Dame team, Indiana won another victory, 52-34. This was a record breaking meet. Roy Cochran set a new world's indoor record in the 440 yard dash of 48.3 seconds. Ten minutes prior to this Cochran equaled the fieldhouse record when he won the 60 yard dash in 6.2 seconds. Archie Harris broke the field house record by shoving the 16 pound shot-put out 49 feet and 4 inches. Campbell Kane again won the 880 and one mile run while Ed Hedges finished first in the two mile run. Against Purdue in the last dual meet Indiana again triumphed 49-39. Kane and Cochran, the unbeaten Crimson pair, led the attack against the Boilermakers. Kane won the mile run and Cochran won the 60 yard dash. Archie Harris defeated Weber of Purdue in the shot-put event. Mikulas and Burnett won first and second in the high jump. Indiana won both the two mile and the one mile relay races.

The 1940 Conference Indoor meet caused many an eyebrow to raise in surprise as Michigan, the odds on favorite, was forced to win the mile relay in order to nose out Indiana, 38-31, for the championship. It was the Wolverines' team strength that pulled them through, as they counted many second, third, and fourth places. Most of the Hoosiers' points came from the efforts of several star performers.

Roy Cochran brought down the house as he twice broke the world indoor record in the 440 yard dash. His times of 48.2 and 48.4 were both well below the accepted mark of 48.9. Other Crimson firsts were won by the sparkling 4:13.2 mile turned in by Campbell Kane and by the 49 foot 2 inch throw by Archie Harris in the shot put. Second place ribbons were won by Kane, who was nosed out by inches in the 880, and by Ed Hedges in the two mile run. Jenkins and Tolliver placed fourth in the 440 and the mile run, and Eddie Mikulas leaped to fifth place in the high jump. The mile relay saw Indiana's team finish in third place behind Michigan and Illinois.

The Crimson trackmen had marked success in the relay carnivals and special meets in which they were entered. In the Butler relays they came within a point and three-fourths of stealing the championship from under the nose of their arch rivals and the highly touted favorite, Michigan.

The Crimson did not come home empty handed, for they won two relays and set two new world records. Cochran established a new mark of 6.9 in the 60 yard low hurdles over five barriers. He then teamed with Kane, Hoke, and Hedges to post a new world record of 10:10.3 in the distance medley. Hoke, Hedges, and Kane then joined with Tolliver to bring home the two mile trophy.

At the Illinois relay, the two mile and distance medley quartet easily won both of their races. A month later the mile relay foursome placed second at the Chicago relays. Cochran beat Belcher at 600 yards and Kane finished second to Borican in a special 1000 yard run at Windy City games. January 1 Kane won the 880 at the Sugar Bowl carnival in 1:54.2 and Cochran ran second in the 440.

Coach Wilmer Rinehart back at the helm after an absence of one year led his team to an impressive record in dual meet competition. The season was opened by a 22-23 loss to Wisconsin, the ultimate Big Ten champions. Walter Mehl led the Badgers; Tolliver, the Crimson.

In their next meet the Hoosiers brought joy to the hearts of their followers as they administered a 20-39 runaway to the Purdue Riveters. Ed Holderman salvaged a little glory for the Lafayette lads as he placed first. However, the next five runners to cross the line wore crimson jerseys as Kane, Daniels, Hedges, Tolliver, and Broertjes finished in that order. In the third dual meet Michigan State fell, 23-32. Hedges beat out Fehr by five yards to place first. Other Indiana scoring was done by Kane, Daniels, and Tolliver who finished third, fourth and fifth behind Fehr. Broertjes ran tenth to round out the Hoosiers' total. The meet, run over a muddy course, saw the Crimson reach their best form of the season.

Vernon Broertjes

Gerry Daniels

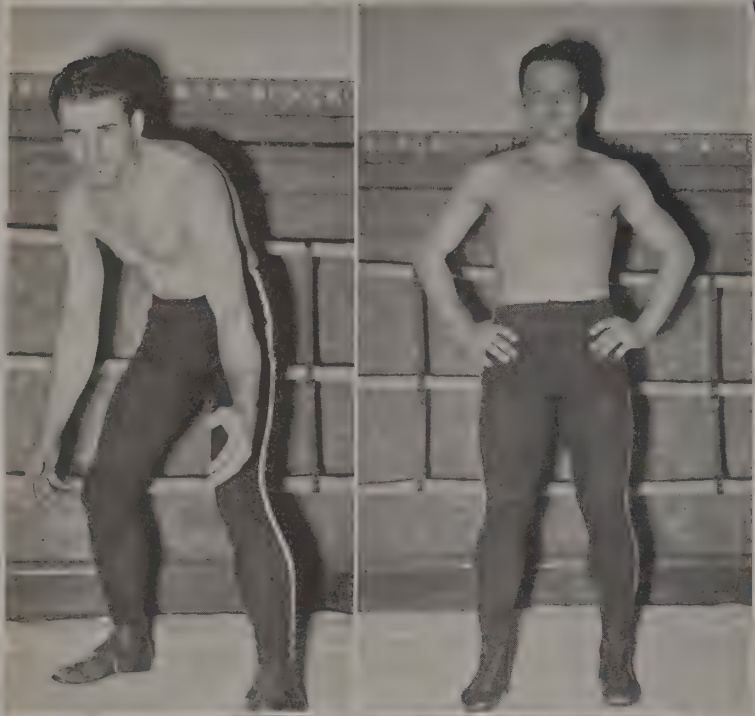

A week later Indiana Central came, saw, and was conquered, 18-43. Hedges easily won the meet, but the feature of the day was the dual between Fred Wilt of the Indianapolis school and Kane. They raced neck and neck until the last 100 yards when Kane's famous kick gave him a ten yard margin at the finish.

The last dual meet saw the Hoosiers defeat the Ohio State Buckeyes, 19-36. Hedges won his third consecutive race as he led the runners to the tape in the fast time of twenty-one minutes. Eisenhart of the Bucks was a close second with Tolliver, Broertjes, Daniels, and McKibben close behind.

In the Conference meet which was won by Wisconsin, Indiana placed second. The Hoosiers scoring was done by Hedges, sixth; Tolliver, seventh; McKibben, eighth; Broertjes, tenth; and Persinger, seventeenth. Hedges placed tenth in the National.

Particularly encouraging was the work of two sophomores, Campbell Kane and Gerry Daniels. Ed Hedges continued his reliable work, and Tolliver and Broertjes could be depended upon to place high in the scoring. Coach Rinehart will have his entire team back next year, and with the help of two promising freshmen, Wilson and Wilt, the Crimson should again be the favorite for the National championship.

Billy Thom's reputation as "the most dependable coach with the most dependable team," was verified as Indiana retained its Big Ten wrestling crown at Purdue, by nosing out Michigan 24-23. In the first place contingent were Sefton, Wilson, and McDaniels. Seconds were won by Antonacci and Inman, while Roman and Weiss received third place.

The matmen then journeyed to the National Intercollegiate Meet at Champaign, Ill. in an effort to unseat Oklahoma A. and M. from their title. Suffering the loss of McDaniels through injuries midway in the meet, Indiana received second place, bowing to Oklahoma, 24-14. Antonacci was the only individual victor, with Inman a second and Roman and McDaniels third spot winners.

Winning four out of six dual meets, Indiana's wrestling team collected 102½ points to its opponents 51½ points to set up an excellent record for the season. The Thom men opened the mat season by defeating Cornell College, 21 to 3. Livovich, Sefton, Rolak, Roman, McDaniels, Inman, and White were victorious in their matches. At Iowa State, the wrestlers were defeated, 10½-13½. Oklahoma was Indiana's next conqueror, winning 18-6.

The matmen again hit their stride at Ohio State, winning 22 to 8, with Sefton, Antonacci, Wilson, Weiss, McDaniels and Inman the victors. Illinois was the next victim, suffering defeat by a score of 20-6, on wins by Sefton, Antonacci, Wilson, Roman, McDaniels and Inman. The wrestlers then routed Michigan with a 23 to 3 count.

Robert Royer, I. U.'s swimming coach, started out on his career as an undertaker after graduating from high school. He then came to Indiana and after four years here again ventured forth in the world, this time as an English teacher and assistant principal in Akron, Indiana.

Three years later he returned to I. U. to become swimming coach and to lead Indiana to the top of collegiate swimming. Besides these duties, he now serves as assistant Dean of Men and sponsor of Phi Eta Sigma.

The Indiana University swimming team won four out of seven matches during the past season, losing two and tying one. In the State Meet, the paddlers placed second, losing to Purdue by one point. Although this record is not too impressive, the Royermen were compensated by gaining victories in three out of four Big Ten Conference matches.

The season was opened with a smashing 56-11 defeat over the Ft. Wayne Y.M.C.A. in the men's pool. Traveling to Chicago, they were conquered by a fast Chicago team, 52-32. Mike Pakucko and Bart Benedetti led the I.U. swimmers in gaining their 32 points. Pakucko again starred when Illinois came to Bloomington to suffer a 47-37 loss. Purdue was I.U.'s next victim, falling 50-34 at Lafayette. This match saw Pakucko in his first defeat of the season. Huntington came here to provide an interesting 42-42 tie. Klafs was impressive in the breast stroke while Benedetti swam 50 yards in 24.5 seconds—the fastest time of his career. Shooting north to Michigan State, Indiana's splashes were defeated 44-31. The State Meet followed with Indiana, Purdue, Rose Poly, and DePauw participating. Purdue eked out a 51-50 win to win the title that I.U. held the year previous. The Royermen then came through to close the season with a 59-25 victory over Wisconsin. Ganger and Boaz were outstanding.

The three big natatorial names of the season were Mike Pakucko, Frank Klafs, who broke his own breast stroke record twice in one day; and Bart Benedetti, who holds the National Junior A.A.U. record in the 150 yard medley. Jack Ganger and Bob Hall, two sophomores, provided the diving strength and look very promising for the future.

GOLF

As the 1940 golf season started, Indiana had prospects for one of the best teams in the history of the school. Reporting to Coach Hugh E. Willis for this year's team were a group of veterans and a very promising crop of Sophomores. Four lettermen—Captain Pete Grant, Frank Penning, Bob Sill, and Bill Horton were among those who answered the Indiana mentor's call this spring.

The Hoosiers got off to a successful start by winning the Mid-West Amateur Tournament for the second successive year. The Willismen then won their first collegiate match of the season by trouncing Butler and Detroit in a triangular meet. Although the Indiana golfers lost their first Conference start to Ohio State, prospects were still bright for the most successful season in years and a possible Big Ten championship.

Bob Van Reisen and Bill Lyon look down the fairway before teeing off.

Although the Indiana University golf team won only two of its six dual matches in 1939, the varsity linksmen showed steady improvement during the year and ended their season by placing fifth in the Big Ten tournament. The Hoosiers were only one point out of fourth place and two out of third position when the final results of the Conference meet were tabulated. The Indiana golfers finished higher in the tournament than three of the Big Ten teams that had beaten them earlier in the year.

Among the laurels captured by the Cream and Crimson team during the 1939 season was the Mid-West Amateur championship at French Lick. The Hoosiers' victories in dual matches were scored against Alma College and the University of Detroit. The links team was defeated by Purdue, Illinois, Ohio State, and Michigan.

Frank Penning

It was not until he was 55 that Prof. Hugh E. Willis, golf coach and professor of law at Indiana University, ever played a game of golf. Mrs. Willis secretly arranged for some lessons and he had to take them.

About six years ago, when Prof. Willis was asked by the University to coach the golf team, the boys had no coach. Taking over he showed the team the science of golf.

Now and then Coach Willis shoots above par, but as a whole, his score is never above the seventies.

Prof. Willis has been at Indiana University since 1922. He received the A.B. (1897) and A.M. (1899) degrees from Yankton, South Dakota, College, and the LL.B. and LL.M. degrees from the University of Minnesota in 1901 and 1902.

TENNIS

Winning only two out of eight matches, Indiana's 1939 tennis team made their poorest showing in many years. The loss of six lettermen of 1938 that should have been back was an important deciding factor.

The two victories were at the expense of Butler, 6-1, and Wabash, 7-0. The six defeats were caused by the racquets of Notre Dame, 7-2; Kentucky, 6-3; Western State, 8-1; Michigan State, 8-1; Wayne University, 8-1; and DePauw, 6-3. Two other matches with Ball State and DePauw were rained out.

Indiana also failed to place in the State Intercollegiate Meet held at Earlham. However, Vic Kingdon reached the semi-finals in singles, while in the doubles Kingdon and Gil Haynie were defeated in the finals. Kingdon made the best showing of the season, winning practically all of his regularly scheduled games. The 1940 team promises better results. There are four regulars back plus a crew of promising sophomores, and present indications show a stronger, better-balanced team for the coming season.

RIFLE TEAM

Winning the most important match in its history, the R.O.T.C. division of the University Rifle Team received the William Randolph Hearst trophy this year for first place in the Fifth Corps area which includes 22 teams in Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, and Indiana. The second team won third place by placing above the first teams of all schools except Ohio State. This victory climaxed a successful season in which the rifle team won over 80 per cent of its matches and was rated as one of the best teams in the country.

The rifle team is composed of 30 men and is divided into three squads; the varsity, R.O.T.C., and Freshmen. Major L. P. Hodnette is in charge of the team while Sergeant Brooks serves as coach. Leonard Knight is captain of the varsity, Richard Feiertag of the R.O.T.C., and Robert Kendall of the Freshmen. Feiertag and Harold Marshall hold the highest individual scores of the year.

Matches were held with Big Ten, R.O.T.C., and other college teams. Although most matches are played via telegraph, trips were taken this year to the Universities of Kentucky, Tennessee and Chicago. Sweaters were awarded to the seven highest ranking varsity men.

INTRAMURALS

The 1939-40 intramural season produced one of the closest races since the inauguration of this department of athletics. Although the Sigma Chis, winner of the 1939 championship, jumped into an early lead again this year, the S.A.E.s overtook the defending champs in March and had gained a $3\frac{1}{2}$ point lead by April 1, with several spring events still to be completed.

The Sigma Chis won the first I-M contest of the 1939-40 season when Bill Menke paced his fraternity to a first place in the cross-country run. The S.A.E. golfers copped top honors in the fall links tournament, with Sigma Pi second, and Phi Delta Theta third. The Sig Alphas amassed more points by winning the minor league volleyball crown and by placing second to the Ramblers in fall codeball. The Ramblers captured the major league volleyball championship; second place in this sport was won by Kappa Delta Rho. The Sigma Chis added another trophy to their collection by defeating the Betas for the touch football title.

The Ramblers were winners of the major league basketball cup, with the Footballers runner-ups. The Betas won the minor league hardwood championship by defeating the Ramblers. Winner in the wrestling tourney was Sigma Alpha Epsilon; the Delts placed second in this sport. The Den Ten cindermen captured the indoor track trophy, while the S.A.E.s carried off second place honors.

Women's athletics at Indiana University embrace a variety of activities. Offered throughout the year are swimming, archery, volleyball, horseback riding, baseball, tennis, volleyball, basketball, speedball, hockey, deck tennis, golf, and modern, tap, and folk dancing.

Badminton was given for the first time this year. Also new is the Orientation class, required for Freshman women, which explains the need for physical education and explains the system of courses used in the University.

A number of improvements have been made in the Student Building, headquarters for the gymnastic activities, including a new recreation room, and a number of new showers. Last year, a swimming pool to be used exclusively by women students was installed.

Instructors in the Department of Physical Education are Prof. Edna Munro, head of the department, Prof. Clara Fedler, Prof. Helen Yeakel, Miss Helen Grant, Miss Eloise Chumley, and Miss Alice Garwood.

THE GREEK REVIEW

The last remnant of the ability to take and deal out the razzberries remains but in the much criticized halls of brotherhood. To those hallowed institutions described below we send a wish for their future good fortune and to them dedicate this section.

ACACIA

If "A" were not the first letter of the alphabet this house might not be first. At one time the Acacias claimed a relationship to the Masons. This has since been discontinued. Last year a boy was pledged who knew a Mason. After the novelty wore off he was ejected. They pledge the boys in front of that inlaid wood crest. After that Arnold shows the young 'uns how it's done on the campus in the wicked world of politics.

BETA THETA PI

For a while the Betas had the best knitting team in the conference but Charles Legeman sprained his thumb. The organization is said to indulge in other college sports besides dancing. Bud Mueller keeps them in condition with good, healthy victuals. The bigger guns are PG Silas Kivett, Marvin Huffman, and Rambling Rem Hiller. Roger Curry is a member; but they can't help it.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

In case anyone is interested, this house can be found between some Jewish fraternity and some sorority and between some street which runs in front of it and an alley in back. Howdy Wilcox manages to keep the campus well stirred up while Bogard attempts to steer the ATO ship on a straight course. The boys probably have the screwiest assortment of names on the campus—among which are Kopp and Robb; Hunter and Wolf; Weaver and Taylor; Jester and Horn; Foreman and Steele; Land and Graves; and Pot (t)s and Dewberries. Some fun. Enough words to write a book, or something.

DELTA CHI

When last heard of (Junior Prom Queen Election), the Delta Chi's had merged with the I. S. A. But that is only a rumor. They have succeeded in acquiring a good sized monopoly on the wrestling team. Their proudest achievement was some very clever Homecoming decorations. When the boys aren't waging war with the S. A. E. boys over prospective pledges, they're watching the antics of their neighbors, the Alpha Chi's.

DELTA TAU DELTA

The Delts might have one of the best looking panel of pictures in the book if it weren't for their prominent black sheep that appears in the lower right-hand corner. The boys amuse themselves by playing little games which include running around yelling "Suits" at each other. Otherwise they live in the glory of the multitudinous triumphs of E. G. "everybody knows him" Mauck.

DELTA UPSILON

The dew boys have a non-secret fraternity. It can't be secret and live next to the A. D. Pi's. At one time during the year a rumor was afloat that the frat would actually give a closed dance. Nothing developed. The boys are quite chesty about their corner on the activities market. A few of their better investments include Tipmore, Twyman, Chiddister, and those cut-ups, Johnson and Boxell. Their favorite amusements are making life miserable for the Lambda Chi's and the A. D. Pi's.

KAPPA ALPHA PSI

K. A. Psi is undoubtedly the best negro fraternity on the campus and dates in only the best negro sorority, the Alpha Kappa Alpha. The boys elected the dusky beauty of A. K. A., Mercedese Johnson, as queen of their frat for 1940. The cornerstone of K. A. Psi is Charlie Guess who has been around now for some six years and is due for a return engagement in '40-'41. The most outstanding suntanned social swimmers are Morris, Anderson, and Burnett.

KAPPA DELTA RHO

The K. D. R.'s live in an old white house with an uplifted face and are quite the boys now. Ginger Austin, president of the neighboring Tri Delts, says their worst habits are failing ever to pull down their shades to conceal their brawny bodies and playing froufrou music from their would-be orchestra at all times of the night. Hal Cook, who bears a striking resemblance to Ned Sparks, keeps activity drummed up around the mansion. Bannister, Jewett, and Booher are among the better boys hanging around. They say Bob McDonald is the Don Juan of the outfit.

KAPPA SIGMA

The Kappa Sig's live in the last house before Brown County and pretend to like it. A drive out to view their house is one of the favorite Sunday afternoon amusements of the University. The main talking point to rushees is the healthy exercise they all get walking to and from civilization.

Marvin Miller is being primed to take over the activity reins from PG Ted Fleming. The fellows like to sing and are pretty good at it. The University Sing and Gus's compete for their attentions.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

By rights that other Lambda Chi should be traced down and stood alongside his frat brother before a fair judgement can be made on the boys. Their environment between the D. U. house and the Jordan (no apparent difference) is not of the best, but their intentions are good. The greater part of the men in the gang are enrolled in the University. They live in a pretty house on a hill and have Uremovich. Otherwise it isn't their fault.

PHI DELTA THETA

The Phi Delts can be found living in the middle of a huge pasture that they call a lawn. Their best stock in trade to attract rushees are free views of the football games from their red roof. Included in the annual dues is a membership to the Y. M. C. A. Dick Herd is a famous member. Bob Weir is more sane. The Phi Delts pledged quite a few freshmen. Bill Sohl keeps up the prestige of the pledge class by dating in the Pi Phi house.

PHI GAMMA DELTA

The romantic guys and gals have been trying to move this outfit off the campus proper for years. Their playfulness is more effective than the Dean of Women in holding down the necking back of their house. Some of their more prominent members are Keck, Baillie, and Thomas who remind the campus that the Phi Gams are still around. Brooks and Val Nolan manage to guide the boys through their trials and tribulations. The Phi Gams make good grades. Half the faculty are Phi Gams.

PHI KAPPA

God's favored children are all segregated down in a little house on Sluss Street. These ex-Torch and Skullers are pretty new yet and having separated themselves from the general vicinity of the other castles of brotherhood, have managed thus far to keep their shirts pretty clean. Their dorm is probably the only one on campus which isn't full between 10 and 12 o'clock on Sunday mornings.

PHI KAPPA PSI

Technically the Phi Psi's pass the D. U.'s. They pass them every day twice: once in the morning when they go down to the Jordan for a Kentucky breakfast and again when they grope back at night. They enjoy the flattery of having the Kappas and Pi Phi's fight over them. Some people say the Phi Psi's own a radio. The Memorial Hall girls are convinced of it. Morrie Kelly and Sam Mitchell have been around for an awful long time now.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

When it comes to rush the S. A. E. gang is not as shrinking as its chosen flower—the violet. Each fall the survivors send out for another gross of pledge pins and start out to do what they can to the human race. It was at one time maintained that the S. A. E.'s stressed quality. However, the belief that they will pledge anyone is probably a bit overdrawn.

The boys keep themselves amused by listening to Dan Bretz's nonsense and Ray Sadler's Alabaman accent. In activities they have quite a few of the big ones including Findling, Hutton, Logan, and Bloom.

SIGMA CHI

The Sigs are most proud of their ability to date in the Theta house, and to run fast. Being a member of the Mrs. Baker groan circuit they exist on tough wieners, sauer-kraut, and navy bean soup. Some of their B. M. O. C.'s are Stiers, Cooper, and the Menke boys; Gus Browne is a "good boy". They hide Bassett when they're out to pledge someone.

SIGMA ALPHA MU

Adelman, Glassner, Rothberg, and Dieter wave the banner for these stalwarts. There is a rumor that Rothberg comes back to Bloomington to visit the boys and attend a class once in a while. The most strenuous activity they engage in all year is a knock-down and drag-out football game with the Phi B. D.'s for a keg of beer. Everybody gets excited except Finkle. He's tired.

SIGMA NU

The Bloomington fire department is a regular guest at the house. The fellows just love to toss lighted matches into waste paper baskets. The rumor that Freddy Morris was seen walking with a girl is just an out and out mean lie! The belief around campus is that the tune "Make all checks payable to Ward G" originated here. The Sig Nu's total assets are some old-fashioned dining room tables, a condemned house and Bob McConnell. Imagine—writing a whole paragraph without mentioning that second floor "we pledge 'em here" shower room.

They deserve your full patronage . . .

SIGMA PI

The Sig Pi's nearly killed each other in the rush last fall when they found a boy who wanted to pledge and didn't need a job. The brothers make no bones about their desire for athletes and have some pretty good ones in Cromer, Rucinski, and others. They say the ash trays at the house have a very striking resemblance to those formerly used at the Book Nook.

Uncle Walt is the guiding star of the frat par excellence. Young Smith is fast acquiring his brother's acumen for politics and appears to be the best future activities prospect. Having covered the Smith boys we've pretty well covered everything.

THETA CHI

The Theta Chi's spend most of their time putting out and taking back their pins, and keeping D. Bacon quiet. Their favorite sport consists of tossing each other in the Jordan River for the amusement of the surrounding feminine audience. The boys, too, like to display their athletic prowess to the Alpha Chi's by playing ping-pong on the front porch. They have Ellenwood, Fletcher, Devine and some more good fellows, but they still have Richardson.

Your Office Speaks -

WHAT WILL YOURS SAY ABOUT YOU?

Now, while you are planning your office, is the pertinent time to bear in mind that most of the patients who will come to you have, upon one or more occasions, visited some other dental office, and that the initial appointment with you is their opportunity to compare you and your office with other dentists and dental offices they have known.

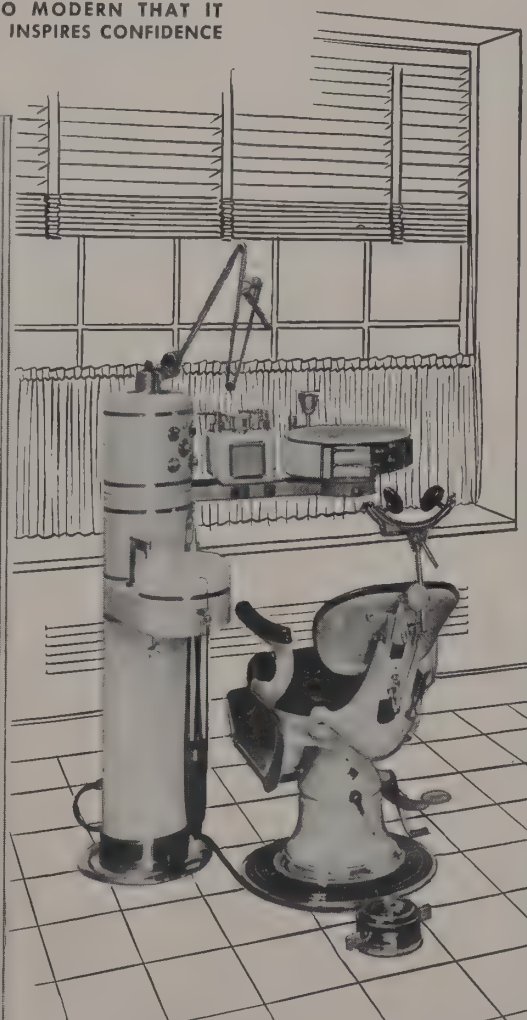

That you should strive to make these mental comparisons favor you is obvious, and it lies within your power to so mold them. How?

- 1 CORRECT PERSONAL APPEARANCE
- 2 AFFABLE MANNER
- 3 AN INVITING, TASTEFULLY FURNISHED, EFFICIENTLY ARRANGED OFFICE
- 4 OPERATING EQUIPMENT SO MODERN THAT IT COMMANDS ATTENTION AND INSPIRES CONFIDENCE

We can help you create an office that will assure your patients that you are prepared, and we extend a cordial invitation to use the services of our office planning division. This service is free and incurs no obligation of any nature.

PHOTOGRAPHY CONTEST

The first annual Arbutus photography contest was won by Louis Lind. His picture of the entrance to the Union Building, taken under the blaze of floodlights that play on it, was judged the best of the sixty entries by a committee of faculty and students. The committee was composed of John E. Stempel, head of the Department of Journalism; Lloyd Evans of the Extension Division; Prof. Harry Engel, Department of Fine Arts; Ralph Bruner, President of the Camera Club; Robert McConnell, Arbutus Staff Photographer; and Audrey Smith, Editor of the 1940 Arbutus.

Second place was awarded to Ross Fowler's shot of the carvings over the entrance to the Medical Building, while third prize was awarded to Charles Smith for his picture of the Music Building.

"IF I WERE an editor I'd make sure of two things—first, that my editorial experience would not make me lead a dog's life, and second, I'd not be consistently in the dog house with every one including my instructors because of my yearbook activity. My way would be to choose an outfit that does more than put their feet on my desk and pat me on the back. I'd call for Indeco service because it is complete and the best help an editor can get in producing an unusual annual within his budget. Ask the staff on this book if I'm not right."
